

CUB halts activity, SG freeze over

By Allison Hickey and Larry Striegel

The College Union Board (CUB) has suspended its activities because of a budget dispute involving the "freeze" applied to student government (SG) funds last week by Dr. Antonio Perez, dean of students.

The freeze was listed at a meeting between the financial board and President Linus Foy, Vice-President Edward Waters, and Perez on Friday when a compromise was made.

The compromise involves a financial mix-up between the administration, CUB, and the S.G. which dates back to September.

According to Dr. Perez, the CUB was supposed to be allocated $2,500 for freshmen orientation in addition to its regular budget of $27,350. Because the $2,500 allotted for the orientation was not in their budget, Fred Lambert, assistant dean of students shifted the money from the student government budget to that of the CUB. This reduced the S.G.'s allocation to $27,200 for the year.

Later in September the financial board cut all budgets by 15 percent. This cut affected all departments in the school. The student government was able to regain 10 percent of the cut after an appeal to the board. The CUB was reallocated 5 percent of their budget.

In November the student government said it would not give $5,000 to the football club as it had for the past eleven years. They claimed that they could not afford to fund the team and still appropriate money for the rest of their clubs.

That action led Dr. Perez to levy his freeze on the student government funds. He contended that the SG was reallocated the 10 percent with the understanding that they would fund club football.

At the meeting on Friday a compromise was made which said that the SG would try to cut back over $1,000 and that $1,250 would be taken from the CUB to partially make up the $5,000 for the football club. The remaining money would be paid from the budget of Dr. Perez. Also at the meeting Dr. Foy said that next year the student government would not be held responsible for funding the club football team.

On Tuesday the executive board of the CUB met and decided to suspend their activities because of the money being taken from their budget.

CUB Treasurer Tom McTernan explained that they were told that they would be allotted the $2,500 for orientation during the summer and that they will not be able to operate if the $1,250 is subtracted from their budget for the football team. "The reason for the suspension is so students become aware that CUB is being mistreated by the administration," said McTernan.

"It boils down to asking CUB to fund the football team," he continued. "We will not resume activities until we get student support and a guarantee that in

Dedication committee named

By Larry Striegel

A dedication committee of administrators, staff, faculty and students has been set up for the formal opening of the James J. McCann Recreation Center on Sunday, Apr. 17. The twelve member staff has begun planning for the opening, scheduled for Marist's spring parents' weekend.

A steering committee comprised of President Linus Foy; Athletic Director Ron Petro; Development Director Thomas Wade; and Shaileen Kopec, dedication coordinator, will oversee the project and approve budget and policy matters. The administrative members of the dedication committee are Alumni Director William Austin; Dolly Bodick, director of campus activities; Director of Admissions David Flynn; Assistant Dean of Students, Fred Lambert; Marti Madory, coordinator of communications; and John J. Dougherty, development consultant. Members of the athletic department on the committee are Sports Information Director Gary Caldwell; Howard Goldman, soccer coach; and Larry VanWagner, aquatic director.

Robert Norman was chosen to represent the faculty while seniors Gregory Tracy and Jay Metzger, both student-athletes, were picked at the recommendation of Petro and Austin. Senior Tim DeBaun will represent the student office. Ms. Kopec and Petro will serve on both committees.

Ms. Kopec said Parents' weekend was chosen for the dedication date because of its proximity between Easter and exams and "because it gives students the opportunity to in-

Heat costs $10,000 more

By Wendy Stark

Freezing temperatures and increased oil prices, have already cost Marist $10,000 more than last year to heat the school. This year twenty-two thousand and eighty-six more gallons of oil, which increased three cents a gallon, were burned than last year, said Andrew Pavelko, director of maintenance.

Pavelko said "$4,000 was spent renovating problem cold areas around campus. Maintenance bought 20 new heating units costing $240 each, and spent $500 on parts which were installed in second floor classrooms, on the northern side of Donnelly Hall." One hundred and fifty dollars was spent on rolls of plastic to in-

Regulated gym hours

By Pat Larkin

Hours for the use of the Marist college gym have been cut. Ron Petro, athletic director, said burglaries and vandalism in the locker rooms and weight room are the reason.

In the past the gym was open till almost 1 a.m. every night. The new hours have the gym closing at midnight Monday thru Thursday; Friday at 9 p.m.; Saturday at 6 p.m.; and at 7 p.m. on Sundays.

Petro said, "The gym is open for use by all students whenever an intercollegiate practice, game, physical education class or intramurals is not in session. Let's start here and see what happens." He said he will be willing to change the hours if there is a need.

The most recent burglary took place the last weekend in January. Basketball uniforms and three basketballs were stolen from the gym office. The loss amounted to $400.

Joe Waters, security director, said the burglary is under investigation by the town of Poughkeepsie police and Marist security.

A major problem is the constant use of the gym by non-Marist students. Many times Marist students are left standing by the sidelines as people from surrounding towns play.

Petro said Marist students should have first choice towards the use of the gym. He described the situation as "lameduck." He said there is no way to keep the outsiders from using the gym unless someone is placed at the door to check ID's. There is a shortage of money in the work study program and it would be difficult to pay someone to sit at the door. Also, if someone must be placed at the door, Petro said, "we must submit policy for rules and regulations."

Petro said ID's will have to be shown when the McCann Recreation Center opens. The center will also have regulated hours.

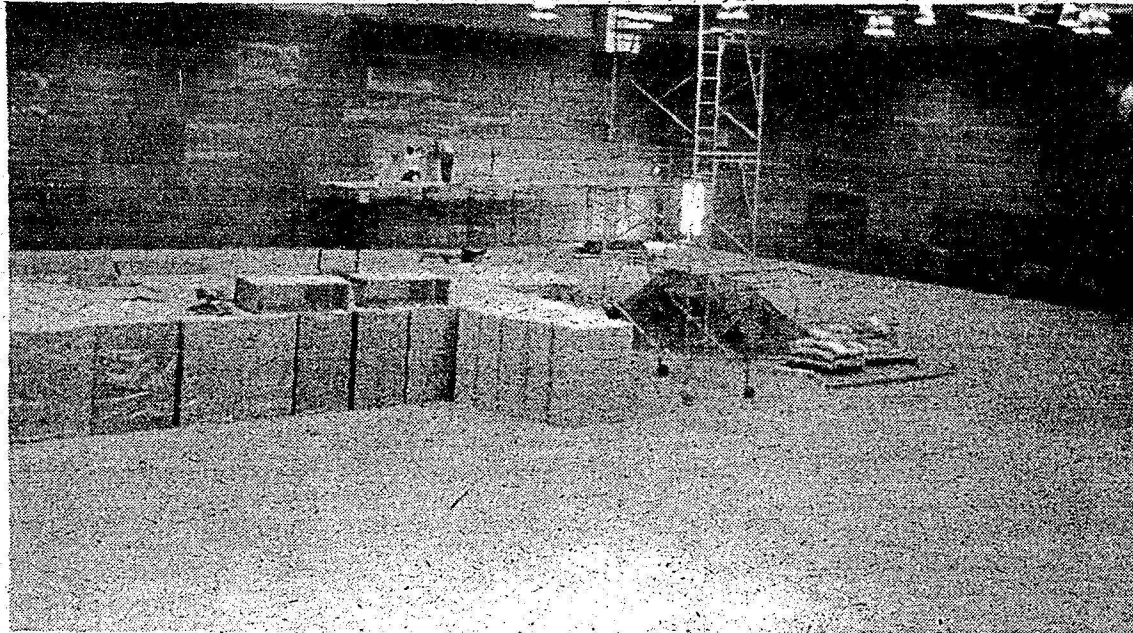

Several Marist students gave their views on the cutback in hours and the use of the gym by outsiders:

John McCarthy: "They're not working to solve the problem, they're merely avoiding it; and in so doing the resident students cramped weekend is being cramped even more."

Dave Koper: They're aren't many worthwhile activities on this campus in the first place. Now with the limited opening of the gym and library on the weekend, I think the administration should work out some better deals for us at the bars, since this is the only avenue left open to us."

Mike Cockburn: It's ridiculous. The old gym in relation to any other gym is a piece of garbage, and about the only thing that made it worthwhile was you could go over any time you wanted. We should get student volunteers to work with security to keep things in order.

Matthew Houle: It really is hideous that a gym that we have been using is going to have outrageous restrictions on its availability. Not only do we have to put up with a grade z, sweat ridden gym, but now we have to go to the so called gym when they feel we should.

Dr. Perez proposes to cut residence staffers

By Regina Clarkin

Beginning next semester there will be no resident coordinator positions said Dr. Perez, dean of students. Five full time people will be hired to become resident directors of Gregory and Benoit Houses and Sheehan, Leo and Champagnat Hall. Gregory, Benoit and Sheehan director positions will be filled by intern students working toward doctorate degrees from various schools around the country.

These new directors will work during the day in the counseling office, the career development office and with the activities personnel. In addition to credits from each person's respective school the new residence directors will receive a stipend of $2,800.

Two people will be hired as full time housemasters of Leo Hall and Champagnat Hall. According to Perez the Leo housemaster will receive a salary between $7,500 and $8,500 and the Champagnat housemaster will receive between $8,500 and $9,500.

According to Perez these new people will provide more help to resident advisors because they will be full-time professional resident directors. "They will be sleeping and eating here. They will be in constant contact with the students," said Perez.

In reference to the resident coordinator jobs Perez said he was "not trying to take jobs away. I'm trying to set up structures to benefit all students."

We pay three times for fun

With the suspension of CUB activities, resident students have been assaulted once more. During the past weekend there was only one activity sponsored on campus. It was a percussion ensemble which played its classical music in the campus theater. Although it would be nice to think that students would be happy to attend an event of this type, realistically it just isn't so.

To top this off the hours in the gym were chopped, leaving only the ping pong and pool tables for Sheehan Hall residents to amuse themselves.

Sure, we could probably study, but we've been doing that all week and if we get into that habit then who really cares if the McCann Center gets done or not?

Because there are no activities Marist residents have two popular diversions. The first is to go home and help make Marist a "suitcase college." (It's happening too). The second is to drink beer, get drunk, and destroy. When that happens we end up paying three times: once for beer, again for an activity fee, and again for the destroyed property.

The CIRCLE asks on behalf of our students that administrators work out the financial problems soon. True, next year we'll be grateful to have the McCann center to keep us busy, but what about the time being?

Pay our own

It has come to the attention of the CIRCLE editors that beginning next semester there will be no resident coordinator positions. This will eliminate eight student salaried jobs. According to Dean Perez these student positions will be filled by graduate students from other colleges.

The editors can not understand why Dean Perez wants to replace Marist students with outside students. A resident student is paying four thousand dollars each year to be educated here. Jobs such as RC can make a difference in being able to afford this school.

Certainly graduate students would have a lot to offer our school, as far as new ideas go. And they would also provide some needed maturity. But if Marist is to educate, why not teach responsibility to its own? We're young and have ideas too!

Announcements

Commuters Meeting

There will be a Commuter Union meeting on Friday at 2:15 p.m. in the Browning Library, Campus Center. All commuters are encouraged to attend.

Help Needed

Anyone interested in any technical aspect of the Children's Theatre production, "Winnie the Pooh" please see Vinny Capozzi, Sheehan 215, Winnie Saitta, C-629, or Gino DiMartino, L 109. This will entail lighting, set construction, music, sound, house management, costume and makeup.

Accountable?

As a concerned Marist student, I am confused and annoyed over the continuous destruction of college property by Marist students. It seems as quickly as the college supplies the funds to fix the holes in the walls, clean the stink of beer from the elevators and carpeting or the broken glass in the entrance ways of the dorms, and various other damages throughout the campus, the students just as quickly demonstrate their keen sense of delinquency and vandalism. Don't students take pride in the dorms? Were we to visit those students' homes, would we ever see this kind of destruction en masse?

What kind of mentality are we dealing with when students direct their interests in destroying college property and consequently, raise tuition and college costs which, in turn, the total student body suffers from financially? Besides the very practical side of the issue, that being, raising college costs in general, what is the why of it all?

The maintenance staff returns on Monday to find their week's work ahead - not only removing garbage and cleaning the bathrooms, but returning the dorms to some form of cleanliness and decency after wallpaper has been ripped off the walls, after doors have been kicked in, after a dorm floor has been "flooded" and lounge furniture destroyed.

The issue and questions to be faced are when will it stop? Who is going to keep paying for the damage? When will Marist College start making people accountable for their actions?

Sincerely,
Sherry Smith

One Sided

To the Editor:

With regards to your article concerning Gregory House it is my suggestion that the CIRCLE be more realistic than idealistic in its reporting. It has been my impression that a college newspaper is above perpetuating campus myths no matter how respected or time honored by the academic administration.

I felt that the article was both short sighted and overly entrenched by the dated and long gone concepts of this residence facility.

Thank you for your time.

R.J. Morley
Former Gregory House Resident

Dear Doctor

Dear Dr. Perez:

Once again I feel I must question the actions of your office with respect to the two decisions reported in this week's CIRCLE (3 February, 1977).

To begin with, your decision with regard to the football team and Student Government is, at best, unbelievable. I see absolutely no concern shown for the students at Marist or the football team.

First of all, by "requesting" Student Government to partially fund the football team, I feel that Marist is neglecting its responsibility to directly support this activity, via the Athletic Department.

Secondly, I fail to see your reasoning in first cutting back on the additional funds allotted Student Government and then freezing the. Your actions hardly suggest that you are acting on behalf of the students. All I see is a constant attempt to force the Student Government, and thereby the students, into complying with the administration's wishes.

I can only say that your apparent lack of honest and constructive concern with respect to the student body is most disturbing. At a time when the administration and students should be working to build up a strong community and sense of cooperation, you seem to continually make decisions which tend to alienate students from the administration. I honestly feel you should re-consider your present methods of arriving at decisions.

I hope that in the near future you will re-consider your decision making process and work towards unifying the Marist community; students, faculty, staff and administration, and not alienating the students from the community.

Sincerely,
Michael Dwulit

No fun

To the Editor:

Every semester upon arrival, each student pays $30 for a gym activity fee. I would like to know what the fee entitles me as a student. Students supply their own basketballs and the weight room is in disrepair; from neglect and possible abuse. There are no longer any mats for judo, karate, etc.

Also, now with the new hours of the gym it is less available for the students. Why is it closed at 6 p.m. on Saturdays? Marist seems to have a problem with double meaning. Students are accused of having a drinking problem, but now the gym is closed on weekend nights.

Lastly, all I am asking for is use of the facility which I am paying for while the new facility, which I am also paying for is being completed.

Yours truly,
Ray Alberts

Save pigskin

Dear Editors,

I strongly disagree with your editorial supporting the student government's plan to stop funding the football club. The football club is the largest club at Marist and through their own activities last year they were able to raise $11,000 towards paying their own bills. The $5,000 they get from the student government is vital to their operation. I don't think the editors realize all that would be involved if the athletic department were to take over the football team.

Does this mean there will be no football at Marist? It would be a shame to lose one of the few first rate organizations Marist has.

The editors should also realize the implications this decision has on other clubs including the CIRCLE. Next year the student government could decide to stop funding the CIRCLE.

All this means is someone HAS to fund the football team and for the time being it probably should be the student government. Please don't let Marist lose one of the few things it has to be proud of. A lot of people have worked too hard.

Sincerely,
Ken Healy

Keep gridiron

Dear Editor:

In reference to the issue of the Student Government cutting $5,000 off the Marist Football Club's budget I feel that if it's not the student government then someone else should help fund the team. As a member of the Marist Vikings, I know that the players are very dedicated to the game. The team itself raised $10,000 this year. Being a transfer student from Brockport State I realize how important this football club is to a small school like Marist. In my opinion, it would be a shame to see the largest club on campus disintegrate.

Sincerely,
Charley Bender

Aid Vikes

Dear Editor:

This letter regards the future funding of the Marist College Football Club. Recently there has been a dispute over whether the student government or the athletic department should fund the club. As a member of the club

I do not take the side of either the athletic department or the student government, but I do believe that the football club must be funded. We are the biggest club on campus, having 75 members, and we are the only club to raise money to help its own cause. This year the football club raised ten thousand dollars through raffles and ticket sales.

Also, each player must pay forty dollars to cover his own insurance. The football club is the premier club on campus, and to cut off our funds would surely destroy us after our thirteen years of existence. To all those concerned, please do not allow a club as important as ours to die.

Sincerely,
Bob Daniele

Curfew riot

To the Editor:

Last week's article about curfews for students under academic probation was a real riot. This, along with such related incidents as banned refrigerators, Christmas trees, etc., made us even more glad for moving off campus after 2 1/2 years of residency. Imagine someone paying over four grand a year to study at an institution, which in turn openly punishes that person if he or she achieves supposed substandard grades.

When are the administrators who govern campus "life" going to stop playing house? If the problem is immaturity, will treating them as babies make them more mature? Students should learn to be responsible for themselves. When they go out on their own there won't be any security desks or cumulative indexes to keep their daily performance in check. Grow up, Marist. You're dealing with individuals (yes, even those with cum's of less than 1.750000000) whose days of being spanked are long gone.

Campilli denies refunds on activity fee refunds

By Ken Healy, Wendy Stark

The $60 per year student activity fee which was increased this year by $20 to "help defray the operational cost of the McCann Recreation Center," won't be refunded, even though the center will get little use, should it open April 17, as planned, said Anthony Campilli, business manager.

"The fee isn't a one on one relationship. The activity fee covers a variety of activities, not just those related to the center" said Campilli.

Operating costs still have to be paid regardless of whether the center is open, he said. Marist has spent $46,000 for utilities from September 1976 to December 31.

Week In Review

By Suzanne Breen

President Carter has asked Congress for the authority to restructure the Federal government. The move is to promote efficiency within the super structure. Carter wants the power to eliminate or consolidate agencies, except for Cabinet departments, when he feels the need with only Congress' approval. This request may cause serious conflicts within Congress' democratic party.

President Carter signed into law, emergency legislation to lift Federal price controls on natural gas. This has started a daily flow of gas to New York and other eastern states.

The unemployment rate for the nation dropped sharply from December 1976 to January 1977. The decline was from 7.8 percent or 7 1/2 million out of work to 7.3 percent or a little under seven million. These do not include the past months cold weather layoffs.

Philip A. Gruccio, New Jersey Supreme Court Judge ruled in a case that in the future adopted adults should have easier access to their original birth certificates, if the adults have an emotional need to know who their "birth parents" were.

Radio class sells ads for WMCR

Students of the Marist College advanced radio class will sell advertising air-time beginning upon the arrival of Federal Communication Commission contracts. By working with WMCR the 30 class members will get some practical sales experience in radio advertising in addition to providing the station with funds.

Lou Pells, instructor of the radio course, stated that the sales campaign will be directed to merchants who supply "services to the students which are basically food, clothing, and entertainment" and will be a good learning experience regardless of any profit.

Last semester the students prepared simulated sales advertisement but now due to the combined efforts of WMCR and Marist faculty they can benefit from the real soliciting of community merchants. Pells explained "Assignments will be given to groups of two, they will present the merchant with an

Honan resigns post

By Rosie Nguyen

Jim Honan, inter-house council president, resigned on January 17, 1977 to become coordinator of the campus volunteer program, because his new position would require full concentration and time. "I've had a lot of experience on campus, and now I want to get involved in the community," says Honan.

Under supervision of the campus ministry council, a group that coordinates ministry activities on campus, the program serves the community by helping senior citizens and children's homes, and tutoring students. It presently has 30 members and works through individual participation.

Honan intends to develop the program into an organization on campus by offering students the opportunity to work in the community. "If we can get

Since the activity fees alone cannot pay the operating expense, Campilli said the center will be rented out to area groups. The McCann Foundation, which is paying for a large part of the facility, stipulated that the center be available to area groups.

people to reach out beyond campus, then they may see that there is life on campus. When working in the community, off campus, the focus is a lot wider," says Honan.

Honan will spend this semester setting up volunteer locations throughout the community by contacting churches, homes and centers by letters and phone calls. He plans to eventually have a volunteer program at Marist in which students can receive credits.

Replacement for Inter-House Council president will be decided by the council. Jeff Blanchard has replaced Honan as the Gregory House representative. Honan views his past role as an "experience" and states that the council is going through a state of transition, with several issues to be dealt with in the months ahead.

Conway new V.P.

By Pat Larkin

Paul Conway has been appointed the new College Union Board (CUB) vice president, by CUB president John Dowling. Conway replaces Mike Carney, who dropped out of school.

Conway, a Marist College junior from Bayside, Queens, worked with Dolly Madison, coordinator of college activities, on the planning of spring weekend for parents. Dolly Madison recommended Conway to Dowling who then appointed Conway vice president.

Conway will be in charge of advertising of CUB activities. He is in charge of the Cubicle, a monthly report of activities on campus. He is also responsible for keeping the bulletin boards in the campus center up to date.

Conway says he hopes to improve the publicizing of CUB events. He feels the students have received too short notice on events in the past. Conway is planning to improve the image of CUB. He says he wants to make students aware that CUB is not just a social part of the campus.

Conway is the fourth person that has been appointed the vice presidency position this year. Lisa Voerman was elected in the spring of '76, but she did not return to Marist in the fall. Tom Murphy was appointed by Dowling but he resigned.

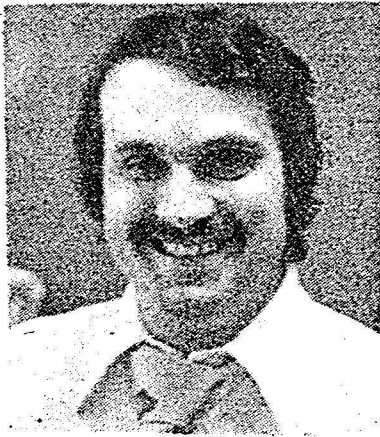

Conway must run for office this semester if he wants to keep his position next year.

Lurenz talks back

In last week's Questioning Cameraperson seven out of eight students said the SAGA Dining Service used in the past was better than the Marist Food Service which went into service last semester. Joe Lurenz, food service director, was asked about the comments.

"I've spoken to some of the students who made the comments," said Lurenz. "They told me that breakfast and lunch have been good, but that the problem is dinner. Since then we've come up with some new entrees."

Lurenz said that the workers in the food service have been doing their best to please the students, but that they need feedback in order to improve the service. "The food committee meets every Tuesday at 2:30 in the dining hall and all students are welcome to make suggestions. To please them we have to know what they want. Some students have come in my office with valid complaints and we've tried our best to respond. We have an open door policy and we wish people would use it."

He added that after operating costs he is allotted $2.90 to supply three meals a day for every student. "We have a tough job, and if students won't tell us their problems then it is hard to know what they want. We want to listen, and we want their answers."

She said the committee is trying to get a sports-related celebrity for the dedication. Members will also be working on invitations, registration, parking, and seating arrangements for the event.

According to a report submitted by Ms. Kopec to the committee, several suggestions have been made by the steering committee "to enhance the occasion of the dedication." Some are the "scheduling of a major sporting event that would highlight the Center's capacity;" and the "Publication of a special supplement to the Poughkeepsie Journal."

Ms. Kopec said the dedication will be open to the public. Special invitations will be sent to groups associated with Marist. "It is an important occasion, and we want to involve as many as possible in the community," she said. "We'd like it to be a very happy occasion for everybody."

Lowered ceilings were installed in the campus center for more effective heating. The false ceilings serve as insulation between the room and the roof, said Pavelko.

The drafts in the cafeteria are due to the floor length windows.

"The coldness is a problem because we can't put heating units under the windows" he said.

"We could put plastic on the windows in the cafeteria, but it would give an unprofessional appearance. The professional way is to get heavier curtains on the windows," Pavelko said.

Students of the radio class, who are also required to work at a radio station, responded to the assignment with mixed emotions but expressed the opinion that the actual sales presentation would have a greater effect on their grade rather than the number of sales made.

Vincent Capozzi, general manager of WMCR, stated that he hoped "to make a revenue of $200 dollars, an amount he considered realistic. Due to the potentially small listening audience the advertising rates are modest with the starting point of 30 seconds costing $2.00 with every additional 30 seconds costing a little less. For example, 60 seconds would cost $3.50 and so on. The money will be used to improve WMCR by purchasing more sophisticated equipment. Capozzi stated that he was not worried about possible effects the advertising might have on other college media involved in advertising but stated that he did think "a radio station has the upper hand than the print media."

Cagers upset Monmouth High On Sports

By Thomas McTernan

By Tom McTernan

As far as the varsity basketball team is concerned, Saturday night marked the beginning of a new season as they rallied to stun Monmouth 79-77 at Dutchess Community College.

The upset was sandwiched between CACC wins over Ramapo (95-78) and Concordia (83-61) that represent Marist's biggest victory margins of the season. But neither of those are in the same class as Monmouth, the nation's second-ranked team in Division III, and the Red Foxes responded with their most impressive performance in over a year.

Monmouth, leading 44-37 at the half, had moved in front 59-47 with 12:05 remaining. But the Red Foxes, led by guard Glynn Berry and center Neil Lajeunesse, staged an incredible 30-13 comeback spurt that propelled them to a 77-72 lead with 1:36 left.

Lajeunesse, who finished with 19 points and a good defensive job on Hawk center Bob Wymbs, scored six of the eight straight Marist points that started the rally and made it 59-55.

With 7:42 to go, Berry converted a pass from John Moro to pull Marist within 65-63. Berry, scoring 32 points in his best outing since regaining eligibility last month, narrowed it to 72-71 three minutes later on a 15-foot baseline jumper. Moments later Moro rebounded a Hawk miss and Ollie Jones fed Berry for a layup to give the Red Foxes their first lead of the game.

A 20-footer by Jones and two foul shots by Berry then widened it to 77-72.

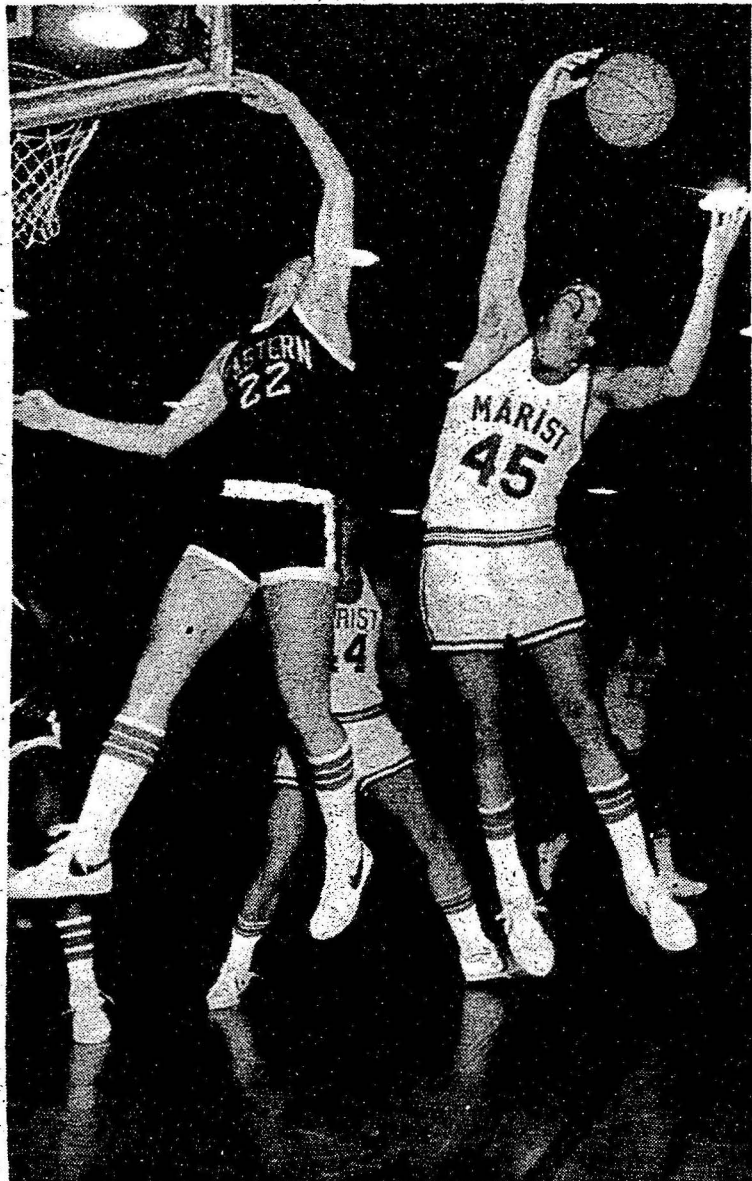

But the 13-5 Hawks would not give up as they reversed the momentum with five straight points that tied it at 77-77 on a foul shot by sub Al Bennett as the clock read :34.

Berry then pulled it out by drawing a foul by Dr. J. Hill and sinking both ends of the one-and-one situation with just 16 seconds remaining.

Coach Ron Petro felt a win like this was a long time coming. "We are starting to believe in ourselves that we can do it. In the second half we did a good job on defense, hustled after loose balls and we were hitting the open man on offense."

After shooting just 14 for 35 (40 percent) in the first half, the Red Foxes turned it around with 18 for 31 (58 percent) in the final twenty minutes. Berry (13 for 22) and Lajeunesse (8 for 13) were the top shooters for Marist. Bill Terry topped Monmouth with 21 points.

The Red Foxes gave a preview of the big game in Thursday's win over Ramapo. Marist ran off to a 26-10 lead after nine minutes and coasted with a double-digit lead the rest of the way.

Walt Janeczek led the first-half surge with 17 of his 19 points, while Berry took up the scoring in the second half and finished as the high scorer with 24, shooting 11-for-17.

Marist stretched their longest winning streak of the season to three with Tuesday's win over Concordia here. It was the first varsity game to be held in the old Marist gym in 13 years and also the last, with the completion of the McCann Recreation Center.

The Red Foxes were anywhere but home in the early going as Concordia scored the first six points and held a 12-7 lead after six minutes. But Moro then got hot from outside and Berry added two baseline jumpers for a 12-0 Red Fox string and a 19-12 lead midway through the half.

Never looking back, Marist opened a 38-22 halftime lead and the reserves came in early to enjoy their longest playing time of the season. Consequently, Berry took scoring honors with just 13 points followed by John McKee and Mike Sheldon with 11 apiece.

"We didn't play well at the start," noted Petro. "But it was really just a matter of time before we took control. We just seemed nervous and took awhile to adjust."

Tonight (8 p.m.) the Red Foxes will face New Paltz at Lourdes, then return to Dutchess Saturday (8 p.m.) for their season home finale against Dowling. The game will also be Marist's final game ever in both the CACC and DCC's Falcon Hall. The Red Foxes will be seeking another upset while Dowling, which has virtually clinched the conference title once again, hopes to finish its CACC schedule unbeaten.

Next Marist will travel to Loudonville to play Siena.

SOCCER TEAM UNDEFEATED IN GERMANIA TOURNEY

Zenone Naitza, a 25-goal scorer outdoors in the fall, proved he was just as effective indoors with three goals in the opening round of the Germania Indoor Tournament at Dutchess CC Sunday.

Led by Naitza, Marist won two straight games to advance to Sunday's concluding round of the double elimination tournament.

Zenone scored both Red Fox goals in the 2-0 win over Rhinebeck, then teamed with Vito Aprigliano as Marist edged the Germania Old Timers 2-1.

The Red Foxes will meet the Germania Reserves, the defending tourney champs, in their first game Sunday. The winner will advance to the tourney finals.

Coach Howard "Doc" Goldman was pleased with his team's overall play but added, "We could play better." He feels that Marist is one of the quickest teams in the field but also noted that the Red Foxes were one of the least experienced in the indoor version of the game. This could be the key to the team's chances to win their second straight tournament, as they won the ECAC tourney held here last fall.

The final round will get underway Sunday at 1 p.m.

FRESHMAN TO BOX AT FELT FORUM TUESDAY

Joey Lavin, a freshman at Marist, won his second straight match in the annual New York Golden Gloves competition Monday night. The win came when the referee stopped the fight in the second of three scheduled rounds in the 160-lb. sub-novice division at the Sunnyside Garden in Queens.

Lavin is next scheduled to fight Tuesday night in the Felt Forum.

BERRY NAMED ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Glynn Berry, a junior from Brooklyn, N.Y., has been named Marist College Athlete of the Week for the week ending February 5.

Berry, top-scoring guard on the varsity basketball team, capped a 32-point seven-rebound performance by sinking the deciding free throws in Saturday's 79-77 upset over Monmouth. Last Thursday he led Marist to the 95-78 win over Ramapo with 24 points and seven rebounds.

INTRAMURAL ROUNDUP

The five-way tie for first place in five-man basketball was broken Monday night when the "Rednecks" edged "Ace Heads I" 52-50. Kevin Wolff and Phil Cotennec led a balanced attack with 12 and 11 points, respectively. Jeff Hackett led the losers with 20 points.

The "Rednecks" won their previous outing 62-34 over "A.W.T." last Thursday despite 19 points by Jack McGinley.

In other Monday games, Cecil Hutchinson poured in 28 second-half points as the "no-Mads" demolished the "Hobbits" 87-32. Mario LaPaix contributed 17 points and Doc Morrison 15 for the winners.

The "Sprockeyes" stayed tied for the first following their 53-42 decision over the "Boys". John McCarthy paced the victors with 18 points while Peter Baudouin had 19 points in the losing effort.

NOTES FROM THE SPORTS DESK

Neil Lajeunesse, whose dunk against Monmouth was the first in Marist history, was named to last week's ECAC Division III weekly all-star team. He had scored 78 points and grabbed 33 rebounds in games with Ramapo, Sacred Heart, and Eastern Connecticut... Lajeunesse is the only Marist player among the leaders in the CACC statistics released last week. The 6-6 center is fourth in scoring (18.6 ppg.) and third in rebounding (10.3 avg.)... Nyack had two category leaders in Joe Ricke (25.0 scoring average) and Bruce Haggerty (8.7 assists average). Other leaders were Dave Nelson of Bloomfield (13.5 rebounds per game), Paul Blinn of Dowling (13.5 percent field goal percentage) and Eric Bergstol of Kings (84.4 percent free throw percentage)... Marist supporters at the Monmouth game were very vocal despite small numbers. In fact coach Ron Petro said to them after the game, "You guys won it for us." There should be a packed house for Dowling Saturday at Dutchess. The J.V. beat Bard 98-70 in the preliminary game to boost their record to 6-5...

All those involved and interested in the future of cross-country and track at Marist are urged to attend a special briefing by coach Rich Stevens. The 15-minute talk will be held next Wednesday in Campus Center Room 249 at 9:15 p.m.

Women prepare for final games

By Tom McTernan

Most teams dislike a layoff at this stage of the season but not the women's basketball team, whose assortment of injuries has impaired the team's chances in recent games.

The Red Foxes took a 3-8 record to West Point yesterday following a 62-42 loss to Ramapo here a week ago.

"This layoff will help some of our injured players, especially Dena (Kenny) and Robin (Smallwood)," coach Eillen Witt explained. "We want to have everyone back so we can win our final two games against Concordia and Manhattan."

Smallwood was unable to suit up for the Ramapo game, in which Marist fell behind 21-9 after ten minutes. The Red Foxes did rally to pull within 23-17 with 5:45 left in the half; but then scored just one more basket to trail 39-19 at halftime. Despite another rally late in the game, the deficit was too large to overcome.

"Our press was giving us several good opportunities," said Witt. "But we just didn't make our shots consistently. In the second half we tried but we were just too far back."

High scorer for Marist was Wanda Glenn with 17 points and 16 rebounds. She received support from Ann Goger (12 points) and Mary Harold (8).

The women are off until next Thursday when they travel to Bronxville to face Concordia.
