

L.I.-DELCC. MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1958.
(Washington)

GOOD EVENING EVERYBODY:

In Little Rock, Arkansas, today a corporation leased the public high schools. The buildings to be used as private schools segregated. These to open probably on Wednesday. This private school scheme was challenged immediately by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Appealing to a federal court, in Omaha. Which - promptly issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the leasing of the public schools. When Governor Faubus heard of the restraining order he said:- I haven't surrendered, I'm not ready to surrender, and I don't intend to surrender.

In Washington today the Supreme Court gave a formal opinion indicating that the Little Rock plan to maintain the segregation is unconstitutional.

By the way - Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter says he was once an advisor to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He never accepted pay for his advice and severed his connection with the organization on becoming a member of the Supreme Court.

Governor Folsom of Alabama, today, commuted the death sentence of Jimmy Wilson - the Negro convicted of stealing one dollar and ninety-five cents.

A night-time robbery - ~~which~~ calling for capital punishment in Alabama. The case aroused worldwide protest, and now the governor has commuted the death sentence to life imprisonment.

ATOMIC

Another atomic explosion on the Nevada desert - the second of the current series. Nothing spectacular - as atomic explosions go. The Atomic Energy Commission having announced - that only small explosions would be staged.

STATE DEPARTMENT

The State Department denies - that there'll be a meeting between Secretary Dulles and Chou En-Lai, the Premier of Red China. Reports have been circulating - that such a meeting had been arranged at the suggestion of the British. The State Department adding - that they know of no British effort for ~~talks~~ <sup>talks</sup> between our Secretary of State and the Communist Premier.

At the same time, the State Department played down vice president Nixon's charge - concerning ~~the~~ <sup>considerable stacks</sup> of mail, indicating public opposition to the policy of backing up the Chinese Nationalists in the defense of Quemoy. Nixon - charging that somebody in the Department released the figures, trying to sabotage our China coast policy. The State Department replied - there was no sabotage.

FORMOSA

Reports from Formosa that the Nationalist Air Force has been using American air-to-air missiles. Called side-winders. Which in air battle seek out hostile planes. The side-winder missiles accounting for nationalist air victories, over those up-to-date Russian built Migs flown by the Chinese Communists. Thats the report!

QUEMOY - SURVIVOR

Strange tale - of how fate can play tricks, ~~Reported~~ - from Formosa. An incident - in the sinking of a landing craft off the beach at Quemoy. Eight newsmen aboard - nationalist Chinese, Japanese, and Korean. Two rescued - and now we hear of a third survivor. Yen Chung-Chi - saved, in spite of himself. Fate wouldn't allow him - to perish. When the boat overturned in stormy water - Yen Chung-Chi wearing a life jacket, tried to make his way to the nearby shore of Quemoy. But - couldn't. The waves - running too swift and high. Night came on - and he drifted on the water in the hours of darkness. Growing so hungry - that he took some calling cards from his pocket. And - ate them. <sup>TR</sup> When morning broke, he could see the shore of Quemoy - far in the distance. He was drifting - away from the island. So he gave up all hope, and thought <sup>he</sup> he'd better make an end to it. He took off his belt. Intending - to strangle himself. But, at that moment, a violent wave hit him - knocking the belt from his hand. Preventing - the suicide attempt. <sup>T</sup> Yen Chung-Chi figured - that fate sure was against him. But it was - the other way round. Because, not long after his attempt at suicide - what did he see, ? - a small boat - a hundred yards away. He shouted, and was picked up - after twenty-six hours in the water.

LEBANON

More violence in Beirut. The Christian phalange calling a general strike.

Blocking traffic, burning automobiles and raising general Cain. Protesting against the new government of Premier Rashid Karami. Meanwhile the last of the U. S.

Marines were leaving Lebanon. Seventy-five hundred U. S. Army troops remain awaiting their orders to depart.

DEGAULLE

Yesterday's overwhelming DeGaulle victory - gives France a new constitution. Also, it gives the French Communist party - a swift kick in the pants. The tall General winning, inside France - by a vote of seventeen million to four million. Although - the Communists had campaigned violently against the new constitution. However the Reds are ingenious and here's today's headline in the official newspaper of the French Communist party. It reads..."Strong opposition to dictatorship. Millions of Frenchman say - no." Of course, down further in the article, they couldn't help adding - that many more millions of Frenchmen said "Yes." Oui, oui. One result of yesterday's election - France loses a colony. On the West Coast of Africa, Guinea voted for independence. Which Guinea will get - according to the promises made by DeGaulle. Independence at the cost of French economic aid. Guinea is next door to Liberia and the Ivory Coast - about the size of Kansas or Nebraska. The Niger river flows thru Guinea. An equatorial land, with rich soil that produces plenty of food for Guinea's 2,000,000 people.

But leave it to the scientists to have their say. They don't bring a well-flavored yarn. What you see is color - in sea beauty, richness, or splendor. It's chlorophyll, carotenoid and anthocyanin.

Chlorophyll - the green of leaves in the summer. This chemical, however - disintegrated in the fall. Then all these other chemicals with complicated, scientific names. Which provide - the golden leaves and flowing shades of autumn. So, Dad, maybe the poet should sing...

The beauties of autumn? Don't be fooled!

They're nothing but carotenoid.

The trees are lovely, but only in possessing anthocyanin.

AUTUMN

The poets have sung - of the beauties of autumn,
the glowing colors of the trees, yellow, scarlet, purple.
But leave it to the scientists to have their say. They don't sing a mellifluous verse. What you see in autumn - is not beauty, radiance, or splendor. It's chlorophyll, carotenoid and anthocyanin.

Chlorophyll - the green of leaves in the summer.
Which chemical, however - disintegrates in the fall. Then out come those other chemicals with complicated, scientific names. Which provide - the golden tones and flaming shades of autumn. So, Don, maybe the poet should sing...

The beauties of autumn? Don't be annoyed!

They're nothing but carotenoid.

The trees are lovely, but only in

Possessing anthocyanin.

CANADA

Canada to emulate the United States. Following suit - in our own admission of Alaska as the forty-ninth state. Canada - has vast northern lands; organized as territories, as Alaska was. In Canada, the equivalent of our states - are the provinces. So now - the Yukon territory and the Northwest Territory - may acquire provincial status. Such is the prospect - following the visit of Prime Minister Diefenbaker - to the Yukon. The Klondike to be a part of a Province - not of a mere territory. More shades of Dan McGrew.
