

ZANZIBAR

L.T.-Calds. Mon. June 5-61.

The Island of Zanzibar, romantic Zanzibar - off the coast of East Africa - long a symbol of romance and intrigue, now the latest to be hit by the tidal wave of nationalism. News dispatches from nearby Mombasa in Kenya and nearby Dar as Salam in Tanganyika on the mainland of Africa tells of a massive riot between Arabs and Africans. Crowds, surging through the narrow streets armed with the crude weapons of old Zanzibar, swords, daggers, ancient pistols, harpoon guns - even cutlasses from the days of not so long ago when pirates roamed the Indian ocean and when Zanzibar was the great slave market for East Africa.

We hear this Zanzibar rioting erupted last ~~THUR~~ Thursday, and has been raging for four days. The toll tonight is said to be more than fifty dead, a hundred or more injured, more than six hundred arrested. And it would have been worse - except for Her Majesty's soldiers from Kenya who were flown in to keep the Arabs and the Africans from killing each other by the hundreds.

Sounds like a page - from the imperial history of the Nineteenth Century. British Tommies, maintaining order - on Zanzibar. But this time they arrived by magic carpet, flown to the great spice ~~is~~ island.

LONDON

The joint communique issued at Admiralty House in London - is just about what <sup>was</sup> ~~was~~ expected. Prime Minister MacMillan and President Kennedy agreeing - on ~~the~~ major issues. The same issues - that Kennedy and DeGaulle had already agreed on. No retreat from West Berlin, renewed efforts to reach a disarmament pact with the Russians - and so on. The most interesting new point in today's communique ~~is~~ concerns Laos. The Prime Minister and the President, suggesting that Khrushchev's declarations in Vienna - could mean a break in the Geneva deadlock. The implication is that MacMillan and Kennedy are being cautious - until they can test Khrushchev's sincerity.

So now the last <sup>of the series of</sup> ~~big~~ conference~~s~~ - is over. The Kennedys, remaining in London to attend a banquet at Buckingham Palace -- with Queen Elizabeth presiding. An impressive ceremony <sup>as the finale</sup> ~~will wind up~~ to an impressive European trip. ~~After which, the two Americans - catching their plane~~

The American to separate. Jacqueline Kennedy, staying on, to continue her travels - with a visit to Greece. Her husband, the President flying home. Tomorrow to report to the American people. You will hear him, here on CBS Radio - tomorrow, at seven P.M. Eastern Daylight Time.

STEVENSON

The word from Caracas is that Adlai Stevenson is receiving - a cordial welcome. Our Ambassador to the U N beginning his special mission - to Latin-America <sup>and</sup> Talking ~~ix~~ - economics. How Venezuela and America can cooperate - in raising the standard of living. ~~And there was~~ Some politics - too. ~~Adlai~~ Stevenson saying, that we have no intention of intervening - in the Dominican Republic. That is - without an authorization by the organization of American States.

The Caracas conference is described as - friendly and fruitful. ~~And~~ Stevenson's reception ~~in the city - is~~ quite different from <sup>the one</sup> ~~what~~ Vice President Nixon received <sup>when Reds were allowed to surround his car.</sup> a couple of years ago. No vituperative mobs - this time.

The visit, having an official air - with all the diplomatic ~~practical~~ protocol implied <sup>by</sup> the phrase.

DOMINICAN

The President of the Dominican Republic denies reports - that mass arrests are going on in his country. President Balaguer, putting the number at less than fifty. Adding - no torture of prisoners! All of them guaranteed - legal and constitutional rights, ~~Even those who are~~ accused of direct complicity - in the assassination of Trujillo.

Balaguer's claim is - that no great number of Dominicans were involved in the assassination. Most of the people - happy with Trujillo's rule. His only opponents - a few malcontents. General Juan Diaz - and a small <sup>group</sup> ~~band~~ of conspirators. Diaz, who was shot down last night - as he cruised ~~in~~ around Ciudad Trujillo in his car, looking for a hideout. The police, receiving a tip - riddling the car with bullets, ~~Killing~~ Diaz and the henchman with him. In the pocket of <sup>one</sup> ~~the henchman~~, they found - one of the guns used in the assassination.

TOWN

in Santa Cruz county, California - there's a town called Felton. Population, twenty-five hundred. An interesting figure - twenty five hundred. Because yesterday the town served breakfast - to thirty thousand people. Free, gratis - and for nothing. Everything on the house - that is - on the town?

Why? U.S. Highway Nine - runs right through Felton. For years the townspeople have been watching thousands of cars swish by. Then, someone in Felton had the bright idea - of serving a meal to the weary travelers, once a year.

Yesterday they brought out - nine army griddles, twenty-five hundred gallons - of pancake batter, and one cook, John Acton a truck driver, tossed flapjacks - for six hours.

Before he was finished, thirty thousand travelers had downed - two tons of his hot cakes. Two thousand gallons - of coffee; twelve hundred gallons - of orange juice; five hundred gallons of syrup; and four hundred pounds - of butter.

Many of those who came to breakfast in Felton - asked what the gimmick was. Answer - no gimmick at all. The Feltonians just feel like serving breakfast - once a year.

It might turn out to be good publicity. Maybe more and more motorists will say - let's stop at a motel in Felton. I feel like it's Felton tonight!

FIRST LADY

That scene at London's Admiralty House - well, it seems almost un-British. Mobs pushing through police lines may be all right - in Paris and Vienna. But it's just not supposed to happen - in the staid old city on the Thames.

Still - it did happen. And - for the same reason. The British ~~are~~ <sup>seem to be</sup> as interested as anybody - in our First Lady.

Three thousand people jammed the ~~streets~~ streets around

Admiralty House - when Jacqueline Kennedy arrived for lunch with the President and the Prime Minister. The crowd <sup>was so</sup> ~~became~~ <sup>big and excited</sup> ~~so excited~~ - the bobbies couldn't hold the line. Mounted police had to be brought in - to prevent a headlong rush toward Mrs. Kennedy. Even so, a few women got through - and reached her automobile.

<sup>As for the First Lady, she</sup> ~~who can blame them? Mrs. Kennedy~~ was - a symphony of yellow and blue. Bright yellow ~~silk~~ silk suit, Navy blue hat, blue veil with a bow at the back - shoes and handbag to match. Jewelry? - That familiar triple strand of big pearls.

The most impressive thing of all - the stunning features of Jacqueline Kennedy. Said one member of the

I say —
London crowd -- "my word, what a dazzling smile!"

HAIRDRESSERS

There was a summit meeting in London today - and observers are wondering how an instant declaration of war was presented. The guess - some high level diplomacy by the First Lady.

Participants in the conference - two of Europe's leading hairdressers. Alexandre of Paris and Rene of Mayfair - turning up at the same time to attend Mrs. Kennedy. Alexandre, who created the court-style hair do -- with which La Belle Jacque wowed Versailles. Rene, personal hairdresser - to Princess Margaret.

Why the two rival hairdressers - for Mrs. Kennedy?

That seems to come ~~under~~ under the heading of - a state secret.

Anyway, a beauty ~~secret~~ secret. The real point is - that the meeting between Alexandre and Rene was amicable, <sup>all ~~parties~~ arranged</sup>

BOAT

It's the Colorado River, next - for the "bubble boat". So announced by Inventor Wayne Wilson of York, Pennsylvania - following his conquest of the San Juan River in Utah. His "bubble boat" - is a transparent plastic sphere. Wilson, climbing inside - clamping down the upper half of the sphere. Easing out - into the swirling waters of the San Juan. Then he was on his way - for a hundred and fifty miles. The "bubble boat" - on a bouncing twisting voyage through the rapids. Coming to a halt - in the quiet stretch at the lower end of the river. The inventor, climbing out to tell newsmen - it was an exciting ride. But he wants to do something more spectacular - and that means a run down the ~~turbulent~~ Colorado, thru those wild rapids as the Colorado races thru the gorges of The Grand Canyon.
