KENNEDY IT- COLDS. Fri. Sept. 22 nd. 61.

This weekend will see a split between President Kennedy - and Congress. A geographical split, that is - not necessarily political.

Tonight the President is in Hyannisport; - and he won't be back in Washington for ten days. The most important date on the presidential calendar Monday, in New York,

Mr. Hennedy, to deliver that major address - before the General assembly of the U N.

With Chief Executive out of Washington - Congress is all set to adjourn tomorrow. The evacuation of Capitol Hill okayed by the White House - after congressional leaders told President Kennedy that both chambers can reconvene within twenty four hours. And will - if the President calls them back because of any new international crisis.

Meanwhile, both executive and legislature - were cleaning up their desks today. President Kennedy, signing - several bills. One - giving his peace corps permanent status.

Another, authorizing seventy-five million dollars over the next six years - for research en converting salt water into fresh water.

Congress in turn, okayed the President's nomination of Fowler Hamilton - as the first head of our new Foreign Aid agency. The big hurdle before adjournment - the still pending foreign aid bill.

KHRUSHCHEV

What everybody expected. Nikita, all sees sweet reason - in his letter to Nehru. Professing to want an end to - world tension. Declaring that of course he's ready to negotiate - at any level. But the catch - is still there. Namely that the Soviet Dictator demands recognition - of his East German puppet, as a sovereign regime. And Khrushchev sixth didn't mention - western rights in West Berlin.

As the Khrushchev in letter to Nehru was being made public - one western leader was giving his reply. DeGaulle, on a whistle stop tour - through France. Repeatedly stating his position - on Berlin. Which is that talks with Khrushchev ought to be held - as men soon as Khrushchev stops threatening the West. DeGaulle, referring to "an ambitious imperialist bloc that seeks to rule the free world." Adding - "France is one of those who will not permit this."

AMERICANS

The American people are strongly behind President Kennedy - on the matter of standing up to Khrushchev. = euppose we all knew that But it's more official - coming from civil defense officers across the country. While thousands of Americans are beginning to ask about fall-out shelters practically no one blames our government for the necessity. They put the blame where it belongs - on Khrushchev. Insisting they don't want to see this country as pushed around by the boss of the Kremlin. That's why so many Americans are willing to run the risk of war. Wy Why they re building - fall-out shelters. Let's hope that Khrushchev is getting - this wessego torbleseden

In his speech before the Foreign Press Association at the U N - Secretary of State Rusk concentrated on the key issue confronting the delegates. The issue of - a replacement for Dag Hammarskjold. Dean Rusk, flatly opposing the Soviet scheme for a three-man directorate -- a "troika". Telling his audience - that an interim Secretary General must be elected. Because if the delegates fail to do this - the data fate of their organization will be in doubt. As Dean Rusk put it today "The U N is at a critical crossroads."

The Secretary of State refused to predict whether his private talks with Gromyko - will lead to anything useful. But sources close to the Ex State Department and the U N are saying tonight - that Gromyko has been unyielding on the Soviet bid force the west out of Berlin. With no indication that there will be any change - on that.

Foreign Minister Kosaka taking up the question of - atomic testing. Pointing out that his country is being deluged with - fall out. The atmosphere over Japan - polluted by debris from nuclear explosions in the Soviet Union. Kosaka, asking the delegates - for a condemnation of Moscow. Of Khrushchev -- Khurhahabaxx for brutally violating the test moratorium.

The Japanese charge, pointed up by - Russia's fifteenth nuclear test of the current series. The blast, touched off - as the Foreign Minister was speaking.

ALGERIA

Violence is sweeping through Algeria in the wake of yesterday's fertilative television incident. The one in which DeGaulle's picture suddenly faded - from French T V screens.

The voice of the commentator, replaced by the voice of right wing leader, General Salan - who has been sentenced to death in absentia. Salan, calling for the overthrow - of DeGaulle.

For a right wing government, pledged to keep Algeria united to France.

Result- some thirty terrorist bomb explosions throughout Algeria. Several - killed. More than forty - injured. The Algerian right wing, apparently forcing - another show-down with DeGaulle.

ADD ALGERIA

Tonight Algeria's television was knocked out for a second time. The right wingers, again putting a spokesman - in place of the usual program. Again the appeal for action - by all Frenchmen who support the right wing in Algeria.

In the Congo, more violence over - food. Hungry

trible men

Balubas, invading Elizabethville. - Jundreds of the Storming

ransacking
into houses - ransacking kitchens and pantries. Some of the invaders, going berserk. Swinging bush knives called "pangas".

Sword-like knives - with blades as sharp as razors. The number of casualties - said to be high. Many of them, Balubas - who are fighting among themselves. Fighting - over food.

Russia - could have had college preparatory work right at home in Newark, New Jersey. Fourteen year old Huldah Clark was accepted by - the Essex County Vocational School For Girls. But her father decided to transfer her - to Moscow.

This, at Khrushchev's invitation - and Ext at the expense of the Soviet government. William Clark, contending that his daughter can't get a decent education - in the United States.

That contention is being vigorously denied - by many negro leaders. As one of them said today - "where does Mr. Clark think that Ralph Bunche and Thurgood Marshall were educated?"

INTEGRATION

The interstate commerce commission orders an end to - segregation on interstate buses. The ruling applies to vehicles - and terminal facilities. The commission, siding with the Attorney General. In favor of integration.

A ruling that apparently accomplishes - what the freedom riders set out to do.

The Justice Department has filed another suit against the manufacturers of electrical equipment. Nine firms are accused of bilking the federal government. Fixing prices and rigging bids - on heavy electrical insulators.
Attorney General Kennedy says he'll direct the case - in court ry to collect damages.

WEATHER

The south and the east are lucky tonight - because they are no longer in the weather news. The hurricane, gone-the skies clear in Texas and Massachusetts. So let's turn to - the Rocky Mountains. Subject - snow. Eighteen inches, falling - from Colorado to Montana. Hardest hit, Baretooth Pass, Montana - which tonight is closed by snowdrifts ten feet high. This may have been officially - the last day of summer. But a wintry wind is churning up a blizzard - in the Rockies. Eighteen more inches of snow. What ho, Dick - let's go.

Tonight, the Hawaiians Ray another spectacular in technicolor. Mount Halemaumau, erupting - with a deafening roar. Rivers of lava, pouring down the sides - of the volcano. A titanic column of dense bisck smoke - rising hundreds of feet into the air. A lurid red glow - lighting up the sky. Earthquakes? It seems hard to believe - but a hundred and fifty tremors have hit the area at the foot of Hawaii's Halemaumau.
