

L.T.-DELCO. THURSDAY, NOV. 13, 1958.

GOOD EVENING EVERYBODY:

The United States, today, offered the Soviets a full scale treaty, for an international ban - on atomic testing.

At the Geneva conference, the American delegation adheres firmly to the principle - that there can be no ban, without adequate controls. Today's proposal - including both angles. A treaty - to prohibit atomic testing, combined with safeguards to detect possible violations.

The Soviet response is prompt. The Russian delegation - turning down the proposition.

BERLIN

Here's something - to imagine. How the people of West Berlin feel - at the suggestion that their sector of the city be turned over to Communist East Germany. West Berlin, under the supervision of the Western allies - one of the most flourishing metropolitan areas on earth. East Berlin, under Communist rule - bedraggled, in want, depressed, under - the Red Tyranny. Popular feeling in West Berlin - well indicated by what happened over there, today.

A Communist rally - in the Western sector. Most of the Reds - coming from East Berlin. The purpose of the meeting - to back the demand that the Western powers should get out. Turn West Berlin - over to the Communist regime.

The result - a wild riot. Thousands of West Berliners - marching against the Communist meeting. Getting - into a pitched battle with police who were guarding the Communists.

Previously, fears had been expressed by the West Berlin government at Bonn, fears - of anti-Communist outbreaks in West Berlin. So, when the Communists planned their meeting - the police were on the alert. Hence, they were able to handle the disturbance. But not before - a barrage of stones was hurled through the windows of the Communist meeting place. The Reds - depending for their safety on the anti-Communist police.

BULGANIN

The Moscow radio tonight brought a charge against former Soviet Premier Bulganin. Now mentioned, for the first time - as a member of an anti-party group opposing Krushchev - the opposition faction led by Malenkov and Molotov. Bulganin, of that famous partnership of B & K now accused of having conspired against his pal - Krushchev

ARGENTINA

In Argentina, President Frondizi - seems to have won out. The peronist labor unions - calling off their strike, which was to have been today, are trying to force Frondizi to cancel contracts. Bringing in foreign capital for the development of Argentinian oil resources.

However, it seems the political crisis at Buenos Aires - went farther than that. Reports are that, in the middle of the peronist labor agitation, there were plots to line up army support against the President. The army command, however, remaining loyal to Frondizi.

MOON

British astronomers are highly skeptical - about the story of a volcanic eruption on the moon, reported, last night - by a Soviet astronomer, who said that, at an astrophysical center in Crimea, he was observing the moon through a powerful telescope - when he spied a reddish glow, increasing in intensity - like a huge explosion. A lunar volcano - in eruption!

This, he contends, indicates - that the so-called craters on the moon are volcanic. Contrary to the prevailing theory, which holds - that those characteristic markings were caused by the impact of huge meteorites.

The British astronomers refuse to be convinced. Adhering to the belief - that the moon is volcanically "dead".

McELROY

The U.S. Army and Marine corps - to be cut by fifty-five thousand. So stated, this evening, by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy. The number of soldiers and leathernecks is being reduced in accordance with a policy of relying more on the Air Force and the Navy; while our allies - build up their own ground forces, with American help.

Secretary McElroy also disclosed - that the Pentagon may curtail its plans for sending intermediate range missiles abroad, and - step up the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles, based on the United States.

SHOOTING

At Chester, New York, a union organizer - shot and killed by a corporation president. Malcolm White, of the Chester Cable Company, declaring: "I guess I just went berserk. This thing has been driving me mad."

Union organizer Alfred Dugan, of Jersey City - leading a wildcat strike against the company. All - part of a dispute between two unions. Dugan's independent organization - trying to displace the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Today, company president Malcolm White left the plant in his automobile. He says he was followed by Dugan - in his own car. Driving through a back road, he stopped and got out. Dugan - also stopping, and stepping out of his car. White said he thought the union organizer was going to pull a gun. So, with his own pistol - he opened fire.

Lieutenant Micklas of the New York State Police declares - Dugan had "a long police record."

SEGREGATION

The Roman Catholic church in the United States today came out against racial segregation, but urged - prudence.

In Washington, a meeting of some two hundred Bishops and Archbishops, who deliberated on the racial question, issued a statement - that racial segregation cannot be reconciled with basic Christian teachings. Every Christian - having a moral duty to work against racial segregation.

But the church of Rome hierarchy adds that injunction of prudence, explaining in these words: - "the problems we inherit today, are rooted in decades, even centuries, of custom and cultural pattern. Changes in deep rooted attitudes," the prelates add, "are not made overnight."

TEACHER

Something new in education. Prizes - not for the best of students, but for the best of teachers. The Alumni Association of New York University - has set up three annual awards, each of a thousand dollars. For three teachers, to be selected each year - for the best work in the classrooms at the university.

Timely recognition - of the immense importance of the teaching profession. Thousand dollar apples - for teacher.

Who knows, maybe the idea will spread from coast to coast?

NIXON

Here's something that doesn't sound like news at all - Vice-President Nixon made a speech. But the circumstances were - most unusual.

The hard-hitting campaigner of the GOP - had an infected wisdom tooth, extracted - by the dentist. The anesthetic - used, "Nerval" - which can make people behave in a curious way, when they come out of it.

So there was the Vice-President, in the dentist chair - when that anesthetic wore off, in which condition of sleep - he made a speech. Political? no, no politics.

The dentist says he delivered an oration - about the American way of life. But, especially - about his wife. Telling - how brave Pat Nixon was in Venezuela, months ago, when the Nixons were attacked - by a stone-throwing mob.

Out of the subconscious, Don, that memory of the courage of his wife. A wife cool and unflustered at all times.

GOLD

At Karachi, Pakistan - the solution of a golden mystery. One hundred thousand dollars worth of the glittering yellow metal - found at the bottom of the sea, off Karachi's bathing beach. Divers bringing up twenty-four sacks of gold.

Smugglers' gold - say the Pakistani authorities, hidden under water - by runners of contraband. The gold - in thin strips. Such as could be hidden conveniently - by passengers aboard airliners.

Smuggling - an old story in those parts. Done usually - in traditional sailing vessels, the picturesque dhows. But now - smuggling by air. The orient, up-to-date, more and more.
