

L.T. OLDS-FISHER FRIDAY JULY 5, 1963

Good Evening Everybody:

At the mention of Chuck McKinley, many American tennis fans tonite may feel like rising for a chorus of "San Antonio Rose". Chuck, who hails from the Lone Star city - is indeed a rose tonight. Top man in the world of tennis - after his smashing victory at Wimbledon. McKinley today taking Fred Stolle of Australia - in straight sets.

The first time in eight years for an American to win the men's singles at Britain's famous tennis mecca at Wimbledon. Tony Trabert the last to do it back in nineteen fifty-five. Tonite a new king - Chuck McKinley of San Antone.

IDEOLOGY

There's something symbolic about the place - where the ideological conference is being held. First of all, the building is called - "The House of Welcomes" but the Chinese Reds didn't get much of a welcome - on their arrival in Moscow. The highest Soviet official at the airport - Mikhail Suslov, who had to be there since he's the top Soviet negotiator at this conference. As for the Soviet papers - they completely ignored the arrival of the Chinese. Surely a deliberate snub - for Izvestia didn't go to press for four hours after the Chinese Reds landed. Not much of a welcome for the Peking comrades - in Russia's "House of Welcomes".

The second symbol - the Lenin Hills outside Moscow. That's where the "House of Welcomes" is located. And, Lenin is the key to the dispute between the Red Giants. Each, claiming that the other - has betrayed the founder of Bolshevism.

At any rate we would all give a lot to know what's being said inside the "House of Welcomes".

COMMUNISM FOLLOW IDEOLOGY

To see how complicated the dispute is - consider Rumania. The Rumanians refused to send a delegate - to Khrushchev's Red summit conference in East Berlin. Bucharest, becoming recalcitrant - because of Khrushchev's economic plans for Eastern Europe. And today the Rumanian Ambassador to Peking - had a long talk with Chou En Lai. Chou, the Red Chinese Premier - who has been a key figure in challenging Moscow. Peking says that talk was - "most cordial".

Is Rumania to be separated from Red China - by the Soviet Union? Like Albania way over on the Adriatic? Both seem to be supporting Mao Tse Tung - against Khrushchev.

KENNEDY

President Kennedy at the vacation White House in Hyannisport - but transacting some business. For one thing a message to Moscow. The President replying to Khrushchev's July Fourth message, telling the Boss of the Kremlin that we too want peace - if it can be had without giving up our essential interests.

The President also is wrestling with - the problem of the railroads, talking with Secretary Wirtz - about how to avoid a railroad strike.

Also felicitations to his brother, his sister-in-law and his new nephew.

CIVIL RIGHTS

The N A A C P is not going to apologise to the Mayor of Chicago. No regrets to Mayor Daley who was shouted down when he attempted to address a rally at Grant Park, and - finally gave up, leaving - amid boos and catcalls.

Today's session voted - to forget about the episode. Go on to - activist plans to continue the civil rights campaign. Which they pledge to do - by every constitutional means.

Secretary Roy Wilkins flatly denies - that the hecklers belonged to the N A A C P. Mayor Daley himself says he's sure - that he was silenced by a clique of Republicans. Will there be an apology from the G O P ?

BRITISH GUINEA

A government decree in Georgetown is the tip off on the situation in British Guinea. From now on, anyone convicted of looting - will receive a mandatory life sentence. Anyone caught stealing from government warehouses - will be whipped. Beaten - with a cat-on-nine tails.

All of which shows how far British Guiana has slipped - from the control of Red Premier Jagan. Domestic Chaos, resulting from - the general strike. Leading to savage rioting - between negroes and East Indians. Mobs bursting into stores and warehouses - in search of food.

Even Jagan can't have much hope of restoring order - through Draconian laws. His best hope now appears to be Her Majesty's Coldstream Guards.

DE GAULLE

The joint communique issued in Bonn is significant for what it does - and does not - say.

De Gaulle and Adenauer, declaring - that they stand firmly behind Nato. The two European leaders, admitting - that Europe must maintain the forces on which the common safety depends. Which sounds more like Adenauer - than De Gaulle.

But there is an eloquent silence - about British membership in the Common Market. Obviously, Adenauer could not convince De Gaulle - that Britain should enter the economic union of nations. At the same time, the German Chancellor says he still hopes. But, tonight no statement on that.

GAS

If your home became a potential bomb today - you must be living in Woburn, Massachusetts. And if you're puzzled about it - here's what happened.

A broken valve allowed millions of cubic feet of gas - to enter the city pipes. That gas, racing through the pipes - into thousands of ovens, putting out pilot lights - and seeping through kitchens.

They say - homes were turned into potential bombs. Would have exploded if someone had struck a match. Fortunately - no one did. The valve was repaired in time to prevent a catastrophe - in Woburn, Massachusetts.

JAPAN

The latest Japanese gadget - sounds as if it might be useful. Just the thing - for the gift-hunting husband or boyfriend. A mechanical brain - in a department store. You ask it for suggestions, by pushing a button - and out comes the answer.

For instance the question "What should I buy for two thousand yen - for my 18 year old girlfriend. The mechanical brain handles that one - like an Einstein. The wheels buzz, the levers bounce up and down - and the answer is, "Imported perfume".

Dick, in Tokyo the girls seem pleased. If their boyfriends don't understand women, the mechanical brain does - so they say.

VOYAGE

Bill Willis of New York - is off for Australia. Which might not be much of a story - except for Bill's method of crossing the Pacific. He's sailing aboard a raft - a wooden deck on steel pontoons. On it a small cabin, a store of food - and three barrels of water. He hopes to make it all the way to Australia by October.

A Peruvian tug towed the raft - out into the Humboldt Current this morning. And tonight Bill Willis is floating West from the coast of South America - headed for Australia, a thirteen thousand mile voyage.

The five Sherpas - Tibetans who live in Nepal - represent a team of thirty-seven guides employed by the expedition.

Several 'firsts' were achieved by the climbers - last May. It was the first ascent of Everest - by an American. The first dual assault - by two teams. The first ascent of the West Ridge -
