

Sunday, April 9, 1972

Marist Oarsman Win Spring Fever Regatta

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.— The Marist College lightweight and freshman crews scored solid victories to lead the Red Foxes to the team championship of the Spring Fever Regatta Saturday at Wesleyan University.

The University of Massachusetts heavyweight varsity shell edged Marist by a half-length as the Bay Starters placed second in team scoring, two points behind the Red Foxes.

It was the largest regatta ever on the Connecticut River as 27 shells raced in six events over the cold, choppy 2,000-meter course.

In the varsity event, Marist jumped to a half-length lead after 20 strokes as the Red Foxes rowed at a 38-stroke-per-minute pace.

The course then became choppy and the heavier UMass crew caught the North Roaders and stayed even until the half-way mark.

The Massachusetts oarsmen then sprinted to a half-length lead. With 300 meters to go, the Red Foxes tried to catch them but could not.

Marist's freshman eight won its race by 13 seconds. The little Red Foxes jumped into a 39-stroke-per-minute pace then settled down to 32 and were not seriously challenged.

The Poughkeepsie school's lightweights went off at 38 strokes then settled to 34 as they sat on their 3/4-length lead.

"We're just trying to get our lightweight boat together," said coach Bill Austin. "This was one combination that worked and I hope we'll improve."

In the open four-man race New York Maritime edged Marist by eight seconds. The Red Foxes did not enter shells in the junior varsity heavyweight or varsity four-man events.

Results

Open four—1 Maritime, 2. Marist, 3. Wesleyan. Time — 6:47
Heavyweight frosh—1 Marist, 2. Villanova, 3. UMass "A", 4. Wesleyan, 5. UMass "B", 6. Maritime. Time — 5:40
Junior varsity—1. UMass, 2. Maritime, 3. Stony Brook. Time — 6:00
Varsity four—1. UMass, 2. Villanova, 3. Wesleyan. Time — 6:25
Lightweight—1. Marist, 2. Wesleyan, 3. Maritime. Time — 5:55
Varsity—1. UMass, 2. Marist, 3. Wesleyan, 4. Villanova, 5. Maritime, 6. Stony Brook. Time — 5:31

Team	Team scoring	Points
Marist		18
UMass		16
Wesleyan		8
Maritime		5
Villanova		3
Stony Brook		2

Marist Crews To Entertain Powerful Marietta Sunday

Marist crews will face their toughest tests of the season when they entertain water-wise Marietta College on the Hudson River Sunday. The competition marks the first time that the visitors' shells will have appeared on the Hudson. Marietta is a perennial national small school power and already is a favorite in the Dad Vail Regatta later this season. The varsity race Sunday is set for 11 a.m. and will be preceded by the freshman lightweight clashes.

Today, lightweight coach Tom Haight takes his crew to New York City for a go at its Iona and Fordham counterparts. The meeting begins on the Harlem River at 11 a.m.

The lightweights edged out Wesleyan University at the Spring Fever Regatta last weekend to run their record to 5-0. Haight brings his crew back Sunday to confront Marietta and says he is "confident that the Red Foxes can make a good showing based on their win over Wesleyan."

Marist varsity coach Bill Austin said he is optimistic about the chances of his rowers, especially after the strong run they made in the Spring Fever. The University of Massachusetts nipped them in the finals.

On the freshman side, Bill Lenahan's crew is coming off a big victory over Villanova in the Spring Fever but he says its performance against Marietta will provide the most accurate gauge of its ability.

Marietta won junior varsity, lightweight and freshman titles at the Dad Vail championships last year.

Sunday, April 16, 1972

Marist Crew Wins Handily

Marist College's freshman crew soundly defeated Stockton State Saturday in a mile race on the Hudson River

Marist's time was seven minutes, two seconds to the Atlantic City, N.J. school's 7:32.

"We just had too much experience for them," said Marist head frosh coach Bill Lenehan. Stockton is new in crew but they'll be tough in the future."

Lenehan expects his crews to get their biggest tests today against national champion Marietta of Ohio on the Hudson. The frosh race begins 10:15 a.m., the lightweight race at 10:45 and the varsity at 11:15.

Marist's boating in Saturday's race was Bill Crawford, coxswain; Jim Browning, stroke; Pat Duffy, Dave Drews, John Tracy, Joe Gunther, Kevin O'Connor, Tom Duffy and Snedden. bow

Marietta Sweeps Marist Crews

Flashing some of the form that ranks it among the nations small school rowing powers, Marietta College swept three crew races against Marist Sunday on the Hudson River.

In a junior varsity matchup, the Ohio school added a fourth victory, chasing the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy of King's Point.

Marietta overcame a slim Marist advantage at the midway point of the varsity competition to win over the 2,000-meter course in 6 minutes, 40 seconds. The Red Foxes trailed by one boat length in 6:46.

Marist coach Bill Austin said he would have his crew working on its endurance in preparation for this weekend's battle against Trinity and Ithaca at Hartford, Conn. It was the second outing in which the Red Foxes had rowed strongly over the first half only to collapse shy of the finish line.

In the losers' shell were man Dick Cotter, John Wilson, Matt O'Brien, Steve McDermott, Bob Creedon, Joe Puvogel, Joe McHugh and Marty Torrey, bow.

In the lightweight race, Marietta jumped into a one-length lead and maintained the margin throughout, clocking 7:52. Coach Tom Haight's crew finished seven seconds later.

The Marist freshman contingent ran into waves caused by the passing of a cabin cruiser at the start of its race and never recovered. Marietta stomped to a three-length lead and maintained it for the duration of the run. The winners' time was 6:23. The Red Foxes came across 11 seconds later.

Marietta's junior varsity rowers covered a shorter 1,500-meter distance in 5:42, six seconds faster than the Merchant Marine shell.

Former Roosevelt High School rower Craig Pierce was one of the men in Marietta's freshman shell.

Poughkeepsie Journal Photos by James P. Deckner

MARIETTA COLLEGE made its first appearance on Hudson River a successful one Sunday, winning three races from Marist and taking a fourth from U.S. Merchant Marine Academy. In top photo, the visitors' freshman shell pulls away enroute to three-length victory. The varsities (middle rowed evenly for much of their meeting before Red Foxes faltered to lose by one boat length. The Marist lightweights (bottom, foreground) struggle to make up ground against visitors.

Marist Frosh Crew Wins

HARTFORD, Conn. — The Marist College crews went up against New England champion Trinity on the Connecticut River yesterday but only one shell came away with anything to brag about.

Freshman coach Bill Lenahan was looking forward to a tough contest and noted beforehand that the results "would be a true test of our ability."

It appears that the Red Foxes have little to worry about because they turned back some pesky Ithaca (N.Y.) rowers while the Trinity frosh, last year's New England champs, finished a distant third. The Merchant Marine Academy of King's Point, N.Y., came in fourth.

The Marist varsity was beaten by Trinity and Tom Haight's lightweights finished second in a three-crew field.

Merchant Marine won the race.

Lenahan was elated after his crew's victory and said the performance definitely makes the Red Foxes contenders for a national championship. "Although it's risky to cite comparative times," he pointed out, "Marietta (considered perhaps the nation's best) beat Trinity by only three seconds." The Red Foxes topped that.

They rowed against a strong current over the 1,500-meter, swollen course, winning in 5 minutes, 42 seconds. Ithaca came across six seconds later and Trinity's time was 5:59.5, a full 17 seconds back.

Varsity coach Bill Austin said his crew started roughly and never really got back in the race.

A Marist oarsman caught a crab and lost his oar just off the starting line and another

Red Fox rower had a similar experience near the end of the race.

Austin said that his crew was "a little excited" and added that "it will work hard to smooth out the boat" for this weekend's President's Cup Regatta on the Hudson.

Trinity's winning time was 5:37. Marist was clocked at 5:43, third-place Ithaca at 5:45.1 and the Merchant Marine at 6:00.

Haight's lightweights tasted victory in their race but couldn't hold on in the stretch. Merchant Marine pulled out to a two-boat-length lead but the Red Foxes caught them midway through and edged ahead by half a boat length. Merchant Marine wouldn't fold and came on to win by 15 meters in 5:55.7.

Marist was timed in 5: The Red Foxes' time was 5:57.5 and Trinity was third in 6:08.8.

The Marist open four boat picked up a win, nudging Trinity's entry by one second, 7:17-7:18. The Poughkeepsie school won it in the last three strokes.

2E—Poughkeepsie Journal

Sunday, April 30, 1972

Marist Wins

Team Trophy In

President's Regatta →

By ROBERT FRIEFELD

After nine years of trying, Marist College won the Herbert J. Haight Memorial Team trophy at the President's Cup Regatta Saturday on the Hudson River.

In a strong come-from-behind finish, the Red Foxes won the freshmen race, which was last on the program, to edge St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, which won two of the three races it competed in, 17-14.

The regatta is named after Dr. Linus Foy, president of Marist, who helped revive collegiate rowing on the Hudson.

Before the first race was to start at 10:30 a.m., officials decided to run the varsity race while conditions on the river were still good. When the varsity event started, the water was a little choppy as the wind was blowing against the tide. However, conditions were termed "excellent" by Marist coach Bill Austin. The distance of the first three races was reduced from 2,000 meters to about 1,700 meters because the tide was coming in.

St. Joseph's, the favorite, jumped out to a slight lead at the start of the varsity contest rowing about 40 strokes per minute. Marist was second and Wooster Polytechnic Institute was third. At the halfway point, the Philadelphia school was leading by a length and a half and the North Roaders were in second by 2-3 of a length. St. Joseph's won by almost two lengths in 5:30 and Marist was second at 5:38.

St. Joseph's coach Joe Toland said, "We have a young crew with no seniors. They had a good, continuous flow, rowing at 35 strokes per minute most of the way." The Hawks' varsity is 3-2, losing to the Navy and Coast Guard Academies.

Paul Rudolph, the Hawks' stroke man, has competed in the Netherlands and Italy for the United States junior team. "We expect to be tough for the Dad Vail Regatta if we continue to improve," he said. The Dad Vail is the small-school crew championships which will be held in two weeks on the Delaware River.

"The other crews started quickly in the varsity event," said Austin. "After 25 strokes, we pulled to within a length of St. Joseph's and held on during the body of the race. We must work on the start if we can improve, it will make a big difference."

In the freshman race, the distance was increased to the full 2,000 meter Olympic distance. Worcester jumped to a slight lead followed by Villanova. With a mile to go, Villanova was leading by three seats with Marist closing fast. The Red Foxes increased their pace to 38 strokes per minute and took the lead by a length with $\frac{3}{4}$ mile left. The North Roaders steadily pulled away until they won by almost four lengths clocking in at 7:51.6. Villanova was second at 8:03.6.

"We were a little tired," said frosh coach Bill Lenehan. "We sprinted really well after a sluggish start. The steering was poor and it's something we'll have to work on." Marist had to finish at least third in the race to take the team trophy.

Marist's winning freshmen included Jim Browning, stroke, Pat Duffy, Dave Drews, John Tracy, Joe Guenther, Kevin O'Connor, Tom Duffy, Bob Sneed, bow and Bill Crawford, cox. Drews went to Poughkeepsie High School.

St. Joseph's also won the junior varsity race, whipping Holy Cross by nine seconds. A stretcher broke on Iona's shell, delaying the race for about half an hour until it was repaired. By that time, water conditions had improved until the river was almost flat.

The lightweight race was by far the closest. It was the first 2,000 meter event of the afternoon. Fordham took the early lead which it maintained until the Rams caught a crab (the water caught an oar dragging it down) with 10 strokes to go and were overtaken by Villanova at the finish line. The winners were clocked at 6:50, Fordham at 6:50.5 and Marist was third at 6:55.

"We were all together after 500 meters," said Marist coach Tom Haight. "We dropped behind by a half length, but might have won if we sprinted sooner."

Villanova handed St. Joseph's its only defeat of the morning in the four-man open race. The winners were clocked at 6:49. 2nd St. Joseph's at 6:57. The Red Foxes were last with a time of 7:14.

The crowd at the Marist boathouse was about 500. Many spectators were from the out-of-town schools but all seemed to be enjoying the warm sun.

Marist's facilities, about eight years old, are a pleasant contrast to the boat houses now used by the high schools several hundred feet to the north. The high school facilities date to the 1920's and 1930's when they belonged to the big-name schools such as Wisconsin and Cornell, in the days when Poughkeepsie was the site of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association championships. The poor state of the older buildings in one reason Poughkeepsie is no longer the collegiate crew capital of the nation.

Team Scoring

Team	Points
Marists	17
St. Joseph's	14
Holy Cross	12
Worcester Polytechnic	12
Villanova	11
Merchant Marines	8
Fordham	7
Washington College	7
Iona	3
Trinity	1

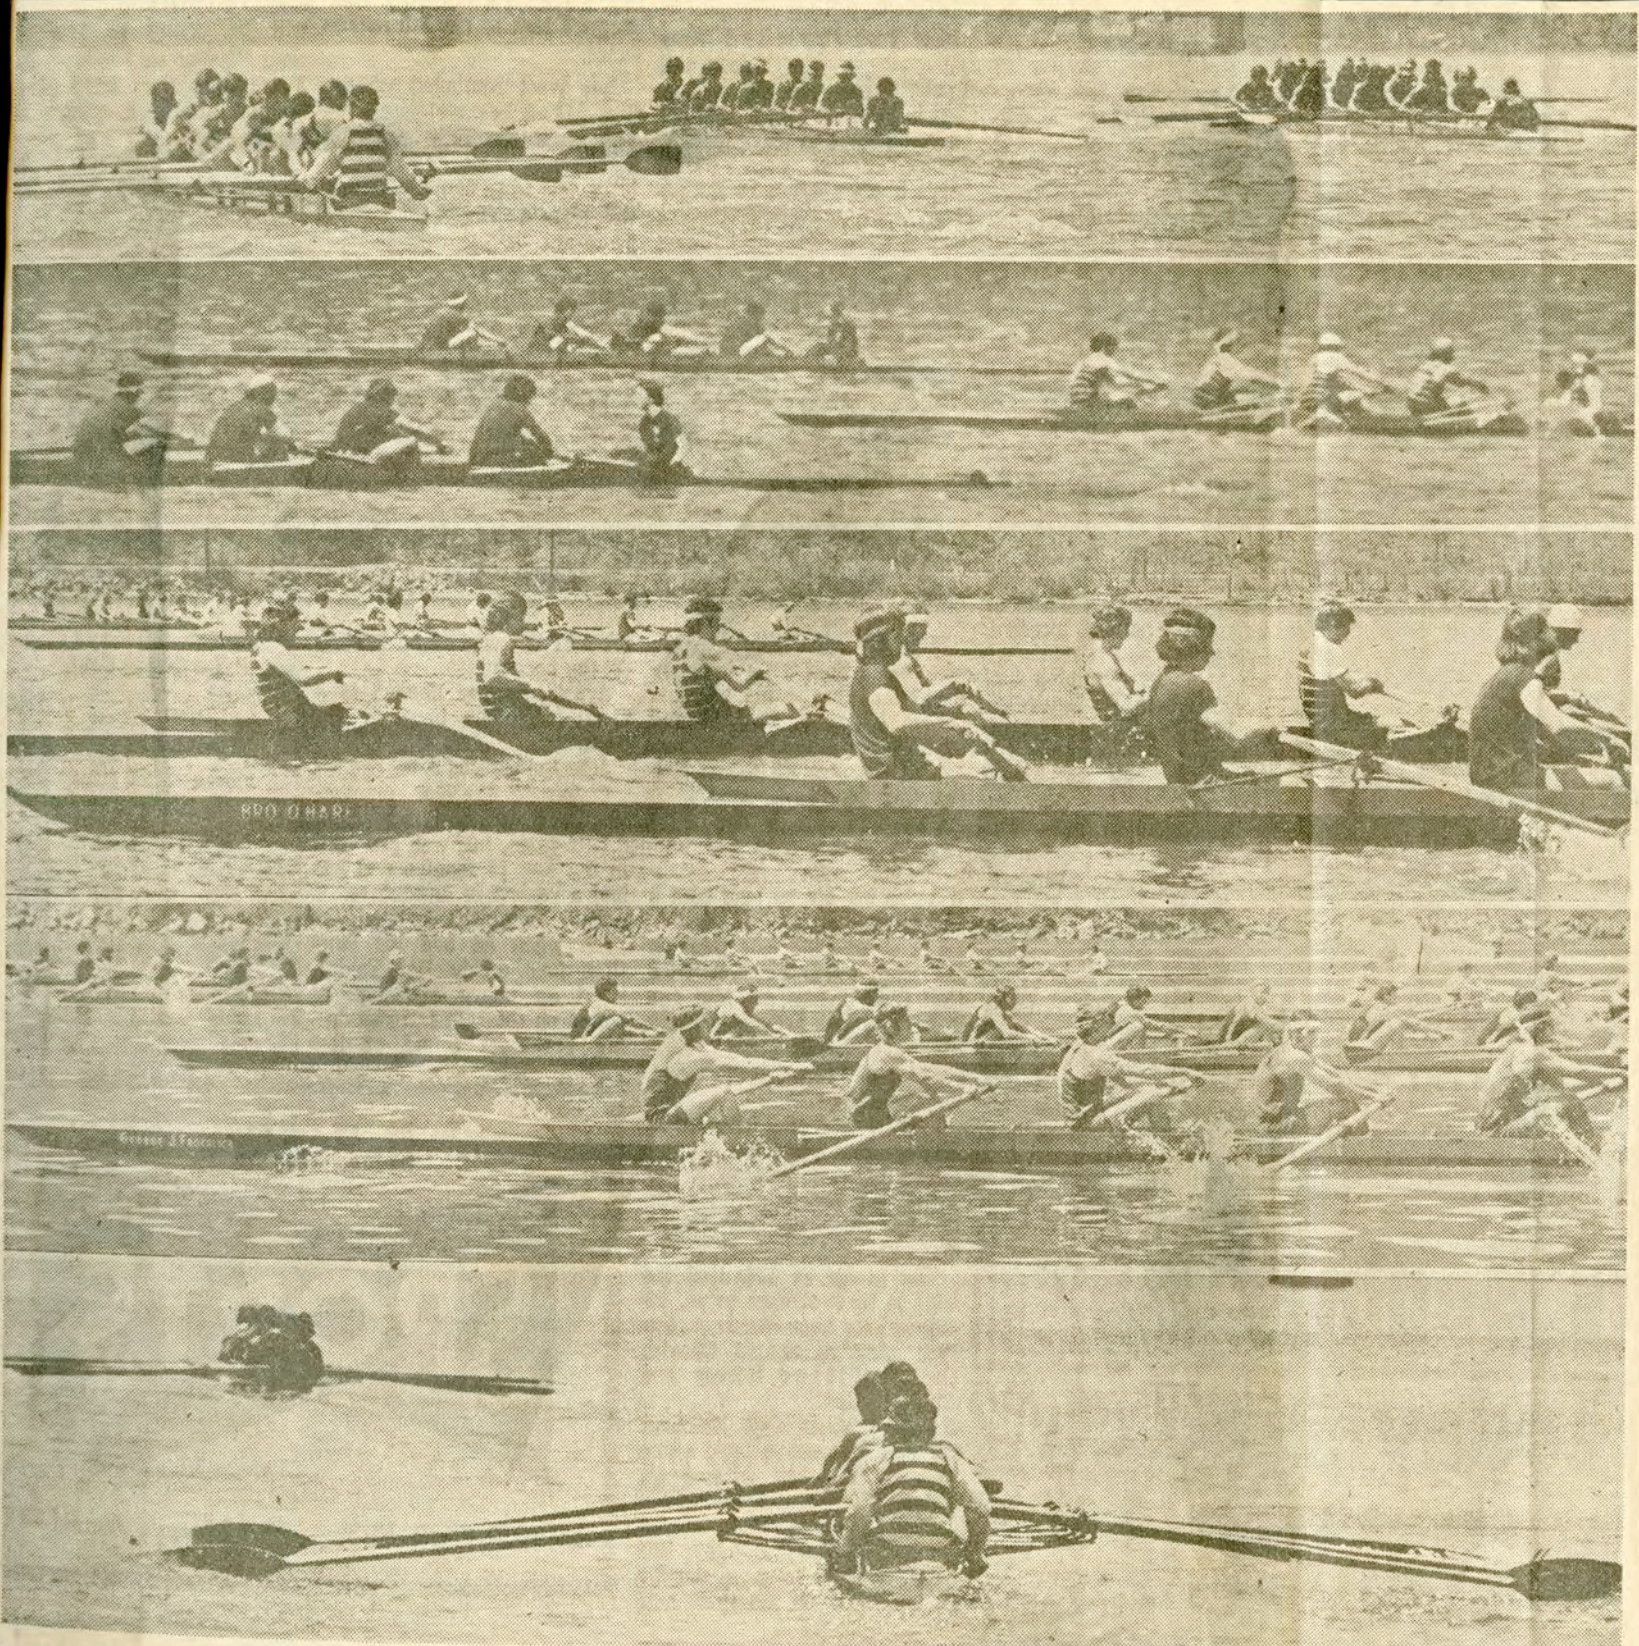

Varsity—1. St. Joseph's, 2. Marist, 3. W.P.I., 4. Holy Cross, 5. Washington, 6. Merchant Marines. Winning time, 5:30.

Four-man open—1. Villanova, 2. St. Joseph's, 3. Iona, 4. Worcester, 5. Marist, 6:49.2.

Junior varsity—1. St. Joseph's, 2. Holy Cross, 3. Washington, 4. Iona, 5. Fordham, 6:20.

Lightweight—1. Villanova, 2. Fordham, 3. Marist, 4. Merchant Marine, 5. Worcester, 6. Trinity, 6:50.

Freshman—1. Marist, 2. Villanova, 3. Worcester, 4. Merchant Marine, 5. Holy Cross, 7:51.6.

Poughkeepsie Journal Photos by James P. Deckner

ST. JOSEPH'S VARSITY CREW (top picture, center) takes big lead over Marist (right) and Merchant Marine Academy in Saturday's President's Cup Regatta on Hudson River. St. Joseph's won race and Marist was second. Villanova (foreground, second picture from top) edges St. Joseph's (left) and Iona (background) in the four-man race. Iona (foreground, middle picture)

and St. Joseph's are off from the starting line in junior varsity race won by St. Joseph's. Marist lightweight crew (foreground, second picture from bottom) gets late start in race won by Villanova. Marist was third. Marist freshmen (left, bottom picture) are way out in front as they win over Villanova (on right). Marist won team championship.

IT'S SATURDAY but that's not the reason Bill Crawford, Marist College freshman coxswain, is getting a bath in Hudson River. Marist won race in President's Cup Regatta and dunking is traditional reward for victorious coxy.

Poughkeepsie Journal Photo

MARIST COLLEGE CREW COACH Bill Austin, right, holds Herbert J. Haight Memorial Team Trophy won by Marist Saturday at President's Cup Regatta on Hudson River. Others from left are Paul Rudolph, St. Joseph's varsity captain; Dennis Fugedy, St. Joseph's junior varsity coxswain; Chris Early, Villanova lightweight coxswain and James Browning, Marist freshman captain.

JOE STOKES

JOHN TROCHER

DAVE DREWS

3 Poughkeepsians Rowing For Marist

Three Poughkeepsie residents are on the Marist College crew teams, according to head coach Bill Austin.

David Drews, 41 Oakwood Boulevard, is a 1971 graduate of Poughkeepsie High School where he rowed four years for the Pioneers. After graduation, Dave competed in the World Youth Trials before going to Marist where he's a freshman history major.

Joe Stokes, 16 Allen Place, is also a 1971 PHS graduate and rowed four years at the city school. He's a business major.

John Trocher, 58 Crestwood Boulevard, Town of Poughkeepsie, is a senior business major and co-captain of the lightweight team. He was a member of the junior varsity last season and a main reason for Marist's second place finish in the Dad Vail Regatta. John graduated from PHS in 1968. At that time, Austin was coach there.

Marist Crews Seek Another Regatta Win

24—Poughkeepsie Journal
Friday, May 5, 1972

With their victory in the President's Cup fresh in their minds, Marist College's crews will be off to Worcester, Mass., Saturday for the Rusty Callow Regatta, also known as the New England championships.

The Red Foxes join other members of the Rusty Callow Rowing Association: Trinity, Wesleyan, Amherst, Clark, American International and Worcester Polytechnic Institute and non-members Holy Cross, Coast Guard Academy, Williams and the University of Rhode Island, in the final program before the national championships, the Dad Vail Regatta, next weekend in Philadelphia.

The Coast Guardsmen are favored in the varsity race. Trinity, which has defeated Marist already this year, is also a chief contender. Worcester and the Red Foxes are given an outside chance.

The lightweight race should see Marist fighting it out with the Coast Guard. Marist coach Tom Haight is still trying to find the right combination.

The Marist freshmen, winners in their President's Cup race, hope to take the New England crown. Trinity and the Coast Guard should give the Foxes a good fight.

Marist has yet to win in the nine-year history of the program.

Sunday, May 7, 1972

Marist Freshman Crew Wins New England Title

WORCESTER, Mass. — The Marist College freshman crew established itself as a serious candidate for honors in the Dad Vail Regatta this weekend when it borrowed a new varsity shell and won the New England rowing championship in the Rusty Callow Regatta Saturday on Lake Quinsigamond.

It was the Poughkeepsie school's first victory in the Massachusetts event and followed a win in the President's Cup Regatta last Saturday.

The Red Foxes battled a strong headwind and choppy water to post a winning time of seven minutes, 13 seconds over the 2,000-meter course. The performance was 4.5 seconds better than that of second-place Coast Guard.

Marist's lightweight contingent took second place in its race while the varsity failed to gain the finals. The Red Foxes also entered a boat in the open four race and placed second.

Bill Lenehan, freshman coach said that "the win was quite startling" in view of the handicaps under which the crew had practiced this week.

He noted that the crew is forced to practice in the college's varsity shell, which had a hole punched in it during practice last week severely limiting the crew's in-water work.

Lenehan also noted that private craft on the lake created disturbances that made the race more grueling than it might have been even in rough water.

The Red Foxes and Coast Guard rowed to a standoff over the first 1,000 meters but the winners began to inch away and moved to a one and one-half boat-length at the 1,500-meter mark. Coast Guard started its sprint at that point while the winners held off for 200 meters.

Marist settled at 34 strokes in the body and hit 38 in its sprint. It marked the first time that the Red Foxes had defeated the Coast Guard and their winning time was the third best of the day.

Trinity was third in the competition, followed by Holy Cross, Amherst, Wesleyan and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

The Marist rowers were coxswain Bill Crawford, stroke Jeff Browning, Pat Duffy, Dave Drews, John Tracy, Joe Gunther, Kevin O'Connor, Tom Duffy and bowman Bob Sneeden.

Coast Guard captured the varsity race in 7:07 and the lightweight in 7:15. Coach Tom Haight's lightweights had a second-place clocking of 7:22. Lowell Technical Institute took the open four contest in 8:03 while the Red Foxes came across in 8:25.

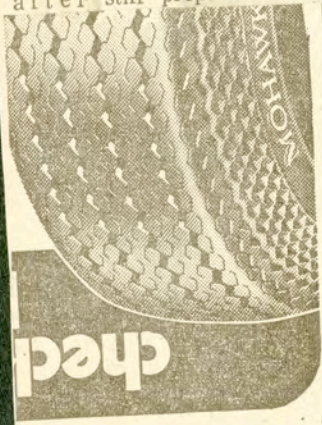

MATT O'Brien

MARTY TORREY

Marist Rowers Set For Dad Vail Races

Marist College's oarsmen, New England champion, Marist after stiff preparations all over the country (the Mid-American champion), and St. Joseph's must be installed as pre-race favorites.

Marist's head coach Bill Austin feels his team must improve its finish if it's to be a serious contender. The Red Fox oarsmen (14-7) have the potential to come up with the best performance by a Marist team.

There is also a point trophy awarded to the team with the best performances throughout the regatta. Austin is hoping that all of his crews enter the finals Saturday afternoon.

Marist seniors Matt O'Brien and Marty Torrey will end their collegiate careers Saturday.

O'Brien, an economics major from Rochester, rows in the number two position and has been a varsity mainstay for four seasons. During the summer months, Matt rows for the Rochester Rowing Club and has gained valuable experience. Austin said that Matt has evolved from an inexperienced oarsman when he first came to Marist.

UTS
UTO

VICTORY!

Sunday, May 14, 1972

Marist Freshmen Win Dad Vail Title

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.— The Marist College freshman crew, with only 11 years of competition under its belt, capped a near-spectacular season Saturday when it pulled away in the closing stages to win the national small school rowing championship in the Dad Vail Regatta on the Schuylkill River.

The Red Foxes, who captured the New England rowing title last weekend, turned back determined efforts by the University of Massachusetts and the Coast Guard Academy to win going away.

Rowing on choppy water and against a strong headwind, Marist took the lead from Coast Guard after 1,500 meters and beat back a bid by UMass, which settled for second place. The Red Foxes time was 6 minutes, 30 seconds. UMass was four seconds back and Coast Guard six behind.

Marist coach Bill Lenehan said, "Our spirit was quite efficient and we were definitely expanding our lead when we hit the finish line. There's no question about that."

Lenehan had expected a tough battle from Coast Guard, which finished second to the Red Foxes in the Spring Fever Regatta and had, ironically, edged out the winners in an earlier heat.

Coast Guard drew an inside lane for the final, which projected it from the headwind but Lenehan noted that "we had better running water."

He called the victory a "wonderful finish to a tremendous season." Varsity coach Bill Austin, whose rowers placed 11th in a 36-school field, was quick to agree, adding that "it was the best showing that Marist had ever made at the regatta."

The varsity finished fifth in a group of six in its semifinals heat with the top three times advancing to the final. Coast Guard emerged as the class champion, followed by Rollins College, Marietta, Temple, Virginia and UMass.

Nevertheless, the heavyweights' appearance in the consolation marked the first time that they had made it that far. "It's a shame," lamented Austin, "We have just started to gel. It's too bad we can't keep rowing."

Coach Tom Haight's lightweighters just missed qualifying for the final. They placed fifth in their semifinals race and sat on the sidelines while Coast Guard took the title. Marietta copied second, followed by Florida Institute of Technology, University of Alabama, Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Buffalo State.

One second separated the third, fourth and fifth finishers in the semifinals heat.

In the four-oared competition, Joe Stokes stroked Marist into the semifinals where they were eliminated by some stiff varsity opponents. There were four freshmen and a sophomore in the Red Fox boat.

Marist Frosh Invited To IRA Championships

Marist College's freshman crew team, fresh from its victory last weekend in the Dad Vail Regatta, has been invited to the 70th Intercollegiate Rowing Association championships June 1-3 on Lake Onondaga in Syracuse.

This is the first time any Marist crew has been invited to the prestigious event, in fact the first time any Poughkeepsie area school has been invited, and marks the return of Poughkeepsie to the I.R.A. regatta. Poughkeepsie was site of the I.R.A. from 1903-1948 when the races moved to Marietta, Ohio—then to Syracuse.

Marist's frosh, under the coaching of Bill Lenehan, have compiled a 43-1 won-loss record including the Dad Vail, the national small-college rowing championships.

The only loss came at the hands of Marietta and the defeat was avenged in the Dad

Vail in Philadelphia.

Marist's Frosh began their season on April 8 with a victory in the Spring Fever Regatta at Wesleyan. Marist held off early challenges by Wesleyan and Massachusetts to capture the event. The following weekend saw the young oarsmen compete in two dual regatta's back-to-back. First came an easy victory over Stockton State and then a disappointing loss to Marietta.

The loss to Marietta seemed to provide an impetus rather than a discouragement as the Young Red Foxes captured the Hartford Regatta the following weekend. It was in this race they were beginning to show signs of greatness. Their victories over Trinity and Ithaca were firsts in school history.

Marist then returned to its waters with a victory in the Presidents' Cup. After the President's Cup, Marist was to race its stiffest competition in two successive weekends. The frosh who seems to thrive on competition, captured both the Rusty Callow Regatta (the New England championships) and the Da Vail Regatta.

Lenehan feels this is the best crew he has had in his four years as frosh coach. "Besides being the best team in ability, this team also has more hustle, determination, and desire than any other. These men are winners," he said.

The Marist oarsmen have been rowing in a Schoenbrod eight made especially for them by Helmut Schoenbrod of Georgetown, Conn. Head coach Bill Austin feels that this has been a definite advantage.

The Red Foxes will begin a double workout session this week in preparation for the I.R.A. According to frosh captain Jim Browning, "The best is yet to come."

Marist's frosh boat includes Bill Crawford, coxswain; James Browning, stroke; Pat Duffy, Dave Drews, John Tracy, Joe Guenther, Kevin O'Connor, Tom Duffy and Bob Sneedon, bow.

In the I.R.A. freshman eight race, the U.S. Naval Academy must be established as the team to beat. But the experts have been wrong before, especially last year when Pennsylvania upset heavily favored Washington. Marist will also get stiff competition from a contingent of major Eastern rowing powers such as Northeastern, Cornell, Syracuse, Brown and Pennsylvania. Rounding out the field will be Wisconsin, the mid-west powerhouse, and Western Sprints champion the University of Washington.

Area athletes who will be rowing for Marist College on Saturday in the President's Cup Regatta are, from left, Scott McDonald, Glenn Gallagher and Dave Drews. McDonald, who strokes the Marist freshmen, rowed at Roosevelt

High School. Gallagher, coxswain of the frosh boat, also rowed at Roosevelt while Drews, a member of the varsity heavyweight boat, rowed at Poughkeepsie.

Poughkeepsie Journal Photo

Marist's IRA Invitation Brings Back Memories

(Editor's note: Marist College's freshman crew has been invited to the Intercollegiate Rowing Association championships June 1-3 on Lake Onondaga in Syracuse. For over 50 years, the IRA championships were in Poughkeepsie. The following story is a short history of Poughkeepsie rowing)

By JOHN MYLOD and JACK DWORAK

Shad are running in April when high school oarsmen return to the river. The Hudson is cold and muddy but the delicate greening of willow trees along its shores adds a glorious breath of color to the tailings of winter.

This is the 22nd year that crew programs have been maintained at Poughkeepsie, Arlington, and Roosevelt high schools.

It's important that they continue—important to the schools, the community and the oarsmen themselves. Rowing is a unique sport. It has a special, elusive quality that is difficult to define yet shared, in some ways, by all oarsmen. When a crew is pulling well together, it's a thing of beauty. There is unity. No one has to be told. He can feel it. He knows what it's all about.

Rowing on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie has been going for New York in thirty-seven minutes and twenty seconds, he barely escaped with his life.

The following day Stevens, bow man in the Poughkeepsie boat, killed a patron of a downtown saloon who had accused him of selling the race. The threat of violence was so widespread after such events in those years that most women did not go into the streets of Poughkeepsie on the day of a race or an election.

For the first half of this century, the biggest event on the Hudson each June was the Intercollegiate Association Regatta at Poughkeepsie. The importance of the race extended beyond university rivalries, and Boat Race Day became a great social as well as sporting event.

It's difficult to estimate the size of the crowd in town for the IRA. People arrived days in advance, jammed restaurants, hotels and bars and tried to rent just about every available boat on the river. Most major newspapers printed thousands of words about the regatta and the morning line was available in England as well as all over this country.

Poughkeepsie was indeed a festival. The town came alive with great activity and excitement. Bands played, banners waved and politicians were ebullient. The colleges came in late May to practice the four mile course on the Long Reach from Crum Elbow south. Fraternity groups painted huge school letters on the shale slabs of the west shore or stole a mascot or two. It was a time of celebration in a town made famous by cough drops, women's education and a four mile shell game.

The Navy usually sent a small fleet to the Regatta. People climbed the west shore rocks for a better view or stood along the tracks or sat in row boats while thousands crowded the railings of Dayli-ners at the finish line. A rolling grandstand of about sixty canvas-covered flat cars gave the best continuing view of the oarsmen who were only a few hundred yards away. Mike Bogo fired bombs from the railroad bridge to identify the winning crews and also lowered their school colors. For a few hours on a June evening, everybody thought about the varsity Challenge Cup which Cornell won 12 times, more than any other university.

Cashdollar and the electric ferry spent the rest of the night bringing the tired and "loaded" back to town.

Beginning Of End After World War II most of the pre-race hoopla surrounded-ing the IRA was gone. The regatta became a one-day event and the observation train, dismantled during the war, was never rebuilt. Hotels were half empty and city merchants thought their cash drawers were about the same. New boathouse facilities were necessary to maintain a competitive bid for the regatta but city financial aid was inadequate. The races were over. Not many rowing enthusiasts sat under the regatta.

The new crews would use the city-owned boathouses in Regatta Row. The SRA acquired equipment from several of the departing colleges and the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. In 1950, Kinsey reported that the association owned three four-oared racing shells, three four-oared training gigs, one eight-oared racing shell, one eight-oared training gig, 47 oars, six rowing machines and assorted repair equipment.

It was a small but good beginning. Enthusiastic candidates from the three schools were coached on a volunteer basis by Frank Bub Sr and Ken Knops at Arlington, Joe Ryan and George Englehardt at Poughkeepsie and Allen Webster and William Claus at Roosevelt.

River conditions were good for the first Triangle Regatta held on the Hudson on May 14, 1950. High school cheerleaders were escorted to the river by a and, under the leadership of Guy Torson, Rinaldi, Edwin Dusenbury, Ryder and Roy Kinsey, convinced the three local public high schools to include crew on their lists of spring sports. Editorial backing by the Poughkeepsie New Yorker and support from practically all local service clubs generated a renewal of public interest in rowing.

The new crews would use the city-owned boathouses in Regatta Row. The SRA acquired equipment from several of the departing colleges and the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. In 1950, Kinsey reported that the association owned three four-oared racing shells, three four-oared training gigs, one eight-oared racing shell, one eight-oared training gig, 47 oars, six rowing machines and assorted repair equipment.

It was a small but good beginning. Enthusiastic candidates from the three schools were coached on a volunteer basis by Frank Bub Sr and Ken Knops at Arlington, Joe Ryan and George Englehardt at Poughkeepsie and Allen Webster and William Claus at Roosevelt.

River conditions were good for the first Triangle Regatta held on the Hudson on May 14, 1950. High school cheerleaders were escorted to the river by a under the leadership of Guy Torson, Rinaldi, Edwin Dusenbury, Ryder and Roy Kinsey, convinced the three local public high schools to include crew on their lists of spring sports. Editorial backing by the Poughkeepsie New Yorker and support from practically all local service clubs generated a renewal of public interest in rowing.

The new crews would use the city-owned boathouses in Regatta Row. The SRA acquired equipment from several of the departing colleges and the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. In 1950, Kinsey reported that the association owned three four-oared racing shells, three four-oared training gigs, one eight-oared racing shell, one eight-oared training gig, 47 oars, six rowing machines and assorted repair equipment.

It was a small but good beginning. Enthusiastic candidates from the three schools were coached on a volunteer basis by Frank Bub Sr and Ken Knops at Arlington, Joe Ryan and George Englehardt at Poughkeepsie and Allen Webster and William Claus at Roosevelt.

River conditions were good for the first Triangle Regatta held on the Hudson on May 14, 1950. High school cheerleaders were escorted to the river by a under the leadership of Guy Torson, Rinaldi, Edwin Dusenbury, Ryder and Roy Kinsey, convinced the three local public high schools to include crew on their lists of spring sports. Editorial backing by the Poughkeepsie New Yorker and support from practically all local service clubs generated a renewal of public interest in rowing.

The new crews would use the city-owned boathouses in Regatta Row. The SRA acquired equipment from several of the departing colleges and the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen. In 1950, Kinsey reported that the association owned three four-oared racing shells, three four-oared training gigs, one eight-oared racing shell, one eight-oared training gig, 47 oars, six rowing machines and assorted repair equipment.

It was a small but good beginning. Enthusiastic candidates from the three schools were coached on a volunteer basis by Frank Bub Sr and Ken Knops at Arlington, Joe Ryan and George Englehardt at Poughkeepsie and Allen Webster and William Claus at Roosevelt.

River conditions were good for the first Triangle Regatta held on the Hudson on May 14, 1950. High school cheerleaders were escorted to the river by a

River conditions were good for the first Triangle Regatta held on the Hudson on May 14, 1950. High school cheerleaders were escorted to the river by a

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

After the boathouse fire, the crews hung together mostly on spirit. Each school had one new eight and about 40 oarsmen. Built especially for the return.

89 Crews Vie In IRA

2 COL CAPTION. SPORTS — MATT O'BRIEN
MATT O'BRIEN (left) and Marty Torrey will row for Marist College in the pairs event at the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta in Syracuse. The seniors have rowed for head coach Bill Austin for four years.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) —A record-high field of 89 crews from 32 schools gets the "ready all, row" call today as the 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing Championships start on Onondaga Lake.

Coaches and observers see this year's competition in the featured varsity eight-oared event as the most open in recent years.

The University of Washington, mindful of the narrow defeat it suffered to darkhorse Cornell in last year's finals, is seeking to regain the crown it won in 1970. The Huskies will have the heaviest crew on the lake, and the only one that went undefeated this season as well.

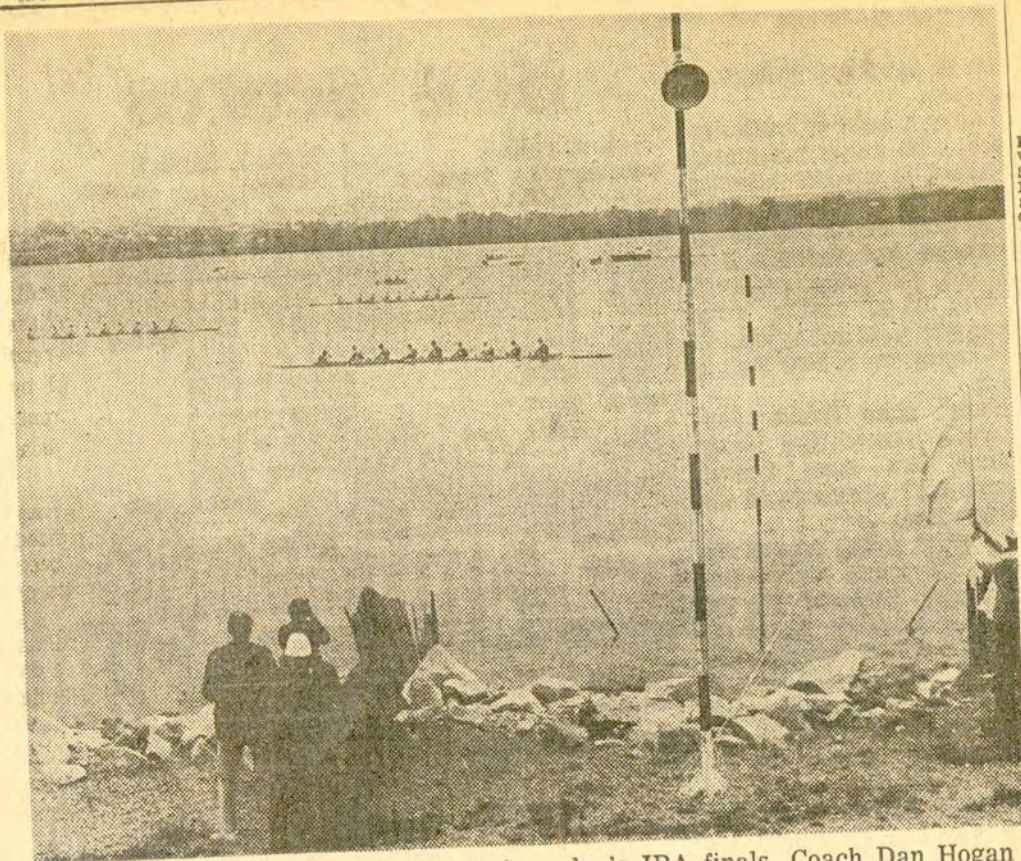

Pennsylvania was picked over Washington in a newspaper poll of coaches, but Eastern Springs champion Northeastern and Brown also got high marks. Several other crews have a title chance.

Three qualifying heats in each of six events were scheduled today in each of six events—the varsity, junior varsity and freshman eights, the varsity and frosh fours and the varsity pairs—with winners advancing to Saturday's finals.

Today's losers get a second chance for a starting berth in the title test by competing in Friday's repechage races. Two levels of consolation events will precede the championship rowing.

The armada that will ply the 2,000-meter course is the largest in the regatta's history. Last year, 75 crews from 27 colleges and universities took part.

Orange Coast Junior College of Costa Mesa, Calif., was a solid choice in the coaches' poll to win the JV eight title, while Washington and Wisconsin shared high rankings for the freshman eight event. Navy and Yale crews were rated the best among the varsity fours.

ORANGE WIN. Syracuse University's freshmen are shown pulling across first in the second heat of yesterday's trials qualifying for Saturday's IRA finals. Coach Dan Hogan (foreground, dark jacket, suntans) watching his crew intently.

day's IRA finals. Coach Dan Hogan (foreground, dark jacket, suntans) watching his crew intently.

Penn heats up regatta

From Page 25
 as "a fantactic stroke. I wouldn't be surprised if he's stroking the Olympic team." Backman, who calls himself

"the grandfather of the crew (he's 25)", is a former military police staff sergeant. He decided to take up crew while spending part of his three-year Army hitch at West Point.

About yesterday's win, Backman said, "We kept answering their (Wisconsin's) power calls with our own . . . This was the first race we didn't sprint home."

"This type water is well suited to Wisconsin's style," remarked Arlett. "But I expected Brown (second in the Easterns, third in the IRA heat) to be a bit closer . . . We had a good, controlled race."

Nash, a former Washington great, made a major adjustment after the season-opening Childs Cup. "We moved six seats, putting in two new oarsmen. But nothing lately . . . To race a crew as strong as Washington, you have to maintain visual contact; crethe best bunch here. But Northeastern is technically the soundest. Just magnificent to watch."

For Cornell's Todd Jesdale, it was another fine win. While Saturday's field will be stronger, the Big Red would like nothing better than repeating last year's act of fooling the experts to win their 20th Varsity Challenge Cup.

'SNYDE' REMARKS — In other eight-oared results, JV winners were Wisconsin, Washington, Cornell. Frosh victors were Wisconsin, SU, Washington . . . Orange yearlings led all the way . . . Only winners avoided today's repechages, gaining berths in finals . . . Coxies couldn't see buoys because of high water, which virtually eliminated advantageous warm-ups on the water

Baseball's leaders

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Based on 90a t Bats.
Player Club	G	A	R H Pct.
Sanguillen Feb	38	152	16 51 .322

RAC
at V

FIRST-TROT
 Horse Drive
 Woreens Dean
 Stylish Major
 Lincoln Favor
 Sure Shot Ann
 Gis Mir (L. B.)
 Timmy Hanov
 Rodney's Imag
 Sharp Rupert

SECOND-PACE
 Stan Lobell C
 Blue Rodney C
 Clever Astra
 Hogans O'Brien
 Major Jones C
 Farm Baker C
 Stardom Hanov
 Afton Bradford

THIRD-TROT
 Bolt Action (G)
 Lucky Dean (G)
 Clever Conjure
 Sabastar (L. B.)
 Oneoakey (A. B.)
 Virgnes Rosco
 Smoky Fire (G)
 I C W (H. S.)

FOURTH-PACE
 Speedy Messa
 Gabe Minbar
 Stormm Walte
 Wil Dream (V)
 Peter Win (L.)
 Jack Dean (J)
 Go Noryak (A)
 Blue Pirate (C)

FIFTH-TROT
 Davy Decker
 Nite Club (G)
 J Js Flawless
 Feedalot (R.)
 Bon Mot (G.)
 Docs Birthday
 Landry Hanov
 Brushfire Han

SIXTH-PACE
 Garland Hanov
 J Js Tequila
 Anchor Boy C
 Amber Lad C
 Magic Vic C
 Jumbo Allan
 Grant Minbar
 Little Miss Ju
 Afton Bantam
 Silken Mir (L)
 Fleeta Wave C

SEVENTH-PACE
 Rum Toddy
 Magnolias Ab
 Czar Direct C
 Billy Torpid
 Canadian Sen
 Mr. Royal G
 Otis McKlyo
 S y m p h o n y

EIGHTH-PACE
 J Js Flame (C)
 J Js Flare (C)
 John Dee (J.)
 Bret Butler C
 Sharp Star C
 Duc Mir (L. B.)
 Lt. Governor
 Hopalong Cas
 Hopylong Cas
 Drummer Pic
 Traveler

NINTH-PACE
 Shadydale Pe
 S O S (W. A.)
 Hobbyhorse C
 Four Bitts C
 Bontamp (Th)
 Elmer Marx
 Barra Meda
 Babydoll Lob

PP	1
Win	35
Place	30
Show	33

RAC
at V

20th Anniversary Season

TONIGHT!
THE FASTEST
HARNESS RACING
under the lights!

NEW! COVERED WALKWAY
 TO ALL-WEATHERIZED
 CLUB HOUSE AND GRANDSTAND

DAILY DOUBLE
4 EXACTAS
Post Time 8 P.M.

Dinner Reservations

475-3822

vernon

UPI Telephoto

MARIST COLLEGE OARSMEN sit half submerged during second heat of 70th IRA competition Thursday. Red Foxes were swamped by winds up to 25 m.p.h. Marist's coxswain, far left, yells for help. Coast Guard Academy also sank.

Northeastern Also In Finals; Marist Sinks

Penn, Cornell Win Heats At Wind-plagued Regatta

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — junior varsity and freshmen as a varsity heat. Pennsylvania, Northeastern eights. The other double winners were Washington and Wisconsin, qualifying their frost and JV crews.

As a result, first-round competition in the varsity and freshman fours and the varsity pairs were postponed until this morning.

Repechage races, which give first-round non-winners a second chance to reach the finals, were scheduled in all six events this afternoon.

Cornell, which nipped the University of Washington for the varsity eight title here last year, was one of three teams to qualify crews in two events Thursday, winning a JV as well as a varsity heat. The other double winners were Washington and Wisconsin, qualifying their frost and JV crews.

Syracuse qualified its yearling eight in a heat that saw regatta newcomers Marist College of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and Coast Guard get their feet—and everything else—wet when their shells were swamped by waves on the choppy lake.

Patrol boats brought the drenched rowers safely to shore.

"We took a lot of water right at the start," said Marist coxswain Bill Crawford of Philadelphia. "I knew we were going to swamp, but with a couple of hundred meters to go I thought we might make it."

The Coast Guard crew became waterlogged halfway through the 2,000-meter course. Penn's varsity eight won its heat easily, outdistancing previously unbeaten Washington by a length. Cornell had nearly the same margin over its closest rival, Navy.

Northeastern the Eastern Springs champ, recorded the day's best time of 6 minutes, 33.5 seconds in its qualifier ford, a black professional star who was born in Charlotte, Chris Blocker and Gibby Gilbert with 68's.

Continued From Page 31

J. C. Snead, Tony Jacklin and Chuck Thorpe, the black professional from Detroit, who led in the first round at Houston, were among those at 69. Arnold Palmer had five birdies and three bogeys in a round of 70, wearing contact lenses. Palmer admitted his concentration was not "too good." He said "sometimes I forget I'm on a golf course."

Tom Weiskopf, the 1971 winner here, carded a 71

Casper had not played here previously. He has been off the tour for a month, competing in France and in Morocco as a guest of the King. Here was nothing wrong with his game as he posted two eagle 3's and two birdies in his 33, 33-66. He ran in a 25-foot putt for his first eagle at the 565-yard fifth hole.

He dropped a 15-foater at the seventh for a birdie 3 and took two putts at the next two greens. Then at the 594-yard 10th, a par 5, he was on with a No. 3 wood second shot before sinking a six-foot putt for his other eagle.

Sanudo Starts With Birdies

He missed the 11th green and was bunkered at both the 12th and the 13th. He recovered well enough to get down in one putt in each case. After he stroked in a 35-foot putt for a birdie 3 at the 14th, he finished in a more orthodox fashion with pars at the last four holes.

Sanudo's round was his best since joining the tour in 1968. He served in the United States Army but claims a dual citizenship since he says he is a property owner and citizen of Mexico.

He started at the 10th hole and chipped in there for a birdie. He followed by sinking a 20-foot putt at the next hole for another birdie. After holing the wedge shot for an eagle 2 at the 16th he ran into a bogey at the next hole by overplaying the green.

Out in 33, he came back in 32 with birdies at the second, fifth, sixth and ninth. The only question remaining tonight was whether Trevino would allow him to keep the putter "I sure hope so," said Sanudo.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn., June 1 (AP) — Richie Scheinblum blasted a pinch-hit, two-run homer in the eighth inning today to give the Kansas City Royals a 5-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Scheinblum's blast, which carried 471 feet into the left-field seats, came off Dave LaRoche, a relief pitcher, after Cookie Rojas had blooped a two-out single to left.

Eric Soderholm cracked a two-run homer off Tom Murphy for the Twins in the second after Bob Darwin was hit by a pitch.

KANSAS CITY (A.)	MINNESOTA (A.)
ab. r. h. bi	ab. r. h. bi
Patek, ss 4 0 0 0	Tovar, rf 4 0 1 1
Hovley, rf 3 1 2 0	Thompson, ss 4 0 0 0
Taylor, rf 1 0 0 0	Carew, 2b 3 0 0 0
Piniella, lf 4 1 1 2	Darwin, cf 2 0 0 0
Kirkpatrick, c 4 1 2 1	Reese, lf 3 1 1 0
Rojas, 2b 3 1 1 0	LaRoche, p 0 0 0 0
Hopkins, lb 3 0 0 0	Braun, ph 1 0 0 0
Scheinblum, ph 1 1 1 2	Soderholm, 3b 3 1 1 2
Mayberry, lb 0 0 0 0	Nettel, lf 2 1 0 0
Otis, cf 4 0 1 0	Mitterwald, c 3 0 0 0
Schaal, 3b 3 0 1 0	Woodson, p 2 0 0 0
Murphy, p 1 0 0 0	Killebrew, lb 1 0 0 0
Keogh, ph 1 0 0 0
Fitzmorris, p 2 0 0 0
Total 34 5 9 5	Total 28 3 3 3

Kansas City	Minnesota	DP—Kansas City 1	Minnesota 2	LOB—Kansas City 5	Minnesota 2	HRS—Soderholm (4)	Piniella (5)	Kirkpatrick (4)	Scheinblum (3)
0 0 0 0 3	0 2 0 0 5
IP.	H.	R.	ER.	BB.	SO.
Murphy 5	3	3	3	2	4
Fitzmorris (W, 1-3)	4	0	0	0	1
Woodson 6 1/3	7	3	3	2	1
LaRoche (L, 1-2)	2 2/3	2	2	2	1
HBP—by Murphy (Darwin)	T—2	16	A—6	807

Cubs Hammer Wise

CHICAGO, June 1 (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs shelled Rick Wise for six runs in the first inning and got a second-inning homer from Bill Williams today to give Bill Hands a 7-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Eleven batters went to the plate in the first inning, 10 before Wise was lifted for Al Santorini.

ST LOUIS (N.)	CHICAGO (N.)
ab. r. h. bi	ab. r. h. bi
Brock, lf 4 0 1 1	Kessinger, ss 4 1 1 0
Sizemore, 2b 1 0 0 0	Becker, 2b 4 1 1 0
Santorini, p 0 0 0 0	Williams, lf 4 1 1 1
Fiore, ph 1 0 0 0	Santo, 3b 4 1 3 2
Palmer, p 0 0 0 0	Monday, cf 2 1 0 0
Aylea, ph 1 0 0 0	Hickman, lb 4 1 1 2
Cloninger, p 0 0 0 0	Cardenal, rf 3 1 1 1
Cruz, ph 1 0 0 0	Martin, c 3 0 1 0
Hudson, p 0 0 0 0	Hands, p 4 0 0 0
Alou, lb 4 1 1 0
Torre, 3b 4 1 0 0	Total 32 7 9 7
Simmons, c 4 0 1 1
Carbo, rf 3 0 1 0
Melendez, cf 4 0 1 0
Maxville, ss 1 0 0 0
Anderson, ss 2 1 1 0
Wise, p 0 0 0 0
Crosby, 2b 3 0 0 0
Total 33 3 6 2

St. Louis	Chicago	DP—St. Louis	Chicago 6
0 0 0 0 0	2 1 0 0 0
6 1 0 0 0	0 0 0 0 0
E—Carbo, Simmons, Santo	DP—St. Louis 1
1, Chicago 1	LOB—St. Louis 4
2B—Alou, Brock, Anderson, Hickman, Martin, Santo	3B—Santo
IP.	H.	R.	ER.
Wise (L, 4-5)	2 1/3	6	6
Santorini	2	1	0
Palmer	2	1	0
Cloninger	1	0	0
Hudson	1	0	0
Hands (W, 4-1)	9	6	3
T—2	19	A—13	76

PENN'S OARSMEN TOP WASHINGTON

Continued From Page 31

and pair-ored entries were postponed entirely and will be rowed tomorrow morning.

The Coast Guard varsity best of the so-called small college crews this season, did not fare so well in its first appearance at the I.R.A. regatta. This eight faded to fifth place in the first heat, which had in it Penn, Washington and the other good crew from the West Coast, Long Beach State of California. Massachusetts Institute of Technology took third behind Washington, with Long Beach fourth and then Coast Guard and Princeton.

The Penn varsity won its third race in a row after finishing a disappointing fifth in the Eastern sprints on May 13. The Red and Blue rode again in the new Pocock lightweight shell that sank inexplicably in the Adams Cup race on May 6 against Harvard and Navy.

"The rougher the water, the better we like it," said Ted Nash, the coach.

Washington's eight had trouble with the waves and scraped several of the low plastic buoys that mark the course lanes. The Huskies, however expect to be more formidable tomorrow and hopefully on Saturday.

HOW THE CREWS FINISHED VARSITY

First Heat—1 Penn, 6:39.0; 2, Washington, 6:44.4; 3, M.I.T., 6:48.2; 4, Long Beach State, 6:48.9; 5, Coast Guard, 6:51.4; 6, Princeton, 6:55.2.
 Second Heat—1, Cornell, 6:57.0; 2, Navy, 7:00.7; 3, Rutgers, 7:08.0; 4, Syracuse, 7:14.1; 5, Boston U., 7:28.4.
 Third Heat—1, Northeastern, 6:33.5; 2, Wisconsin, 6:36.2; 3, Brown, 6:37.9; 4, Dartmouth, 6:50.1; 5, Columbia, 7:13.5.

SECOND VARSITY

First Heat—1, Wisconsin, 6:40.9; 2, Northeastern, 6:43.7; 3, Penn, 6:53.1; 4, Orange Coast, 6:56.4; 5, Princeton, 6:58.6.
 Second Heat—1, Washington, 6:59.0; 2, Navy, 7:00.6; 3, Brown, 7:15.8; 4, Coast Guard, 7:24.4.
 Third Heat—1, Cornell, 7:14.0; 2, Syracuse, 7:17.6; 3, Rutgers, 7:31.9; 4, Boston U., 7:33.1.

FRESHMEN

First Heat—1, Wisconsin, 7:04.0; 2, Cornell, 7:06.2; 3, Penn, 7:13.0; 4, Princeton, 7:22.8; 5, Northeastern, 7:30.2; 6, Boston U., 8:14.8.
 Second Heat—1, Syracuse, 7:20.0; 2, Navy, 7:26.6; 3, Brown, 7:28.6; Coast Guard and Marist did not finish.
 Third Heat—1, Washington, 6:59.5; 2, California, Berkeley, 7:02.3; 3, Rutgers, 7:21.9; 4, Dartmouth, 7:28.2; 5, Yale, 7:31.7

Janie Blalock Files a Lawsuit Over Suspension by L.P.G.A.

VANVC ARE ANCRV

Chicago 0 0 4 0 0 0 0 2 X-6
 E—Andrews, Michael. DP—New York
 1, Chicago 3. LOB—New York 7, Chicago
 4. 2B—Reichardt, Murcer, D.Allen,
 W.Williams. HR—Reichardt (1), Torres
 (2), Melton (4).
 IP H R ER BB SO
 F.Peterson (L,3-7) .8 8 6 6 2 3
 Wood (W,8-3) 9 8 1 1 3 6
 HBP—by Wood (White). PB—Munson.
 T—2:07. A—27,634.

South African Gary Player, always one of the most dangerous players in the field, had a session of the chip and sank the putt on the final hole of the day. He missed the putt on the eighth hole, but he sank the putt on the final hole of the day.

Ken S...
 Rod Fu...
 Art Wall...
 John Miller...
 Bob Barbarossa...
 Mike Hill...
 Tom Shaw...
 Tony Jacklin...

UPI Telephoto

HERE'S HOW IT HAPPENED — Brown University oarsman explains to his shellmates how he lost oar during second varsity eight heat in 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing

Association competition in Syracuse. Oar slid away 200 meters from finish line but Brown rowed to victory anyway and place in final today

Brown, Huskies, Wisconsin Gain Spots

Field Ready For IRA Title Race

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Washington, the Western champion, Brown and Wisconsin earned places for Saturday's title race in the featured varsity eight-oared competition by winning repechage, or second-chance, heats Friday at the 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing Championships. The trio will be joined on the Onondaga Lake starting line by defending champion Cornell, Penn and Northeastern, winners of first round qualifying heats Thursday.

The Washington Huskies, seeking to regain the title they won here in 1970, fought off early challenges by newcomer Wisconsin, Washington and Cornell JV shells and Wisconsin Coast Guard to score a boat-length decision over the Cadets in six minutes, 37.5 seconds.

Brown downed Navy by a length in 6:41.5 despite the loss of an oar about 200 meters from the end of the 2,000-meter course. Toss Craun, the Bears' No. 6 man dropped his oar when his oarlock sprung open, but his mates took up the slack.

The Wisconsin Badgers, led all the way in beating their nearest rival, MIT, in 6:39.7.

In other eight-oared repechages, the Penn, Northeastern and Orange Coast junior varsities and the Cornell, Navy and California at Berkeley freshmen won their heats.

Wisconsin, Washington and Cornell JV shells and Wisconsin, Washington and Syracuse frosh crews had qualified Thursday.

Cornell, Wisconsin and

Washington thus place contenders in all three of Saturday's eights events.

In contrast to Thursday's cold, windy conditions, the weather Friday was ideal, with the temperature about 70 and the winds only a slight breeze.

Morris Harvey, Wisconsin, and San Diego State all were decisive winners in the varsity pairs repechage races. They will meet the Trinity, Yale "A" and Dartmouth "A" two-some—the first-round winners Friday morning—in the championship race.

Wisconsin placed its fifth crew in the title picture as its freshman four boat won a repechage heat. The Badgers and the event's other second-chance qualifiers, MIT and Syracuse, will join Santa Clara, UCLA and Princeton in the finals.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Results of Friday's repechage, or second chance, qualifying heats in the 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing Championships, winners of which advanced to title races Saturday:

Varsity Eights: Heat 1—1, Washington, 6:37.5. 2, Coast Guard, 6:41.9. 3, Rutgers, 6:44.3. 4, Dartmouth, 6:54.0. Heat 2—1, Brown, 6:41.5. 2, Navy, 6:45.0. 3, Long Beach, 6:56.8. 4, Boston U., 7:05.0. Heat 3—1, Wisconsin, 6:39.7. 2, MIT, 6:42.8. 3, Syracuse, 6:48.4. 4, Princeton, 6:52.9. 5, Columbia, 7:18.5.

JV Eights: Heat 1—1, Penn, 6:52.8. 2, Navy, 7:00.6. 3, Boston U., 7:17.4. Heat 2—1, Northeastern, 6:51.4. 2, Coast Guard, 6:56.9. 3, Princeton, 7:02.0. 4, Rutgers, 7:14.8. Heat 3—1, Orange Coast, 6:48.7. 2, Brown, 6:50.7. 3, Syracuse, 6:54.0.

Freshman Eights Heat 1—1, Cornell, 6:43.3. 2, Brown, 6:47.4. 3, Northeastern, 6:48.7. 4, Dartmouth, 7:16.4. Heat 2—1, Navy, 6:50.9. 2, Coast Guard, 6:54.3. 3, Rutgers, 6:57.0. 4, Princeton, 7:09.8. Heat 3—1, California, 6:49.1. 2, Penn, 6:55.2. 3, Marist, 7:04.6. 4, Yale, 7:07.4. 5, Boston U., 7:08.9.

Varsity Fours: Heat 1—1, Lowell Tech, 7:37.6. 2, Navy, 7:39.2. 3, Penn, 7:40.7. Heat 2—1, Oregon State, 7:28.3. 2, Massachusetts, 7:44.3. 3, MITA, 7:51.8. Heat 3—1, Pacific Lutheran, 7:27.3. 2, Stanford, 7:33.5. 3, Kansas State, 7:34.5. 4, Dartmouth, 7:51.8.