

KING KT. - Delco. Tues. Jan. 29 - '57.

The Lord of sand and oil arrives in America.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia - the world's richest ~~man~~ ruler, receiving a royal welcome from Uncle Sam. King Saud, greeted in a bedouin style tent on a Hudson River Pier.

King Saud brought a party of seventy with him.

~~His men~~ ^{include} six bodyguards with gold daggers in ~~their~~ their belts - two royal coffee brewers - and a food taster. After the welcome, he drove straight to the Waldorf Astoria where he is ^astying in the Towers of that ~~famous~~ famous hotel.

King Saud says he's here at the invitation of his good friend, the President of the United States, ~~And~~ ^{And} ~~he~~ hopes his meeting with Mr. Eisenhower - will help strengthen peace in the Middle East. Later in the day, King Saud delivered a speech at the United Nations - asking all the members ~~of~~ to renounce the use of force in international disputes.

Of course, there was ^{one} ~~that~~ discordant note in all this. Mayor Wagner, refusing to meet King Saud - calling the Lord of Arabia, "anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic, and the ruler of a slave state."

King Saud did not know about the Mayor's attitude until he arrived on land. A spokesman for the King describes him as feeling hurt - but saying that he came to see the President, and ~~that~~ that world affairs are more important than individuals.

ADD EISENHOWER DOCTRINE

Meanwhile

~~Over~~_λ in the House, the "Eisenhower doctrine" won a key victory today. The Congressmen approving - limited debate ~~on~~ on this legislation. The vote, two-hundred-and-sixty-two to one-hundred-and-forty-six. The size of the majority means-the
~~Mr.~~_λ Eisenhower's request is almost sure to be approved tomorrow.

HUNGARY

In Hungary, the last hope of achieving independence without violence - practically disappeared today. Premier Kadar - stated that his party will control all the trade unions. Kadar, admitting that his party is in a small minority - only twenty-five thousand, ~~But he~~ said his party is of therefore entitled to impose its rule on superior quality - and ~~will rule~~ the majority.

The Soviet puppet also agreed that he is adopting harsh measures - abolishing the Workers' Councils - banning strikes, and so on. But he went on to point out - that these measures are necessary, to insure Communist control in Hungary.

In Vienna, its believed that Kadar may begin a full scale ~~big~~ anti-West propaganda campaign. The Kremlin's henchmen, probably to stage "spy trials" in the typical Communist fashion, or at least, in the old style of Stalin.

SATELLITES

Reports reaching London from behind the Iron Curtain - indicate that Russia is cutting the size of the armies in its satellites. The Kremlin, afraid ^{that these troops} ~~that these troops~~ are not trustworthy - remembering how Hungarian soldiers turned against the Russians, during the ^{recent} ~~revolt~~. Also, ~~Poland has~~ ~~thrown out the Russian commander in chief - Marshal Rokossovsky -~~ ~~who was sent by Stalin to control Poland.~~

~~The~~ reports from behind the Iron Curtain say - the Kremlin is making no attempt to rebuild the Hungarian Army. Soldiers regarded as unreliable are being sent home - or ~~hunted~~ ^{off to} ~~else drafted into~~ ~~slave~~ slave labor camps. In Romania, a number of divisions have been disbanded. And Khrushchev is said to be considering a reduction of the armed forces in East Germany - where there have been demands for ~~g~~ greater freedom.

These reports note - that the satellite states are capable of raising one hundred divisions. Such a force, too large for the Russians to permit - if those divisions are liable to turn anti-Communist, in case of war.

At the same time, our Secretary of the Army reveals that the Russians have broken their promise - to cut their ~~own~~ armed strength. Last year, the Kremlin announced that more than a million men would be sent home. But today, Secretary Brucker informed the House armed Services Committee - there ^{is} ~~is~~ no evidence that the Russians have ^{done so.} ~~in reduced their armed forces~~ by ~~any significant number.~~

PRAVDA

The Russian people - are beginning to like bourgeois ideas, says Pravda, in a lead editorial. Saying - that a strong minority among the Russians - prefer Western notions - to Communist ideology. Pravda accuses this group of promoting, what the paper calls, "anti-Soviet ends." However, the Red paper goes on to admit that the Communist high brass is to blame, that party leaders are not close enough to the people - the mass of the Russians who are beginning to demand not only more information about world affairs, but also, about what is going on in the Kremlin.

DIPLOMAT

Denmark expels a Soviet diplomat, Colonel Anatoly Rogov, of the Russian embassy in Copenhagen. (We are not told ~~just~~ what Rogov did - the Danish government saying simply that he violated his diplomatic status. But) the belief is - (that) Rogov tried to get military secrets from Danish officers. ~~Anyway, the Soviet diplomat is called~~ "persona non grata" - ~~unacceptable~~ and ordered home to Moscow.

(We are not told ~~just~~ what Rogov did - the Danish government saying simply that he violated his diplomatic status. But) the belief is - (that) Rogov tried to get military secrets from Danish officers. ~~Anyway, the Soviet diplomat is called~~ personna non grata - ~~unacceptable~~ and ordered home to Moscow.

ALGIERS

In Algiers, three thousand Moslem workers went back to their jobs - at the orders of the French authorities. Troops marched into the Casbah, rounding up stevedores to work on the docks. The rest of the workers, compelled to ~~open~~ open stores and keep industries going. In some places, the doors of shops were broken down by the soldiers - trying to put an end to the general strike. Tanks patrolled the streets - while helicopters circled over head- but there was no violence in Algiers. The only shooting, in the interior, ^{where} ~~near~~ gunmen killed three pro-French Algerians.

CHOU EN LAI

The Premier of Red China is in Nepal. Chou En Lai, holding a news conference in Katmandu - ^{in a valley in the} ~~high up in the~~ Himalayas ^{not far from these monarchs of the} ~~snows, Annapurna, Mahalu, Lohite and Everest.~~

Chou devoted most of his remarks - to relations with the United States. ~~He~~ ^{ing} Repeated that he wants to meet with Secretary of State Dulles, ^{he} ~~he~~ said, he would go ~~any~~ anywhere to talk with our Secretary of State.

Chou also said that ten Americans now held in Red Chinese jails - might be released. But ~~he said~~ that America would have to hand over thirty-three Chinese - although our State Department ~~has~~ ^S ~~denied that~~ we are holding ^{any} ~~the~~ Chinese Communists.

Chou En Lai attacked America - for supporting the United Nations resolution on Kashmir. Our delegate agreed that India should not annex Kashmir - without a plebiscite in that disputed territory. Chou En Lai says - we insulted Nehru when we supported the resolution.

What about ⁺elations between Nepal and Tibet?

As we know, the Chinese Reds have ~~RE~~ occupied Tibet - the hermit kingdom on the roof of the world. ^{And} The border between ~~Ri~~ Tibet and Nepal - runs through the massive Himalaya[^] chain. The border, bisecting the highest peak on earth, Mt. Everest.

Chou En Lai was asked why his government keeps heavy patrols along that border? His answer - "to keep foreign mountaineers - from infiltrating Tibetan territory."

That seems like a ^{feeble} ~~pretty poor~~ excuse - ^{For such a up} ~~for the~~ build[^] up of Communist military strength along the ^{wild, mountainous Tibet-Nepal} border. ~~After all,~~ ~~mountaineers have been moving both ways for centuries. And~~ ~~its hard to see how Nepalese entering Tibet - could be a~~ ~~threat to the lands of the Lamas - now the land of the~~ ~~Communists.~~

ATOMIC

A London firm announces - ^{is} ~~its~~ accepting orders for American built atomic power plants. Humphreys and Glasgow, acting as agents for the Alco Products Corporation at ~~the~~ Schenectady, New York.

The plants are described as about the size of a tennis court. The sales price, five and a half million dollars. They come in three sizes - producing two thousand, five thousand ~~mm~~ or ten thousand kilowatts of power. The plants burn uranium - and can go without refueling for eighteen months.

These atomic plants are said to be ~~xxxx~~ completely safe. Customers can have them in about two years - the same time as for conventional power plants.

SENATE

The Senate clears the way for a ~~new~~ broad investigation - of labor and industry. Senate leaders, voting to debate a resolution offered by Senator McClellan of Arkansas. Senator McClellan, saying that, in his words, "criminal activities in labor and industry" ought to be investigated. In other words, the McClellan resolution is not aimed at the unions alone. The purpose is ~~to~~ to examine conditions in management as well.

FLOOD

The village of Pound ten feet under water tonight. Pound, near Big Stone Gap - on U.S. highway Twenty Three. All twelve hundred inhabitants - flooded out - evacuated to higher ground.

The reason for the flood - rain. For the past three days a deluge. Sending the Pound River over its banks. Also its tributary - Indian Creek. The village inundated to a depth of ten feet. Houses carried away - the electrical plant, knocked out. Other buildings flooded up to the second story.

Tonight, rescue workers salvaging what they can - in the flooded village of Pound, Virginia.

BUTLER

Here's a follow-up to a story we had yesterday - about a "perfect butler" who turned out to be an old jewel thief. A top Argentine Cabinet Minister. The Minister defending Sparks - saying, you don't fire a perfect butler - just because he once got into trouble with the law.

Today we hear of a butler in London with a past much like that of Sparks. To make the story all the more interesting - he's a butler who works in the home of the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The butler, Donald McLeod, told his story to a reporter from the "Daily Mail." He says he was involved in the same robbery as Sparks, the theft of jewels from the home of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland in Nineteen Fifty Two. He never went to jail - because at the trial, he turned Queen's evidence. The man who advised him to do that was Peter Thorneycroft, who promised McLeod a job. And so McLeod became butler in Thorneycroft's home.

Peter Thorneycroft, now Chancellor of the Exchequer of Her Majesty's government. Donald McLeod, ex-jewel thief, his butler.

Well, the story of these two butlers - Sparks and McLeod - is a strange twist in the news. Both, guilty of robbing the Duke of Sutherland. Both, now working as butlers in the homes of Cabinet Ministers - one in Buenos Aires, the other in London.

STEWARDESS

What is it like to be a stewardess on a big passenger plane?

Well, tonight the Northwest Airlines - salutes Stewardess Virginia Buss of Minneapolis. Virginia, on a plane flying into Washington - on a plane carrying among others a U.S. Marshall and four deputies - and four prisoners.

At dinnertime, the stewardess was on her way to the cockpit - when suddenly one prisoner, Louis Arquilla, threw his dinner plate at the deputy guarding him and then lunged at the stewardess.

Virginia the Stewardess just managed to get out of the main cabin and slam the door. Then she tried to hold it with Arquilla trying to push it open.

The pilot says he heard a scream and the crash - and when he looked around, the door was going in and out. He jumped up and helped his stewardess hold it closed. Meanwhile, on the other side, the guard jumped up and knocked the prisoner to the floor with a blackjack. He then hand-cuffed Arquilla and there was no more trouble during the flight.

WOMAN

An unemployment commissioner in Hartford, Connecticut - rules that a woman is not justified in leaving her job, because she objects to off-color stories. The name of this particular lady is not ~~is~~ given. All we know is, that she works at a factory in Hartford - or at least used to. But she heard some ribald jokes in a lunch room. They must have made her blush, or something. Anyway, the lady employee of that factory - quit the job - said she couldn't take any more of those jokes.

The unemployment commissioner rejects her argument, he says if she doesn't like off-color jokes - she should eat — or put cotton in her ears;
in private, And stay on the job.

PLANE

Des Moines, Iowa had some excitement today - buzzed by a Cessna one-seventy-two, ~~The plane,~~ seized by a student pilot - Roy Soderquist, who at the point of a gun - ordered the pilot to step aside. ~~Ma~~ Then ^{the student} ~~Soderquist~~ jumped in - and took off.

For four hours he zoomed over Des Moines, buzzed ~~the State Capitol~~ the State Capitol and a water tower, flew so low over the downtown section that he was ~~at~~ below the tops of buildings.

Frantic messages were sent to him, by radio to come back. Telling him his mother was worried. ^{But he} ~~all this~~ ^{- Henry -} ~~he ignored~~ ^{kept on} buzzing Des Moines, 'til he ran out of gas, ^{and} ~~Then he~~ crash-landed in a corn field, ~~on the edge of the city.~~
