Paris again - Round Two; with Henry Kissinger - again conferring with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. Today's session lasting four-and-a-half hours.

As to what went on - no official comment. However, the White House later disclosing - that Kissinger will travel to Brussels tomorrow; there to confer briefly with President Suharto of Indonesia - before returning to Paris for more talks.

The White House further noted that Indonesia is one of four countries of tentatively chosen to police the cease-fire in Vietnam, if and when. Adding that this is, indeed - the reason for Kissinger's side-trip.

Governor Rockefeller of New York - a visitor today

Camp David; where he conferred with President Nixon on the latter's plans for remodeling the Federal government.

White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler leter stressed, however - that Governor Rockefeller is not about to become a Cabinet member. "I can't be more direct" said Ziegler - except to say that Rockefeller "was not here to talk about a Cabinet post."

In the Middle East - Israeli and Syrian forces

agoin battled today across the occupied Golan Heights; a series of long-range duels - involving tanks, heavy artillery and repeated air strikes. The heaviest fighting we greated in more than two years.

And it was Israel apparently - that started it all.

Another attempt - we are told - to persuade the Syrians to curb guerilla marauders. An Israeli spokesman later saying: "We know our message has been clear enough - but we dot brow if it has been loud enough."

At Geneva today - the start of second-round SALT talks; with Gerard Smith for the U.S. - reading a special letter from President Nixon; a letter calling the new round of talks & even more vital than the first; dealing as it does with offensive - as opposed to defensive weapons.

The President expressed confidence, however - that Cambas Smith's "current efforts will meet with new success."

Further telling Smith: "As you and your Soviet colleagues begin a new round of discussions, you have with you the hopes of all the American people - and, indeed, the hopes of all mankind."

This - according to Billy Graham's Crusade Director,

Dr. Walter Smyth - "the greatest reception" he has ever received. Dr. Smyth also saying - that Billy Graham is looked on "as a hol; man." But a local clergyman going even further. Said he: "It is like the second coming of Jeans Christ."

NEW DELHI FOLLOW KOHIMA

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, a bitter Parliamentary debate on measures aimed at ending India's caste system.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi - finally intervening. Saying of the caste system: "Whatever its justification at the time of its origin - it is now doing incalculable damage."

Madame Gandhi adding: "This system has to be demolished,

- or this country is not going to move ahead."

Of the original "Chicago Seven" - charged in connection with riots at the Democratic National Convention four years ago - only five were convicted; and now -a reversal of even that.

A Federal Court of Appeals in Chicago - today ordering new trials for the five in question; ruling that the defendants' Constitutional guarantees - may have been violated.

For Margarel Truman Daniel - an appearance today on TV; discussing her now book - "Harry S. Truman".

Margaret saying her father decided to fire General

MacArthur duing the Korean War because, quote - "he was a man who sort of panicked." This - said she - as indicated by MacArthur's threatened invasion of Red China.

Referring next to Adlai Stevenson - Margaret saying: "We all liked him immensely." But she added: "Basically, he didn't like people - he didn't understand the man in the street."

At the Pentagon - the dedication of a so-called "Correspondents Corridor;" serving as an entryway to a section of the Pentagon - containing a press room and the offices of the Pentagon's Public Information Division. At the end - an alcove that now becomes a memorial to newsmen hilled in action; thirty-six in. World War Two - eight in Korea - sixteen in Vietnam.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, who presided at the dedication - also taking note of recent press feuds. Saying:

"We need not apologize - for the adversary relationship of the government and the press; instead, we should praise it - and preserve it." "And as we go about our Constitutional business of being adversaries" - said he - "we should avoid becoming antagonists."

Here's one: Boy meets girl - boy loses girl - boy gets boat. Explanation - as follows.

Yale sophomore Bosie Young - a victim of light of his life - running unrequited love. The physics in its interpretation and its life - running a U.S. Marine. Semper peradis - and all that. So young Young - returning to his suburban Philadelphia home; floundering about a bit - till he finally decided to put his physics training to work. He built a boat - and what a boat!

It's a two-ton, fifty-foot, catamaran sailboat - made of African mahogany laminated with fiberglas. The product of a year's hard labor - based on a revolutionary new design. The ship's cabin is actually suspended on fiberglas leaves - to prevent dipping -much the same as an automobile.

Better still - Bosie Young is now back at Yale.

Along with completing his studies - adding a few final touches to his striking creation. And he hopes to have it ready by spring - for a crack at the trans-Atlantic sailing record.

By the way, he calls his new cat - "La Bella Gil?.

Alexandra." In honor of his old flame? Nope - his new one.

TOWNS - ALCOHOLD THAT SECTIONS TO BE SECTION

Once again, Robert Moses speaks his mind - as he usually does. The famed New York official - discussing a giant sculpture recently erected in the heart of Manhattan. Says Robert Moses: "It look like a machine shop junkyard abacus on stilts - reminiscent of Hitler's swastika and the Iron Heel."

He also takes a blast at "big banks and corporations"

- for helping to finance such works. They "have turned" said he - "from the impressive portraits of pot-bellied, benevolent former chairman - to abstract daubs and amorphous gargoyles;" in the process - creating a Frankenstein.

"The ashcan artists of yesterday" - says Robert

Moses - becoming "the aesthetes of tomorrow."
