Turmoil in Greece. The story coming in today in bits and pieces, Aelling of a revolt - against the ruling Greek military junta. A revolt led by King Constantine with the backing of army and air force units.

Beyond that - nothing certain. Radio Larissa reporting on one hand - that the King has established a new government at Naousa - preparatory to a march on the capital. Athens Radio claiming on the other hand - that the coup has been broken - that the King is in flight.

How will it all turn out. We can only wait and see.

War news from Vietnam - the story today of a daring surprise attack aimed at Saigon itself. With North Vietnamese regulars reportedly penetrating in force - to within twenty-five miles of the South Vietnamese capital. Closest they have yet come \(\nabla \) to striking a major blow at the government nerve-center.

fighting men of the US twenty-fifth Infantry Division and they just weren't about to give way. The Americans turning back a furious "human wave" assault - forcing the enemy troops to beat a hasty retreat. The planned Saigon attack - confirmed by documents found on the thirty-nine bodies they left behind.

More on the war - from Brussels, where Secretary of State Dean Rusk today told Nato Foreign Ministers - the United States would gladly stop bombing North Vietnam, if only there were some evidence - that useful talks would follow; if only there were some evidence - that the enemy would not take partisan advantage of a bombing halt.

As yet though - Hanoi has given no such assurances - said Dean Rusk. Adding - as he has before - that "the United States cannot be expected to stop half the war."

Vietnam notwithstanding - the Secretary voicing optimism over the world situation in general. Citing specifically the success of those "Kennedy round" trade agreements; - also recent progress toward a Latin American Common Market - plus agreement on one treaty banning nuclear weapons from space -- and near-agreement on another banning the spread of nuclear weapons - not to mention peaceful solution of that recent Cyprus dispute.

This a reminder that perhaps we aren't doing quite as badly - as some of us sometimes think we are.

Also in Brussels - a reported call today for a dramatic meeting of all Common Market nations - except France. The parley said to be set for tomorrow -- in a Belgiam chateau. Purpose -- to lay the groundwork for a united front - in the coming showdown battle with France over British membership in the Trade Group.

The five non-French members, said to fear that continued stalling on the British application - could well plunge the Common Market into a serious crisis.

The Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Harmel, for one, quoted as saying it is now necessary "to pin the blame for failure and any subsequent crisis - exactly where it belongs." Meaning, of course --

LANSDOWNE

The late Francis Cardinal Spellman - surely a kind, gentle, gracious man. Is it possible then - that he once served as a secret agent for the U S government?

Ridiculous as it sounds - Hitler seemed to think so. At least, that's the contention today of Dr. Robert

Kempner - of Lansdowne, Pennsylvania; former U SChief

Deputy Prosecutor - at the Nuremberg war trials. Basing his contention - on hitherto unpublished Nazi secret police reports.

The way Dr. Kempner tells it-Hitler considered

Cardinal Spellman a secret agent for the late President

Roosevelt; with his chief function - "to promote anti German Catholic propaganda" throughout Europe. Hitler

wa even assigning the Gestapo - to try and get conething

Cardinal Spellman - says Dr. Kempner. Adding that Hitler's ultimate aim was to use the supposed evidence - "to name

men of his own choosing as the Popes of Spain, Italy, France

Germany and other Catholic countries."

In a way - Hitler's fears based on solid ground,

For Cardinal Spellman made no secret - of his personal anti-Nazi sentiments. Indeed, he proclaimed them - at every opportunity. But the very idea - that behind that cherubic face lay a secret double-oh-seven -- incredible!

Monday - perhaps worse than at first believed.

New Delhi today reporting - the town of Koynanagar - life France provinced near the center of the quake. However, the government adding that at least five hundred nearby villages - are still buried in rubble. With additional aftershocks yesterday and today 47 making the area a veritable No Man's Land.

In view of this - rescue experts predicting the final toll may have two hundred and fifty - maybe more.

In addition to thousands - injured. M-king this the worst earthquake in att of Hindustan -- since the early eighteen hundreds. Most of their quakes are in the almost uninhabited remote valleys of the Hundreds.

WASHINGTON

On the Labor front - the U S unemployment rate for November - down four-tenths of a per cent. Sharpest one-month decline - in the past six years. According to figures announced today - by the U S Labor Department.

The improvement pushing the jobless rate - back to three point nine per cent - as same as it was - last July. Government officials crediting the gain - principally to the end of strikes; especially - that Ford strike.

Also a marked increase - in jobs for women; a reflection they say - of increased business activity - marking the advent of the holiday season.

A final item - comes today from New York. Where a rare poem by Abraham Lincoln - and a rare letter from George Washington - have been sold at auction for five thousand apiece.

The Lincoln poem - as follows:

"My childhood's home I see again --

And sadden with the viek;

And still, as memory crowds my brain,

There's pleasure in it, too!"

The Washington letter - written in Seventeen Re Ninety-Seven -- after the "Father of our Country" had retired for the last time to Mount Vernon. In it - the ex-President voiding a hope that "Mrs. Washington and myself" - as he put it -- will soon be able to do something that "has not been done by us within the last twenty years; that is - set down to dinner by ourselves," said The Father of and Cantry."
