

SUEZ

Mon. - Sept. 3rd - 56, L.T. - Deleo.

The Suez Canal conference began today, and all we know is - the externals. The proceedings are ~~SECRET~~ secret, and no communiques are being issued - at the ~~an~~ end of sessions. Hence, we only know the outer appearance - as witnessed^d by the reporters, on the outside.

The five man committee consists of Australian Prime Minister Menzies, Chairman; U.S. Deputy and Under-Secretary of State Loy Henderson; - and representatives of Sweden and Iran and Ethiopia. Which group, this morning, called on Egyptian President Nasser, at the Presidential palace in Cairo. Chairman Menzies handing him - the American plan, to have the Suez Canal operated by an international commission.

In the afternoon - a second session with Nasser, discussing the plan. Which - certainly seems unlikely to be accepted. Nasser having repeated again, last night - that he will not agree to any ~~SEE~~ scheme of internationalization. But - is willing to accept, what he called, "any solution which will not affect our sovereignty."

The atmosphere of the conference is described as -

"cordial". And unexpectedly, there was a third session tonight. ~~The conference was to be resumed again tomorrow~~
Although - only two had been expected.

Meanwhile, the Egyptians have arrested another Briton, charging him with - "espionage." John Thornton Stanley, Secretary Of the Cairo branch of the Prudential Assurance company. Taken into custody at his Cairo home - before ~~at~~ dawn. The fourth Briton, seized for alleged spy work.

ATOMIC

Another test of atomic explosion - in Soviet Russia.

So announced by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington. The third - in a series. The first - announced by President Eisenhower last weekend. A second, reported on Friday. Now,)

3
This latest explosion - equal to the blast of a ~~million~~ million tons of T N T. One megaton, as the scientists call it. A-bomb or H-bomb? Well, they say it could be either one or the other. A large atomic bomb, or a small hydrogen bomb.

After President ~~Eisenhower~~ announced the first of the series, Moscow came out ~~into~~ the open and confirmed the fact.
A series of atomic tests, while the Soviets keep on insisting - that sort of thing should be abolished.

It looks as if the London authorities, headed by Scotland Yard, have been over-doing - the case of Nina, the Russian woman discus thrower.

Today, the last of the Soviet Olympic team left London aboard a Russian jet airliner - more than fifty athletes and officials. Who had called off a weekend practice-meeting with the British Olympic team. Indignant - because of the way muscular Nina was accused of shoplifting. Charged- with ~~swiping~~ ^{those} swiping five ninety-cent hats.

Scotland Yard searched the plane - but Nina was not aboard. Other planes examined - to make sure the husky woman discus thrower should not escape. Nina, still hidden away in London - with Scotland Yard looking for her.

All of which might seem a little excessive, and a statement was issued, today, by the manager of the C & A department ~~xxx~~ store - from which, it is alleged, Nina tried to swipe the ~~xx~~ hats. The manager declaring: "I don't think we should upset the world - for thirty shillings."

Sounds like good common sense - and maybe, now, they'll call off the bloodhounds.

In any case, it's a depressing international incident.

The Soviet Olympic team came to Britain - on a good will trip.

The Russians claim - the charge against Nina was a "frame-up."

What they call - "a dirty provocation." Good will turning - into ill-will.

The latest:- the case against Nina will be dropped!

EISENHOWER

President Eisenhower's Labor Day report - stresses the economic ~~boom~~ upsurge in this country - the boom.

Following - figures released by Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Showing that the number of Americans now holding jobs - is a record-breaker. The number of job holders right now - sixty-six million, -eight-hundred-thousand. The previous peak was in mid-June, when the figure ^{for} ~~was~~ employment was - sixty-six-million, -five-hundred thousand.

The President bearing down on the second ~~boom~~ item of the Republican campaign slogan. Peace, prosperity and progress.

Adlai Stevenson accuses the Eisenhower administration of, what he calls - "blindness to poverty and insecurity." The condition - of one American ~~no~~ family out of five.

"They see business," he declared, "as an end in itself. Progress - as something measured with a slide rule, and ~~prop~~ prosperity as a statistic."

These blasts were fired at a huge Labor Day meeting in Detroit - Cadillac Square. Stevenson's first major campaign speech - since his nomination in Chicago.

He admitted that America is prosperous "in part."

But said the workers and farmers should have the credit for the present prosperity - not the politicians; and Adlai got off one of his whimsies, remarking: "When I hear Republicans boasting about 'their prosperity, I think of the fly sitting on the ox's ear, and saying, 'what a good job of plowing we have done, today'."

He also got off a verbal twister, on the subject of international ~~aff~~ affairs. Denouncing, what he called:

The "blustering ~~Brinkmanship~~ of John Foster Dulles." Adlai - ~~xxx~~ coining a new word, "~~Brinkmanship~~". Which might seem to refer - to the Brink robbery. But it harks back to the remark made by the Secretary of State - saying -- this country has been on the brink of war. Hence the ~~word misused~~ ^{Stevensonian word} ~~called~~
"Brinkmanship."

TRUMAN

Former President Truman entered the campaign today - at Milwaukee. After his "Adlai can't win" campaign at the Chicago Convention, there was doubt about the part H.S.T. would play - in helping Adlai to win. But, he's making a big Labor Day speech in Milwaukee, tonight, after various appearances during the day.

When he arrived in Milwaukee, somebody told him:

"You'll have some competition here today. The Milwaukee Braves are playing a double-header."

To which the former President replied: "I'm no competition for that. They'll probably all go to the ball game."

Well, the local ball park isn't big enough to hold all Milwaukee. So quite a few turned out for fiery H.S.T.

By the way, in the first game of the double header,

Milwaukee beat Cincinnati, three to two. ^{Oh yes, and} The Brooklyn

Dodgers ~~also won~~, split a double header.

SEGREGATION - TENNESSEE

Clinton, Tennessee, is like a town under martial law, tonight. State soldiers in control, enforcing rigid orders given by their commander, Adjutant General Joe Henry, who, today, outlawed all public meetings. No crowds permitted to gather - on the streets. Particularly on the plaza in front of the courthouse. Nobody allowed - to make any kind of ~~sps~~ speech there. Automobiles - banned from parking near the court house.

in Clinton
The plaza ~~there~~ was the principal scene of riotous disorders over the weekend. The Trouble-over school segregation.

Under military control, Clinton, tonight, is reported - quiet. And Mayor Everett Lewallen says - he expects the twelve negro students to go back to ^{high school} ~~high school~~ tomorrow. Their admission to classes, last week, having touched off segregationist ~~vix~~ violence.

The school segregation trouble in Texas leaves a question in doubt - whether ~~these~~ three negro boys will try to enroll, when school opens tomorrow, ~~At~~- the town of Mansfield.

They tried to register last Friday, but were frightened off - by an angry crowd. Segregationists have formed committees - determined to keep the negro pupils out of the school. But the Texas rangers will be on the scene, tomorrow, sent by Governor Alan Shivers. To maintain order - if the negroes try to enroll.

At nearby Fort Worth, a disturbance - because a negro family has moved ~~in~~ into a home in a white neighborhood. Yesterday, a crowd went marching and shouting in an angry demonstration. Today - the meeting of a committee, to decide on plans for getting the negroes to ~~in~~ move.

KIDNAP

Another crime of kidnapping. This one - at Hamden, Connecticut. Six weeks old Cynthia Ruotolo - abducted, on Saturday.. The child - taken from her carriage in a department store. Where - her mother was shopping.

Today, the father, seconded by his parish priest - made radio appeals for the return of the child.

The belief is that the baby was taken away by a dark skinned, dumpy woman. Seen walking through the shoppers in the store, with an infant in her arms. No indication that a ransom was demanded, and the police theory is - that the kidnapping was the doing of a childless woman.

Speed records - announced at the National Aircraft show, Oklahoma City. A Navy F Eight U Crusader jet fighter ~~plane~~ - speeding at more than one thousand and fifteen miles an hour. Actually, the flight was made in California, on August Twenty First - because of technical conveniences there. A controlled speed exhibition - and the ~~film~~ figure ~~is~~ does not represent top speed of American aircraft.

Today, two planes from an aircraft carrier in Puget Sound flew over the Oklahoma City Air Show - and continued on to Jacksonville, ^{Florida.} One, making the sixteen hundred mile flight from Puget Sound to Florida - in two-hours-and-thirty-six minutes. The other - two-hours-and-forty minutes.

And, in addition - a helicopter establishing a new endurance record. Buzzing around in the vicinity of the air show - for more than two days. Setting a new endurance record - fifty-seven hours and forty five minutes.

FOLLOW RECORD

The air show at Oklahoma City ended with a spectacular crash, today - when a twin jet Navy fighter failed to clear a runway, on a take off. Plane - demolished. Crew of three - uninjured.

ACCIDENTS

This Labor Day weekend seems likely to set an evil record - for highway accidents. Ever since Friday evening the figures for death on the highway - have been piling ~~up~~ up. The National Safety Council gives a gloomy forecast - that the total this year will exceed the ^{(previous} ~~previous~~ record. Nineteen fifty-three - when four-hundred-and-fifty-three lives were lost.

So, if you are on the road tonight make sure your name is not added to the casualty list.

INDIANS

At Kansas City, Kansas, a battle is on - to preserve an Indian graveyard. Two acres - in the heart of that thriving municipality. Keep the old Wyandotte burial ground ~~from~~ from ~~the~~ being sold for commercial purposes.

Citizens, with a reverence for history, vowing - they'll carry the fight all the way to the Supreme Court. To preserve that historic site from commercial desecration.

But who is threatening to sell that sacred Indian ground - for real estate? Well, it sure sounds like another case of - wrong done to the Indian by the white man. Pale faces - wanting to get hold of land belonging to the redskin.

Back in Eighteen Fifty five, there was a treaty between the tribe - and the great White Father. According to which - those two acres were to be a Wyandotte cemetery forever. The treaty putting it in these words: "As long as the rivers flow, and the grasses grow." And, at the last session of Congress, a bill was passed - giving the Wyandotte Indians full title to the property. So now - what has happened?

A Wyandotte announcement - that the Indians are going to sell the old cemetery - as a real estate development.

In Oklahoma, the chief of the Wyandottes declares - the six acres are worth one million, five hundred thousand dollars. Which would be distributed - among the nine hundred members of the tribe. Chief Zane calling ~~in~~ a tribal meeting - to make plans for selling the land.

So that's what arouses the righteous indignation of pale faces - who love their history. Particularly - Miss Helena Conley, who is - one-sixteenth Wyandotte. For years - foremost in demanding that the historic site be preserved.

Now she says: "If Chief Zane continues his attempts to sell the land - I'm going to put a curse on him." Well, a tribal curse is a serious matter. But then there's the ^{Henry,} question of one-million, five-hundred-thousand bucks - which the Wyandotte Bucks say is wampum they need.
