President Truman today opened the doors of all Pearl Harbor information in the possession of the United States Government. Asyou will recally there have been loud complaints that certain departmensts and agencies were suppressing testimony relating to December Seventh, Nineteen Earty@ Forty-One. The President today issued an order to the heads of all government departments and agencies telling them to instruct all of their subordinates to give the Congressional Investigating Committee all the information they have. That order of the President's applies also to the joint chiefs-of-staff of our military establishment.

The Committee also asked Mr. Truman to authorize government employees to volunteer information to individual members of the Committee as were well as to the whole body. It is reported that the President had told Senator Barkley that this would be okay.

However, this will not permit individual Congressmen to examine the files of the government by themselves.

PEARL HARBOR - 2

The records may be investigated only by the specific authorization of the whole committee.

One of the first witnesses to be called will be Admiral J.C. Richardson, who was Naval Commander at Pearl Harbor up to February, Mineteen Forty-one, and whome Admiral Husband E. Kimmel replaced. President Roosevelt jumped Kimmel forty numbers in order to give him that Command.

Uncle Sam is going to give the Chiang Kai-Shek

information comes from Major General Chou Chin-Jou, Director of the Chinese Air Commission. General Chou Chin-Jou sand also that the Chinese Army has begun training men to use those planes, pursuit ships, fighterbombers, large transport craft, and cargo ships.

that American planes machinegunned a Communist-held town in the Province of Hopeh.

Furthermore, that our planes have been dropping leaflets calling upon the Communists to withdraw. General Yeh addressed the protest to General Wedemeyer, asking him to give the Tientsin meadquarters back to those from whom it was taken, return the arms of the Communists, and apologize.

Chungking today admits that one of its armies has been defeated by the Chinese Reds in battle on the Chang River. And a Communist spokesman claimed that on October twenty-fifth, the Communist Divisions had captured two Generals of the Kuomingtang Army, one of whom, lo and behold, turns out to be our old friend General Ma.

Remember the General who was always changing sides? Even when he was taken prisoner, which happened from time to time, he would escape usually taking with him the Army that had captured him and considerable treasure to boot.

A Chungking Government spokesman declared today that General Ma had committed suicide. But that also is no new report about General Ma. I can remember how Ma was killed off at least five times. When the number reaches nine we'll change his name from General Ma to General Meow.

Fierce fighting is reported along the Great Wall of China. Chou's armies are deployed there on a wide front. The fiercest fighting is mixes said to be going on at the Shanhaikwan Pass, where the Nationalists are trying to force their way through into Southern Manchuria.

Prime Minister Attlee's conversations, as we suspected all along, will not be confined to the atomic bomb, when he visits the White House. The British Cabinet had a full meeting today and talked over what subjects their chiefs should take up with Mr. Truman when the P. M. arrives in Washington this weekend. Attlee has already told the Commons that several British scientists who are leaders in the field of Nuclear Physics are now in North American and will be available to advise him if he needs them.

Although the Cabinet did not reveal the results of its deliberations officially, word leaked out that Attlee and President Truman will discuss such questions as relations with Russia and the troubles in Palestine. One report has it that Attlee will try to persuade President Truman that Stalin should be urged to attend another Big Three meeting, soon.

A new idea for the settlement of the Palestine question. The British Chief Justice of the Holy Land suggests partitioning Jerusalem into rab and Jewish Boroughs - a Brooklyn and Bronx arrangement in Old Jerusalem. He has made a recommendation to the British Government. But as this is only one phase of the Palestine problem, nothing will be done until the Attlee Government makes up its mind what to do about keeping the various promises that have been made to both Jews and Arabs.

Meanwhile, propaganda continues to give the Jewish discontended credit for the riots.

On the other hand, we are told it was Jewish property that suffered and Jewish people who perished.

Firm will probably escape punishment. He has been examined by a board of six doctors. The all agree that

Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen and Halbach is too ill to be tried. So the Allied Tribunal will probably dismiss the charges against him.

Krupp is in a hospital at Salzburg. He is seventy-five years old, has been bedridden for a long time, and is almost completely helpless.

Otherwise he would have fared poorly. The people of Soviet Mussia have called him the chief warmonger. In the indictment against him, he was charged with having taken part in the Nazi planning for war, and in the general war he had ruthlessly exploited slave labor.

Rudolf Hess, once the number two Nazi, is next on the list to be examined by doctors. But it will be psychiatrists who take him under observation, an American and a Russian.

ADD KRUPP STORY

When Hess flew to Scotland, looking for the Duke of Hamilton, Hitler gave out the report that his deputy and former pal had been off his modily for some time. Hitler's report was then considered mere propaganda, as an excuse to cover up Hess' escape from Germany in the plane. But since then those who have had the job of guarding Hess have claimed to the job of guarding Hess have claimed to the plane. There was balling that here was balling.

The big steel concern, which broke off its conversations with the union, will not take them up again unless they have a concession from O.P.A. That they can raise prices the moment they raise wages. This, of course, concerns every person in the United States. If the price of steel goes up, the cost of everything made of steel products will have to go up too.

President Truman had suggested management raise wages now and wait a few months to see whether the wage increase would make a price increase necessary. This the big corporations declare they

The Canadian Government is trying to settle that strike against the Ford Company Windsor, Ontario, where the other night the pickets seized the automobiles of private persons to build their barricade. There was a conference today between Henry Ford the Second, the young head of the Ford Corporation, and the Canadian Labor Minister, also the attorney General of Ontario. This conference followed a warning from the Canadian C.I.O. that it would pull out all its three hundred and fifty thousand members all over the Dominion to support the strike of the workers of Ontario who forcibly took the cars of private people.

Stamford, Connecticut, Employees of the Yale and Town Company picketed the place. When the President of the firm tried to get into the factory this morning the pickets refused to let him through. Photographs in the New York papers show Stamford policemen standing by grinning, making no effort to help the heads of the firm to get i into the firm's premises.

There was another spirited scene at the labor amangement conference today, and yes, John L. Lewis was in it. It was all over Phil Murray's resolution that the conference take up wages. Lewis talked about that resolution contemptuously, said it was namby-pamby. That annoyed the C. I. O. President, who cried: "The C. I. O. is not afraid of anybody and I'm not afraid of you".

"Nuts", replied Lewis.

"And nuts to you", said Murray.

SUBSIDIES

An item for farmers: - The Government is going to drop food subsidies next year. That's tonight's word from the office of the Stabilization Administrator.

Nearly all subsidies to be abolished by June Thirtieth.

The Administrator is in an optimistic mood.

He says some food prices will rise, but that the over-all cost of living will not increase. He goes on to say that the abolition of subsidies will raise the price of milk, bread, cheese, flour and the better grades of beef and pork.

In the fall of Nineteen Forty-Four, two of Uncle Sam's submarines started from Australia, the Darter and the Dace. Said the Skipper of the Darter to the Skipper of the Dace, "We'll split fifty-fifty this time," And he explained: "I'll sink the ships, you take the depth charges."

On October Twenty-Third, Darter and Dace big ran smack into a great Japanese Fleet, ten heavy cruisers, a couple of light cruisers, fifteen that were destroyers. They were on their way north, trying to break up the invasion of the Philippines in the Gulf of Leyte.

The Darter and Dace gave battle at once.

Right out of the box. Darter sank a heavy cruiser and damaged another. Then she took the depth charges for twenty minutes. Meanwhile the Dace sank another heavy cruiser, and, according to the bargain between the two skippers, Dace then took the asheam, for four hours. Altogether, the two submarines fired sixteen torpedoes. Thirteen of them smack into three Jap cruisers. After that, the Jap destroyers RENNEL counterattacked. They dropped about fifty depth charges, which bounced the Dace around a bit, blew out some of the electric lights and made some of the caulking come off.

But eventually the enemy destroyers gave it up, and went about their business trying to stop MacArthur. Then the Dace got a radio message saying Darter had grounded on what they called bombay shoal.

Annapolis classmates, class of Thirty-Five. A fellow couldn't very well leave a classmate hung up on a shoal. So he took seventy-five men and ten officers from the stranded sub in the dead of night by rubber boats.

So Captain Bladen D. Claggett, Skipper of the Dace, became host to Captain Dave McClintock Skipper of the Darter. And, says Claggett, "I couldn't get him out of my bunk the rest of the trip except to play primer; poker. It took us two weeks

At Elmira, New York, Unde Sam's Treasury Department stages an air show, a wings-for-victory show, in connection with the Bond Drive. The fleet took off today on its way to Stewart Field at West Point. A bomber and a single-seated fighter roared down the runway side by side. Then something happened, nobody knows exactly what, amybe a sudden gust of wind. The B-25 collided with the P-47, just a hundred feet off the ground. Both planes crashed onto the runway so violently that engines were ripped off and parts of the planes were flying all over the field. Then the gas tank caught fire. Nichols, former Congressman from Oklahoma and Vice-President of Transcontinental and Western Air. The sporting world got a jolt today, from Stockholm. The Swedish amateur athletic association has been investigating rumors and now comes out with the word that fourteen Swedish stars, including Gunder Haegg and Arne Anderson, have competed in foot races and other events, for pay. So, the fourteen are forever barred from taking part in any more amateur events.

Haegg and Anderson, two of the greatest runners of all time! Haegg who ran the mile last summer in the astonishing time of four minutes, one and four-tenth seconds. Fans have been looking toward the day when xx he would achieve the impossible - run a mile in four flat.

One effect of the decision will be that all the records made by Haegg, Anderson and the other twelve will be erased from the books.

Seems harsh, that decision. Just what is an amateur? I know Hugh here is no amateur.
