HATOYAMA LT. - Delco Thurs. Dec. 9 - 54.

The new Japanese Premier the man mentioned earlier in the week. Ichiro Hatoyama, who once was rejected by Douglas MacArthur as dangerous to the American occupation. Hatoyama still thinks that MacArthur made a mistake, -- and declares that at least one American observer agrees with him.

The Hatoyama government will be a "caretaker" administration. Because he wa has already agreed to a Socialist demand for parliamentary elections early next year. The meantime he's forming a cabinet which brings back some controversial figures of World War Two, Shigemitsu, the man who signed the surrender on board our battleship Missouri, in Tokyo harbor. Another, Kichi-Saburo Nomura, who was Ambassador to Washington at the time of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

The State Department indicates that the frozen assets will stay that way. And one we have no intention of sending back Chinese students who don't want to live under Communism. There are more than four thousand sen such students in colleges. Most of them trained at American expense.

They came before the Communist saxt seizure of power in China.

Most of them want to stay - and we won't compel them to go back.

The State Department adds that right now we are leaving the case of the eleven Americans to the United Nations.

The new German Air Force may be headed by a man who shot down more than a hundred allied planes during World War II.

Rudolph Galland, mentioned as the man to lead the force to be raised under the terms of the Paris agreement. This was Inspector General of Hitler's Air Force the end of the war. Then he went to Argentina and at the force is commander of Peron's Air Force.

Some observers in Bonn believe that Chancellor Adenauer will turn thumbs down on Galland - the Chancellor not liking to use former Nazis. But anyway the former ace is prominently mentioned as a man willing and able, if the Chancellor says okay.

MONTGOMERY

The British House of Commons debated a peculiar question today - is Field Marshal Montgomery in the army or not?

The debate xx follows from the now famous "Montgomery telegram" -- which Churchill says he sent in Nineteen Forty-five, urging Montgomery to stack German arms for possible use against the Russians.

Today a Socialist M P wanted to know -- whether

Montgomery should be prosecuted under the official secret act, because he was supposed to have turned over all secret documents - when he left the Army.

Churchill interrupted saying, "Field Marshal Montgomery has not left the army."

Then the Laborite pointed out that Montgomery is a commander in NATO -- which would seem to make him independent of the British Army.

Churchill promptly retorted, "Field Marshals are always in the Army."

Then the laborite suggested a court martial, because Montgomery apparently lets important documents lie around in his home. Churchill refused to answer that question.

The House of Commons broke up its session without answering the question -- is Montgomery in the Army or not?

McCARTHY

Today Senator Mundt of South Dakota told a story about that McCarthy blast, against the President. How McCarthy asked him to read it. And how he warned Senator McCarthy that no one would believe him if he said the President had ever been soft on Communism.

Senator Mundt says he was presiding over a meeting of the Investigating Sub-committee when the Wisconsin Senator entered the room and sat down beside him. When Mundt asked if the regular Chairman wanted to take over, McCarthy replied:

"As soon as I catch my breath - I want to make a statement."

At that point, the South Dakotan says he told the Wisconsin not to do anything rash. McCarthy left the room - promising to return in a half hour. Twenty minutes later his secretary entered and told Acting Chairman Mundt that Senator McCarthy was not coming back, and wanted the temporary chairman to read a statement for him.

Says Mundt: "Something nudged me -- and I looked at it first." Seeing that paragraph criticizing the President, he says he sent McCarthy word that he would not read the statement. That he considered it unwise.

Ten minutes later McCarthy returned, and Mundt says he leaned over and remarked, "If you want some free advice I wouldn't read that statement, if I were you." Adding that it was unwise, had some unfortunate implications - and wouldn't do either him or the party any good. That nobody would believe President Eisenhower was soft on Communism.

whereupon McCarthy retorted that the White House was shooting at him; and that he had "to say something." So he read the statement, bitterly attacking the President and the administration.

Senator Mundt adds that he still thinks Senator

McCarthy made a mistake.

Leonard Hall, Chairman of the Republican party, has been questioning Republican leaders around the country. He says he finds that almost one hundred per cent are on the President's side. Disapprove of the McCarthy attack.

In Phoenix City, Alabama, two former public officials are indicted for the murder of a crusading Attorney General last June. Albert Patterson was about to take office -- with a pledge to clean up Alabama's "Sin City" when he was shot to death.

Now a Grand Jury returns two indictments. Former Albert Fuller to stand trial for the Patterson murder.

This is the biggest step in the attempt to bring law and order back to Phoenix City - which became so notorious as a center of Vice and crime, before the National Guard moved in.

The Air Force returns that nine pound rock to the Alabama housewife. The meteorite that crashed through the ceiling as as Mrs. Hewlett Hodges was having a nap on the sofa, in the living room. The first meteorite ever known to strike a human being.

That's why the Sylacauga housewife thinks it's now a sort of modern wonder - and worth a lot of money. Earlier this week we heard how Mrs. Hodges was hoping to get five grand for this celestial dornick. Now her attorney says she has received offers up to twenty grand. Just for a little old meteorite that skittered off the tail of some comet, entered our atmosphere, slammed through the Hodges roof in Sylacauga, Alabama, and wound up on the family sofa.

The "ir Force had the rock until today - because it claims to be responsible for things celestial - that is in our part of it. Mrs. Hodges wanted it back, so she could sell it. Now she has it.

Tonight the story from Sylacauga is that it will first go to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington - for a scientific analysis. Then, to the highest bidder.

Here's an auto story that surely will interest six hundred of my Delco Battery dealer friends who are assembled this evening, at Union, New Jersey. Listening to us, I believe, before a discussion of how better to serve us motorists.

Greetings to them and to all Delco Dealers, and here's an odd news item from nearby Pennsylvania: It's about an auto thief who stole six cars in a night. But the story is what he did with them.

He took the first one from the parking lot at Mountain Inn, about twenty miles from Greensburg, Pennsylvania. That car was found abandoned at Ligonier, where another one was missing. The thief dropped the second car at Armagh, and stole number three. That one turned up about a mile away - and a fourth was missing. The thief driving number four to Johnstown - where he abandoned it for number five. Apparently he didn't like this one, because he left it a few blocks away, and took number six. Which he drove back to where he had started, to Mountain Inn, near Greensburg.

The police haven't located the thief. And they are puzzled. Why steal all those cars and then wind up where he started?
