

L.T. - Olds, Fri. Oct. 14 - '60.

At eight ten this morning, a band began to play - on the south lawn of the White House. Blaring out the melodies of "happy birthday," and, "Army blue". The first, a salute to President Eisenhower - on his seventieth birthday. The second, the West Point marching song that ~~Mr.~~ Eisenhower ~~has loved~~ ^{has been an} ^{favorite} ever since ~~he was a~~ ^{his} cadet ^{days} on the plains above the Hudson. Those who saw the President this morning, say that "Army Blue" brought a tear - to the Presidential eye.

Talking to newsmen later, Mr. Eisenhower said he feels fine - even though he is the oldest man ever to live in the White House. What are his and Mrs. Eisenhower's plans - for retirement? They expect to spend a lot of time - at their Gettysburg farm.

That is, after President Eisenhower has fulfilled his commitments as former President - speeches, conference^s, tours and so on. Today President Eisenhower did ~~not~~ ^{not} mention the report that he intends to serve the next administration in some capacity - if Nixon is elected. - Eisenhower to stay on as a special roving ambassador,

KHRUSHCHEV

The reception Khrushchev received in Moscow, today - wasn't as enthusiastic as his last one. Perhaps ~~that's~~ because he brought the cold war ^{spirit home} with him - instead of the spirit of Camp David. Even the Russians know ~~his~~ ^{he} often he referred to war at the U N.

Well, The Soviet press is full of rapturous articles - on Khrushchev's triumph in New York. ^{However} Outside the Iron Curtain - there's a good deal of skepticism about that. Western newspapers seem to agree - that the Red Boss lost ^{far} more than he gained. "Le Figaro" of Paris sums it up like this: - "even the African delegates were shocked by Khrushchev's vulgar buffoonery."

MIKOYAN

Anastas Mikoyan - first Deputy Premier, who used to be the Kremlin trouble shooter. Mikoyan who toured America, ~~was~~ and prepared the way for Khrushchev. Mikoyan - who visited Cuba a few months ago, apparently again laying the groundwork for a Khrushchev visit.

~~But~~ There ^{has} been talk around Moscow - of a rift between Khrushchev and Mikoyan. The Armenian financier hasn't been seen at public functions - for some weeks. And the latest history of the Armenian Communist Party - doesn't mention Mikoyan. So in Moscow, the question is growing more insistent - will Mikoyan be the next ~~to~~ of Khrushchev's associates to disappear from Soviet public life?

AFRICA

President Eisenhower's declaration on Africa today - was an obvious slap at Khrushchev. The President spoke to the African U N delegates - at the White House.

He warned his guests that a predatory world power - wants to snatch away their freedom. An obvious A reference - to Khrushchev, and his attempt to seize control of the Congo.

President Eisenhower noted that - Africans are not merely choosing between two systems of government. They're choosing between - freedom and slavery. And he added that ~~And~~ our purpose is to help them choose - freedom.

CONGO

That lynching attempt in Leopoldville - was obviously planned in advance. Finance Minister Nidelly, Interior Minister Nussbaumer, and Deputy Candolo - were leaving a news conference. As they came out of the hotel, a truck roared up to the curb - and a group of Lumumba's men jumped out. ~~They~~ seized Nidelly, threw him to the ground, beat him - and then began to drag him with his two companions toward the truck.

CUBA

Cuba's drift toward Communism ~~became~~ became more pronounced today - when the Havana government abandoned the free enterprise system. Castro, nationalizing lamost four hundred businesses - worth billions of dollars. Almost all - under Cuban ownership. Compensation? Castro tells the Cuban owners - maybe. But he repeats he won't pay the American owners - anything.

The confiscations are causing - more defections. A band of seven Cubans arrived in Miami today - after flying four light planes from their Communist dominated island. ^{KA} A more staggering blow to Castro's prestige - came at the U N, when one of his alternate delegates rebuffed him. Dr. Teresa Caruso is asking for asylum in the United States. She was one of Castro's most loyal supporters - and defended him at the U N, as long as her conscience would let her. Today the lady diplomat stepped out - saying, "I cannot represent dishonesty - Castro is a Dictator."

GUNMAN

In New York, they've caught "the Hook".

Francisco Molina, prime suspect in the death of nine year old Magdalena Urdaneta of Venezuela - who was shot during a fight between Castroites and anti-Castroites. Molina is accused of firing the shot - in the restaurant where Magdalena and her parents were having dinner.

~~M~~ Molina gets his nickname - because he has only one hand. Wears a hook - in its place. Hence "The Hook".

The most arrogant of Castro's bully boys in New York - Molina was found cowering in a closet during a routine check by the police and F. B. I.

SUBMARINE

Tonight our nuclear submarine "Patrick Henry" - is at sea. Her orders - "get lost." Meaning - the atomic sub is somewhere, deep in the Atlantic, on a simulated war time exercise. Her problem is to show that she can prowl the oceans of the world - without being discovered. Since she's armed with Polaris missiles, that can be fired under water - the "Patrick Henry" takes her place in our "deterrent fleet". The atomic sub that will make Khrushchev think twice - before starting a war.

PETS

Tonight we have a couple of animal stories - from England. First, the story of Ron Gipson - and his tavern. Ron runs the local pub - in Rumford, England. He never kept a ~~no~~ cat or a dog - and his customers began to complain. Asking - what's a British pub, without any pets?

Ron the pub owner heard the question so often - he decided to do something about it. Yesterday, when he opened ~~no~~ for business - the Rumford toppers found that their host was trying to satisfy them. Inside the pub, they ran into - six chickens, four sheep, two monkeys, a pig, a donkey, and a Himalayan bear. That's not all. Ron Gipson assured them - a chimpanzee is due to arrive any day.

Well, that pub in Rumford, England, is a bit crowded tonight. Ron Gipson? He can't understand - why his customers are still complaining. "There's just no satisfying some people", says the pub owner -as his Hiamalyan bear ambles from customer to customer, demanding a pint^t of beer. Now lets ramble over to our oldemobile.

GOLF

A dispatch from Tokyo says that so many caddies are conked by flying golf balls every week - that plastic helmets are being issued to them. And they are receiving special lessons - in how to duck.

The point is - the opposite approach to the problem didn't work. They tried to teach the duffers - not to be so wild. But golf balls kept whizzing in all directions - over the golf courses in and around Tokyo. The only solution - plastic helmets for the caddies; and lessons - in how to duck. Oh yês, maybe you've heard - all caddies in Japan are girls.
