
cut it twenty per cont. Ee Elso oriered reabctions of frettaen par cent in the pay of the wice-president and the Cabinet menbers.

Z wonler how Bister Dollile Gamo will lite that?
By this fuling, If. Eoorez himself will zeceive Sirt Thomand Dollars instead of Beveary-fire thousend aollars a jaar. The Wice-Prestiant and Cabimet nembers will get Inelve Thousanf Seven Hunired an= Firly instaad of Pifteen Thousana Eollars.
Watle this was done on the initiatite of the President, it is ampounced from the lhite Eowse that the President recelved the unanimous recuest froul an menbers of the Cabinet that they too should heve the mavinum peiluction of selaries possithle wader the Heomoly bill zecentiy passed by Comgress.

RELIEF - 2 trying to cook one up which President Hoover wont veto. And now they've struck another snag. They've got a feature in the bill providing for publicity on all loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This meets with the President's exceeding disapproval.

However, Mr. Hoover says he will not veto such a bill. Nevertheless he warns Senate conferees that this publicity feature will do incalculable damage to the credit structure of the nation. He also warns Congress that if the boys insist on the publicity feature they must take the responsibility. He will not. Late today the Hone pared the new version. And now tie up to the Senate.

MOTHER-IN-IAW.

Here's a choice morsel from Washington about the boys in Congress who support the family at the expense of Uncle Sam, which means you and me. This bit is ${ }_{\lambda}$ a eopyigh Unit tory to the Baltimore Post.

The pious Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the Upper Chamber, has removed his aged mother-in-law from the Senate payroll. But don't be too exercised about mother-in-law. Mother-in-law's job goes to another member of the Robinson clan. To be precise, the wife of Senator Robinson's nephew. Senator Robinson's nephew is on the payroll himself on his own account. But that doesn't bother the Senator at all.

As party leader, the pious Senator from Arkansas is entitled to five clerks. Three of them are relatives. One of these whom you and I are helping to support, is president of a bank in Little Rock, Arkansas. He is known as the Senator's contact man.

Well, that may give you a smile for the warm weather.

There was real excitement in Washington today over the Bonus army. While fifty of the foot weary veterans plodded their monotonous route around the capital, everybody was asking - who ordered out those sixty marines to control the boys?

Two companies of leathernecks, fully armed and wearing steel trench helmets, arrived at the capital about six o'clock yesterday evening. They stayed less than ten minutes. General Glassiord, Superintendent of Police in Wachimaty, protested then cap against their presence. So the Marines were promptly ordered back to the ${ }^{\text {n }}$ barracks.

Incidentally, General Glassford's handling of this entire situation has won him golden opinions all around. To the police he is known as General. To the soldiers as Buddy, And the Bonus army pal - and rartot $\qquad$ actually look upon him as their A add. The General is six feet four inches tall, and frequently rides around on a police motorcycle.

Theremin a regular storm of indignation and has arisen over curiosity the question of - who ordered the leathernecks out y to tackle the Bonus marchers.

Well, here's what a Hut ed Press dispatch to the Brooklyn Daily Times reports: All versions of the calling out of the Marines agree in placing the responsibility on the office of vice-president Curtis. Heap Big Chief from Kansas denied this vigorously. But the more this mysterious call is ixwoxxixuxx investigated, the more it seems evident that the responsibility must be attributed to the office of the vice-president.

(Governor Rankin Roosevelt has a better chance to become President than any Democratic candidate in the last 30 years.) Don't take my word for it. I'm nm just quoting the betting gentlemen and book makers of New York.

Of course I'm sure that none of the respectable folk listening in here indulge in betting. I'm just giving you these figures to indicate the trend of public feeling. The odds against Mr . $7 t_{0} 5$.
Roosevelt are ${ }_{4}$. In 1916 the odds against woodrow wilson at this stage of the campaign were 5 to 2.

And talking about the New York Governor and Democratic some of you at any nate, Presidential candidate you will be glad, to learn that he got safely through the Cape Cod Canal. And he is enjoying himself to the King's on his vacation curse.
taste, $\wedge$ That's what he say says. Incidentally there's wy only one ironclad rule aboard the yawl which is carrying Mr. Roosevelt and his three sons. That is that the dishes must be washed before they start the morning's cruise. H2: Roosevelt admits that he doesn't wash them himself.
"I'm the skipper," he informed reporters,"and skippers don't wash dishes. At any rate, not when they're Governors and (Governor rankin:- Roosevelt has a better chance to become President than any Democratic candidate in the last 30 years.) Don't take my word for it. I'm warn neutral. I'm just quoting the betting gentlemen and book makers of New York.

Of course I'm sure that none of the respectable folk listening in here indulge in betting. I'm just giving you these figures to indicate trend of public feeling. The odds against Mr. $7 t_{0} 5$.
Roosevelt are ${ }^{\text {\%S }}$. In 1916 the odds against Woodrow Wilson at this stage of the campaign were 5 to 2 .

And talking about the New York Governor and Democratic some styou at any rate, Presidential candidate you will be glad, to learn that he got safely through the Cape Cod Canal. And he is enjoying himself to the King's ## on his vacation cerise.

taste, $\uparrow$ That's what he sax y says. Incidentally there's only one ironclad rule aboard the yawl which is carrying Mr. Roosevelt and his three sons. That is that the dishes must be washed before they start the morning's cruise. En v. Mn: Roosevelt admits that he doesn't wash them himself.
"I'm the skipper," he informed reporters,"and skippers
don't wash dishes. At any rate, not when they're Governors and

POLITICS -2

Presidential candidates." $H_{e}$ added also the information that his son James ia an A-1 bang-up cook. In case this excites the cupidity of the ladies perhaps it should be said here and now that James Roosevelt is already married.
Apropos of Fin h Roosevelt there in this evening's

New York World-Telegram, a charming story about the Governor's mother. She is 77, the story goes, but she does not fit into the old lady category. She is tall with broad shoulders. The Governor Roosevelt resembles her strongly. Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt's brown eyes are keen and wise, but they sparkle easily.
"I know very little about politics," she admits.
"I'm just the Governor's mother." She's a friendly person.

In Hyde Park, New York, where she lives, the Rector, the Druggist, the Butcher, the Grocer, the Baker -- all know $\frac{\text { Mrs. }}{\text { Soho }}$ Roosevelt. They consider her more as a friend than a great lady.
Here's a significant statement from Paris. It comes in a sped United Pres dispatch to the Washington Daily News.

Monsieur Herriot, Prime Minister of France, told the United Press that the understanding between John Bull and does not affect any settlement of the British debt to the United States. "A false interpretation of my remarks has caused a misunderstanding", said Premier Herriot.

Meanwhile his Britannic yyextiषxx Majesty's Ambassador in Washington was making a similar statement for the benefit of Uncle Sam. The Anglo-French agreement, Ambassador to our State Department, dos not mean that John Bull and France are going to combine against Uncle Sam in the matter of the war debts owed to America. This confirm what we heard yesterday.

The Irish took a whack a John Bull today. The Dublin parliament passed a bill retaliating on England for the new tariffs that John Bull imposed on imports from Ireland.

Meanwhile President de Valera Ieotond arrived in London for a conference with Ramsay MacDonald.

His trip was undertaken at the invitation of the British Premier.

They are going to try to thrash out the differences between John Bull and his neighbor in Erin.

MUSSOLINI

Here's a bit that may interest the admirer of Mussolini. The news comes at a rather curious $\mathrm{x} \dot{\mathbf{x}}$ time since a film dealing with the career and personality black abint dictator of Italy's famous premier is about to be released in America. Signor scenario himself.

the sue is
But though in it isn't about our old school friend himself. The scenario is based on the life of Julius Caesar.
Wheisentile is the The information,

curiowely enough,

人
it on the authority of one of Premier Mussolini's sons who is now on a visit to Budapest. Young Mussolini evidently mentioned it to a Hungarian newspaper man and the news was promptly revealed in one of the Budapest papers.

This, of course, is a long way from being the Duce's first stab at creative authorship. Last year he collaborated with the Italian playwright Forzano on a drama about the life of Napoleon. It was produced in several European capitals. Forzano is again co-author in movie based on the life of the caesar.

MUSSOLINI - 2

I suppose you're all sitting on the edges of your chairs waiting to hear the news about that revolution down in Brazil.
here it comes:- a All right, $=F_{\lambda}$ dispatch to the Indianapolis Times brings the glad tidings -- or otherwise, according as you may feel about it -anyway, the tidings//hat the Federal troops defeated the rebels of Sac Paulo. This was the first actual fighting in the campaign.

The Federal government sent bombing planes and 40,000 men against the insurgents.

Talking about South America, as though they hadn't had enough trouble down there, they are going to have earthquakes tomorrow and Sunday, and also between the 27 th and 29 th of this How do we know? This io the month. Ism not asking you to toke my word for this, It is a Hel prediction 特 Senor Martin Gil, a distinguished Agentinian astronomer and you heed A special cable to the New York Times reports the predictions of Senor Gil. He expects earthquakes all down the range of the Andes, including Mexico. Senor Gil believes the quakes that he predicts for the end of the month will be the more severe.

He basis his prophecies on sun spots.
inquirer telephoned the United States Weather Bureau in New York early today. It so happened that the telephone was answered by the Jas.
distinguished Dr. Kimball, who for his extraordinary knowledge of winds, is known as the patron saint of fliers.

Well, this superstitious inquirer asked Dr. Kimball if it rains on July lath will it rain for forty days and nights thereafter.

That question might have stumped other men, but it didn't phase Dr. Kimball. "No", he replied, "It never has. The Atlantic seaboard never has had a continuous rainfall that lasted more than two or three days at the mos". Then he gave the inquirer a little information.

> "Evidently you've been hearing an old English legend", he said. "In England they have an ancient superstition that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, which is July lith, it will rain forty days thereafter. This superstition is called the curse of St. Swithin."

SWITHIN - 2

"But", added the patron saint of fliers, "the curse of St. Swithin doesn't cross the Atlantic. I'm sorry", he concluded, "fut St. Swithm doesent operate oven here."

How about a little baseball news? . There's quite a bit of excitement in the American League.

Up to July 4th the Yankees, Babe Ruth, Lew Gehrig and all had a handsome lead of $\boldsymbol{q}^{\frac{1}{2}}$ games. Then they had the misfortune to lose their star catcher, Bill Dickey. You may recall that the Washington Senators and crock his jaw. The Presidentof the League didn't take this in good part. So good-natured Bill Dickey woe, and still is suspended.

Today the Yankees have a lead in the American League of only $8 \frac{1}{2}$ games. Isn't that just too bad? The baseball reporters are quite exercised over what they call the revolt of the west.

Earlier this season the Yankees could usually count on increasing their lead and fattening their averages in all games against the western teams. But recently the Yanks not only lost two games to the St. Louis Browns but they took a bad licking from the Cleveland Indians yesterday, and today got revenge on them Yanks 8 - Cleveland 5 .

LOLA

Echoes of an old old romance have been revived the wee in California. Memories also of one of the loveliest and most romantic ladies who ever graced the American seas scene.

I mean Lola Monte, of whom you have read in many a tale and book. Lola one of the most famous dancers in all mola history.
famonsxamexiamaxdeneexs. She was $x$ the woman for whom King

Louis I of Bavaria lost his throne; The brilliant figure for whose affections Czar Nicolas I of Russia pined in vain; So the story says. Though it isn't Just story. It's a fact.

This is recalled today because her California home is being sold at auction. When Lola became a fugitive from Bavaria, she came to America and settled at Grass Valley, califomia. There she held court for several years.
the Holden State Inst of courses She was the rage of california she had been in Europe. In her heydey she had provoked a riot in Warsaw because she refused the attentions of the Russian Governor of Poland. In Paris she was a friend of $\mathrm{Bal}_{\mathrm{h}}^{\boldsymbol{h}}$ ac and Alexander Dumas.

LOLA - 2

When she came to America it is said that

New Yorkers used to pay as much as a dollar for the privilege of shaking her hand. They didn't pay it to Lola. She was always above the dollar, 20 the story goes. Califorma home, mansion built of splendid proportions. In the rear the dens for her pet bears are still standing. Incidentally, the bears were the cause of a divorce. After she went to live in California Lola married a San Francisco editor named Hull. Well, one day one of Lola's bears bit Mr. Hull in the leg. Mm . hols lustily. - ard

Did you ever hear of the Czar of Artichokes. That's the name given by the New York newspapers to a gentleman who was indicted today by a Federal Grand Jury.

The gentleman in question, a Mr. Castaldo, is accused by the Federal government of having grown rich as a racketeer in the artichoke market. But the thing that seems to annoy Uncle Sam mostly about $M r$. Castaldo is, that as the government complains, Mr. Castaldo failed to file income tax returns, entered into a conspiracy to avoid tax payments, and another conspiracy to conceal assets in bankruptcy.

The trial ought to furnish considerable interest when it comes off. You'd think the artichoke was a fairly innocent vegetable. But the government is going to allege that Mr. Castaldo made this innocent and succulent vegetable the cause of threats, your uncle Sam even of actual violence. Mr. Castaldo, the government says, has been in the habit of saying to dealers: "You buy my artichokes at my price, or else $-\pi$.

That was Mr. Castaldo's way of choking off competition. Gen you bear that? No? Them I suppose In ll have to say so long until tamosxaw. And that mouthful about artichoke choke me for to mist - so slog until monday.

