VOLUME 15, NUMBER 1

MARIST COLLEGE, POUGHKEEPSIE, NEW YORK 12601

SEPTEMBER 18, 1975

Ground Improvements Begin

By Ken Healy

Most people have probably noticed all the excavation work going on around the campus. Most of this work is being done to comply with a Poughkeepsie town code having to do with sewage and storm pipes.

Presently the pipe system consists of a pump that is carrying both rainfall and sewage to the sewage plant. This keeps the pumps running even when there are no students on campus. Rain water is being pumped unnecessarily into the sewage system when it could just as easily be carried down to the river. Not only is it unnecessary for rain water to be pumped into the sewage system, but, the silt and other objects picked up by the rain water are harmful to the pipes and pumps. The pipelines being constructed would form two new systems separating the sewage from the rainwater. The sewage being pumped to the sewage plant and the rain water would be carried to the river.

This project when completed, will alleviate the flood problems around the campus most notably on the mall in front of Champagnat Hall and the parking lot by Donnelly Hall.

According to Mr. Anthony Campilli, the Business Manager other benefits that have been derived from the pipeline construction are the paving of the parking lot next to Champagnat and new lights and electrical work for the football scoreboard, so that both facilities will work more efficiently.

Work is expected to continue next summer but no definite timetable has been set.

Mr. Campilli alluded to financing, the weather, and labor as variables that would influence the completion of the project.

Labor problems have plagued the work schedule during much of the summer. The disagreements were over the use of non-union labor on some of the work. The work is being done by Marist employees not because of a lack of faith in union labor but because it was felt that the work could be done as well and less expensively if Marist employees did the work.

The various improvements being made are being paid for by the McCann Foundation. Any defacing of the grounds is being repaired so when work is completed the appearance will be the same if not better.

Marist College is planning other projects after the sewer lines are completed and as soon as the funding for these projects is approved, work will begin.

Zuccarello Heads Administrative Changes

By Tina Iraca

The Marist College administration is characterized this year by several changes in rank and title. The administrative configuration, consisting of divisions termed "levels" of responsibility has been reorganized. Level I is the executive level. Internal shifts that have occurred in Level I include the naming of Dr. Zuccarello as Academic Dean, Edward Waters as Vice President as well as Dean of Special College Programs, and the retirement of John Dougherty as Director of Development. Internal shifts in Level II include the promotion and naming of David Flynn as Associate Dean of Admissions, Kevin Carolan as Director of Computing and Institutional Planning, Cagle Moore as Counseling Center Director, Fred Lambert as Assistant Dean for Student Services, Dr. Margaret Olson as Assistant Dean for Special College Programs, and Gerard

Cox continues as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

These promotions are accompanied by an increase in responsibility. Edward Waters, who has been named Vice President will be required to act as President when President Foy is absent or unable to act. He is also required to act as coordinator of the internal executive management group, and is given the authority to sign contracts of the college up to fifty thousand dollars. David Flynn as Associate Dean of Admissions is responsible for recruiting new students and the admission of graduate students. Kevin Carolan will be responsible for the supervision and development of the computer center. He will be trying to develop closer ties between the academic community and the computer center. Cagle Moore, Counseling Center Director and Fred Lambert, Assistant Dean for Student Services take on more responsibility in their respective areas since they have been promoted to Level II. Dr.

Margaret Olson as Assistant Dean for Special College Programs acquires more responsibility and reports to Dean Waters. Dr. Olson also supervises the Poughkeepsie College Center and drafts grant proposals. Dean Cox continues as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs this year on a full time basis. His new responsibilities include trying to develop closer ties with all of the activities and services provided by student personnel. He will also be involved in assisting in the coordination of the Internship Program at Marist.

The purpose of these changes is to meet the administration needs of the college at this time.

President Foy suggests that the changes involve more people in upper level administration. There is more involvement by managers to act directly with executives in institutional long-range planning and policy formulation.

Group Initiates Temporary Gov't

By Gigi Birdas

Four Marist students have attempted to organize a temporary governing system to satisfy the immediate needs of the student body.

In April of last year a new student government constitution was presented to the student body. The student body voted it down. As a result, student government elections under the old constitution were not held. Appointments to the financial board and to the Judicial Board were not made.

To answer the present need for a student governing structure the following students have organized, in an effort to achieve a solution: Goldie Komis, Chief Justice; Chip Ermish, former vice president of student government; Brian Morgan, former treasurer of student government; Kathy Manning, president of the College Union Board.

Presently, two basic problems face the student body, the absence of a financial board and the absence of a Judicial Board. A financial board is needed for the allocation of funds. All clubs and organizations on campus which are entitled to these funds require them to operate. A judicial board is needed to handle discipline disputes and all other matters of a judicial nature which involve students.

In a letter to the student body, the four students will make public their solution, which is two-fold: First, a financial board will be created. It will consist of former members and newly chosen people. They feel without a financial board, clubs and organizations will be unable to function properly. Secondly, a judicial board will be established through appointments of judges by the Chief Justice. The judicial board functions to give students a right to appeal in a court consisting of fellow students.

The letter will make clear that this solution is "by no means a permanent structure." A deadline for the establishment of a new constitution has been set for late October. Before then the constitution which was voted down will be reviewed and rewritten where necessary.

Goldie Komis, Chip Ermish, Brian Morgan and Kathy Manning feel their solution "provides the basic needs for students in as efficient a system as possible." Copies of this letter will be made available to the student body.

Circle Staff Changes

Miss Julie Schott and Mr. David Livshin have been named as Co-editors of the CIRCLE. That announcement has been made by Gregory Conocchioli and Irene Ross, former Co-editors of the campus weekly. The two new editors will begin their appointments with this week's issue of the CIRCLE.

The two were named to their respective positions last May after Miss Ross announced she would leave her position in order to devote full time to her position as the coordinator of the Student Advisors program. At that time Mr. Conocchioli was named as editor of the weekly with Julie and Dave serving as his Associate editors. He has since left his position to represent Marist College as a student intern under the Education Administration program which is under the supervision of the Admission's Office. He will, however, remain on the staff as an editorial consultant.

Julie, a senior Communication Arts Major has been one of the CIRCLE'S major contributors for the past two years. Her work as a feature writer, news reporter, along with her assistance with layout has earned her this position with the weekly.

Dave, a junior Communication Arts major has also been a staff reporter for the paper and has also been affiliated with the Poughkeepsie Journal as a photographer for the past four years. His photography has also appeared in several national magazines, among them People magazine.

Both Dave and Julie will be in charge of the general operations of the paper, however Dave's major concern will be to oversee photography for the paper.

The other staff changes include the naming of Miss Joan McDermott and Mr. Brian Morgan as business and advertising managers respectively.

Mr. Fred Ashley and Mr. Warren (Chip) Ermish will serve on the staff as Photography editors.

Mr. Thomas McTernan whose weekly column "High on Sports" appeared last year has been named as the Sports editor.

Miss Marybeth Pfeiffer a member of last year's layout staff will serve the paper this year as layout editor.

The Campus Ministry Team under the supervision of Rev. Rhys Williams will be replacing Father Leo Gallant's Code 99 column with a team effort each week. The office of counseling services will also be heading a bi-weekly column.

Along with the regular news stories of the Marist College campus and features, the CIRCLE will also be reprinting news stories from the College Press Service, and the College Press Service's CON - PRO column; a column of consumer protection news for students. The CIRCLE has also subscribed this year to both a cartoon and crossword puzzle service in its attempt to offer something for each Marist student.

Welcome Back

The Circle would like to welcome back all returning faculty staff and students and especially the addition of 500 new freshmen making up the largest freshman class in the history of Marist College.

We are pleased to see that the freshmen are getting involved in campus activities and we hope they will continue to contribute and will set an example for the rest of the student body.

This year the Circle will strive to be an entertaining paper, as well as informative. We expect within a few weeks to complete our "new look" which we hope will be a refreshing change. However, we can't do it all alone. We need your ideas and any contributions you would like to make would be welcomed and appreciated. Our office is open every Monday and Tuesday night between 7 - 10. It is located in the campus center Rm. 268, and our post office box is C-857.

If you can't come to the office please contact Julie Schott, L217 or David Livshin P.O. Box C581.

Letters To The Editors

Student Government

Last April, a group of students attempted to re-write a student government constitution that they felt was obsolete and no longer operating effectively. The new constitution was, unfortunately, voted down. As a result, student government elections for new officers under the old constitution were not held. Appointments to the financial board, judicial board and various student occupied positions on campus, were not made.

To answer the need for some of the basic necessities that are provided by student government, four students have organized to attempt a temporary solution. These four students, Chryscula Komis, chief justice of the judicial board, Chip Ermish, former Student Government vice-president, Brian Morgan, former Student Government treasurer and Kathy Manning, College Union Board president have attempted to solve the two basic problems of no financial board or judicial board as easily as possible. We are attempting to adhere to the present constitution as closely as possible. In some cases, as in approval of the president or policy board, this is impossible.

In any case we will attempt the following things: a) create a financial board for the allocation of funds in the quickest easiest way possible. The financial board will consist of former members and two people chosen from names submitted by individuals to represent the commuters and residents. If this is not done all clubs and organizations on campus entitled to funds will be unable to operate. If a financial board is not organized now, all clubs and organizations will have to wait until a new constitution is voted in or elections for officers and a new policy board are held. These elections may take until the end of the semester.

b.) Create a judicial board through appointment of judges by the chief justice. The students need a board to handle discipline disputes and all other matters of a judicial nature pertaining to students. Not to have such a system would be completely unfair to all students.

The appointments being made are temporary. The system will operate only until a new constitution is voted on by the student body and a permanent government established. The four students organizing this temporary governance system do so in order that student funds can be distributed for student use and that students can retain their right of appeal to a court of their peers. It is by no means a permanent structure.

We have set a deadline for the establishment of a new governance structure. The constitution which was voted down will be reviewed, rewritten where necessary and a permanent governance structure established by late October. Meanwhile, we will try to provide the basic needs for students in as efficient a system as possible.

Kathy Manning, President, CUB; Chryscula Komis, Chief Justice; Chip Ermish, Former Vice-president of Student Govt.; Brian Morgan, Former treasurer of student Government.

Policy Statement

I. The editorial Board consists of Co-Editors, Associated Editor, Layout Editor and Photography Editor. The CIRCLE will interpret issues as we see them. For partiality to be shown to any individual, group, or organization the CIRCLE would negate its position as a newspaper for the entire college community.

II. To represent the entire Marist view, there is a need for the CIRCLE to be independent of all governing bodies, both administrative and student.

III. All articles submitted to the Editors from those parties outside of the CIRCLE staff must be of reasonable length, 2-3 type written pages doubled spaced. Deadline for copy is at 5 P.M. Monday evening.

We, the editors reserve the right to edit anything submitted for reasons of length and clarity.

If groups or organizations would like news items of events to be covered, please inform the Editors, CIRCLE reporters will be sent to the event. (Notice of event one week prior to the scheduled event.)

A. All letters to the Editors must be signed. However, names will be withheld upon request, and requests for confidentiality will be honored.

B. Any article submitted to the CIRCLE containing personal opinion along with fact will be treated as a letter or commentary, subject to editorial approval.

IV. Advertising inquiries should be directed to the Advertising Manager, campus mail.

V. Announcements must be submitted from the originating organization or office sponsoring them. The CIRCLE will not quote admission prices in announcements. All announcements must be typed.

The Editorial Policy of the CIRCLE is determined by the majority vote of the editors and is in no way subject to the Administration or Student Government of this college.

Symposium

Dear Colleague:

I am pleased to announce that this year's Symposium on the Era of the New Deal, sponsored by the College in association with the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, will take place on Saturday, October 4, 1975. The theme of this year's meeting, "F.D.R., The New Deal and The American Economy" has both contemporary as well as historic importance.

The main speaker will be Eugene V. Rostow, Sterling Professor of Law and Economics of the Yale University Law School. In the afternoon there will be a panel discussion moderated by John J. Griffin of Marist College. The panelists will be William J. Barber of Wesleyan University, Robert B. Carson of Oneonta and Ellis W. Hawley of Iowa University. The program will begin at 9:45 a.m. with Coffee and Registration in the Gallery

Lounge of Champagnat. The days program is open to the public at no cost. Reservations for the luncheon, which will be $2.75 per person should be made on or before September 30th.

I believe that this year's program will be an outstanding one and I hope that you can be with us. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,
Vincent L. Toscano

SAC Openings

The SAC has several openings for conscientious and academically concerned students. The SAC provides leadership in the pursuit of the academic objectives of the student body and establishes firm lines of communication between each individual academic department and the student body for curricular growth and development. Membership is open to the entire Marist College student body. Underclassmen are especially urged to seek membership on one of Marist's most important and active committees. The following departments have positions available: American Studies, one; Philosophy, two; Psychology, two; Mathematics, three; Modern Languages, two; Religious Studies, two; Natural Sciences, one; UYA, one;

Teacher Education, one; Special Education, one.

Interested students must have a letter of recommendation written by their department chairman, to be submitted for approval by SAC chairman, Jim Vallarelli. This must be done before Friday, September 26th. If there are any questions, please contact Jim Vallarelli, PO s-99, or room 219 Sheahan House, 454-9513.

CHANGES From 1

The promotions and changes were decided in a series of executive meetings and discussions. Each year the administration re-evaluates its scheme to see if it needs to be readjusted to better fit the college's growing needs. These changes reflect the administration's decision to try to work harder for a more effective scheme.

Announcements

The Office of Career Development has announced a Communications Career Day scheduled for early December. Larry Snyder has requested that those interested in working on the program contact him personally in the Counseling Center. You do not have to be in Communications to participate.

Princeton, New Jersey, September 8. Students completing teacher preparation programs may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three different test dates announced today by Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program. New dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: November 8, 1975; February 21, 1976, and July 17, 1976. The tests will be given at nearly 400 locations throughout the United States, ETS said.

The Marist College Chapel will again provide for the Marist community daily services. Masses will be offered Monday through Thursday at 12 noon, and Scripture Services will be held Monday through Friday evenings at 5:10. On weekends, Mass will be celebrated on Saturday nights at 6:15 and also on Sunday mornings at 11:00. The Rev. Richard LaMorte, a Catholic priest from the Holy Cross campus in Rhinecliff, New York, has volunteered his time to offer the services on a regular basis for Marist College.

The Campus Ministry has cordially invited the Marist community to a free open house at the Fireside Lounge, Champagnat Hall on Tuesday night, September 23rd, from 9 to 12 o'clock. Bread, wine and cheese will be served, entertainment will be provided by Emily George and Gonzalo Quintana; faculty members of John Jay High School and folksingers who specialize in folk music of all nations. Mr. Quintana produces a Spanish language program on WBNR, a Beacon radio station. Mrs. George has recorded a record of French folksongs which will soon be released by "Folkways." The open house is planned to give the Campus Ministry an opportunity to explain its program and to enable the college community to provide information as to what religious activities they would like to see on campus in the future.

Scholarships Awarded

The following students are recipients of a Room Scholarship Award for the 1975-76 academic year: John Boyle, Christine Bryant, Kevin Cavanagh, Joseph Dempsey (first semester only), Patrick Hickey, James Honan (first semester only), Barbara Kelly, Kathleen Manning, Lynn Ruggiero.

These students were selected from 33 applicants. The award was based upon the criteria of financial need, academic standing of at least a 2.5 cumulative index, and significant positive contributions to the residence halls.

The recipients were chosen by the Room Scholarship Committee which was comprised of Gerard Cox, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, Frederick Lambert, Director of Campus Life, and Gerald Kelly, Director of Financial Aid.

This committee is an interim committee. This committee will be enlarged in order to have representation of the student body.

The procedures which were followed in the above selection were as follows: 1) the student filed with the Financial Aid Office for the Room Scholarship - the necessary paper - work is the submission of an Application for Financial Aid and a Financial Statement. 2) Financial Aid Office contacted the Housemasters for an evaluation of applicants from their respective residence hall (Mr. Lambert evaluated applicants from Gregory House) the committee met twice this summer, June 30 and August 12, to consider the applicants. 3) all applicants were notified whether or not they were awarded the Room Scholarship. If a student applied and did not receive a reply, it may be due either to an incomplete application or a "hold" has been made on a decision until other projected financial aids came in for a student.

The amount of the Room Scholarship Award is $590 ($295 if a student received the award for only one semester). The only provision for the award is that the recipient continue his - her residence in a Marist College residence facility for the 1975 - 76 academic year.

Just as the committee will be revamped in order to have student representation, so too will the procedures be revamped in order to have student participation in the evaluation of the applicants prior to the committee's deliberations.

Room Scholarships are not unlimited. However, students, who think they are deserving of consideration, should not hesitate to place their request at the Financial Aid Office.

Congratulations to the above-named students!

Gallant Leaves Marist

By Daniel Dromm

Father Leo Gallant, chaplain at Marist since 1970, formally resigned from his post during the early part of the summer. In a letter to Linus Foy, Father Gallant stated such reasons as his "desire to live in community" and work in the "inner city" as his basic reasons for resigning.

Elaborating on the subject Father Gallant said, "Marist had a lot to offer. It was an ideal situation. I was truly leading a prayerful life due to the students interest in the mass and other religious activities." However Father Gallant did mention that a certain amount of loneliness accompanied his job. "I lived in a community most of my life. Without other religious to share my experiences with, life became a bit lonely. I had the urge to live among men with supportive ideas and similar directions. The students were great but there is a difference."

Furthermore, Father Gallant

claims life here was too comfortable for a real priest. "I lived in Byrne Residence all by myself. I was the only priest in my order who practically had a house of his own. I was making a terrific salary and had no financial worries. One of the reasons I came to New York City was exactly this. Right now I'm looking for a regular job such as sweeping a floor or working in a store for a couple of days a week. I'm also doing weekend ministry in parishes where they need a priest to say mass."

This is particularly important for Father since he only receives room and board as chaplain for the Marist Brothers. Most of Father Gallant's work is as a freelancer, he receives no pay. "I'm particularly interested in working among the gay community, saying masses, attending prayer meetings and getting out on the streets of New York to help bring the message of Christ to gay women and men. For so long gays have been locked out of our religious tradition. I am totally dedicated to helping gay people achieve their civil rights and hopefully develop a new theological view on homosexuality. There is much debate on this subject now and I believe the Holy Spirit will guide Church hierarchy in the right direction."

Father not only wants to help the gay community but all those who are oppressed such as the blacks and other minorities. "I'm trying to develop my own ministry in this direction. I came to New York not really knowing much but I'm already actively involved in a number of things."

Important Notice

The following is a listing of important dates for all student employees reference payroll time sheets and check issuance:

Payroll Period	Date time sheets due in Financial Aid Office	Checks Issued
9-19-75	3 weeks 9-19-75	9-26-75
9-20 - 10-17-75	4 weeks 10-17-75	10-24-75
10-18 - 11-14-75	4 weeks 11-14-75	11-21-75
11-15 - 12-12-75	4 weeks 12-12-75	12-19-75
12-13 - 12-31-75	2½ weeks 12-31-75	1-5-76

There will be no formal notification that time sheets are due on a particular date. This notice is for that purpose. It is extremely important that you note that all student time sheets (either regular college and-or college work study) be submitted to the financial aid office on the prescribed dates. Be sure that hours are summarized and calculated, and that time sheets are duly signed by you (as well as the department to be charged).

Any student who has not previously worked for the college is reminded to sign W-4 tax withholding statement prior to the submission of time sheets. This tax withholding statement is the only way the computer can be activated to issue checks for new employees.

Booters Optimistic

by Thomas Mc Ternan

Veteran Marist soccer coach Howard Goldman believes that the Red Foxes will open their 1975 schedule Wednesday with potentially its best team ever. However, pre-season injuries and an untested defense could prevent the team from improving last fall's 8-4-2 record which was good for second place in the CACC and an ECAC post-season tourney bid.

Goldman, in his 13th season as head coach, said, "We're very offensive-minded. Our line is solid and they'll score goals." But, he added, "I hope we can stop the other team from scoring."

The offense will again be centered by an Italian native. Last year Ludovico Aprigliano was the team's most exciting player and second leading scorer. With Vito studying abroad this semester, freshman Fermino Naitza emerged as the center-forward. His twin brother, Zanone, figures to be a starter in the midfield. Both are from Mt. St. Michael H.S. in the Bronx.

Fermino will play between holdovers sophomore John Metzger and senior Al Robinson. Sophomore Gino DeMartino is expected to be the first line substitute, while soph Herman Rodriguez and freshman Scott Augustine will also see time up front. Another lineman, Ralph Napolitano will spend his entire junior year on the sidelines after breaking his leg.

The midfield appears to be well-set with returnees John McGraw and Tim Trotta along with Zenone Naitza. McGraw, a junior, and Trotta, a senior, were both selected to the conference all-star squad last year. McGraw led the team in scoring and was tied for the conference lead as well. Neither played much in the 3-1 scrimmage loss to Dutchess CC last Wednesday, but both figure to be ready for the opener.

Other midfield candidates include sophomore Dan Wakely and freshmen Russell Beckley (Valhalla), Steve Obyrne (St. Pius X) and Matthew Torrey (Bellefontaine).

The big question mark and possibly the key to the season will be in the backfield, where only Jim Titone returns from last year's contingent. A CACC all-star in 1974, Titone is a very dependable performer and will be called on to provide leadership in an inexperienced backfield. Junior Kevin McGhee, freshmen Scott Roehlein (J.W. Young), Lucious Bonneson (Columbia) and Charles Blum (Coleman) will battle for the other fullback positions.

Other defensive subs will be senior Roger Courtois, junior John Covell and freshman Gustavo Beltra (Poughkeepsie).

Goaltending duties will again be divided between juniors Jay Metzger and Biff Daino. Goldman declared, "Both are very good. It's really a tossup although right now I would go with Jay."

Top Red Fox opponents include Western Conn. St., Kings (N.Y.), Kings Point, R.P.I., and defending CACC champ Nyack. After meeting the alumni in an exhibition Saturday (Leonidoff Field - 1 p.m.) Marist will open the regular season at home against New Paltz Wednesday, Sept. 24 at 3:30 p.m.

Welcome back to a new year at Marist and to a new sports season as well. Last year for the first time, all teams at Marist compiled winning records. Whether they can duplicate that feat is anyone's guess, but I'm sure that you'll find the upcoming sports events just as enjoyable and exciting as ever.

As sports editor of THE CIRCLE, I will try to keep you ahead of the game with the latest news of the Marist sports scene.

Any sports items of general interest for this page should be sent to me through Campus Mail Box S-49.

NOTES FROM THE SPORTS DESK:

THE BIRTH OF A LEAGUE

The new Met-8 Football Conference opened its initial season with a press luncheon at Pace University's Manhattan campus last Thursday. Representatives from all eight schools attended and spoke their views of the sport. The eight schools in the new league are Marist, Just ran across an article in the Binghamton Press which reported that a new state record has been set for the 24-hour mile relay marathon. Ten "Triple Cities" runners covered 270 miles at Binghamton's MacArthur Field to eclipse the previous mark by 8 miles. The eight schools have joined together in the pursuit of inter-collegiate football on a level where amateurism and integrity are important and costs are kept at a minimum. No scholarships are allowed and the average team budget is about $8000. In contrast, a recent article in Sports Illustrated estimated the budget of several major universities at over $1 million.

Peter Finnerty, athletic director at Pace and president of the league, said, "Other schools that are thinking of dropping their football program might think of managing it this way. There are no expenses."

Ron Levine, the only head coach Marist has ever had, added, "This league is based on playing football as a sport, not a business."

John Blass, new head coach at Iona, liked the format of the league. "It creates rivalry and brings football back to the metropolitan area where the outstanding players can receive the publicity they deserve."

During the season a player-of-the-week award will be presented leading to an all-conference squad selected by the coaches

Kolthay, a member of the varsity cross-country team, finished second last Saturday in the Fourth Annual Glassboro Invitational championships held in Glassboro, New Jersey.

Football Opens Sunday

by Thomas Mc Ternan

A new chapter in club football history will begin Sunday when the Met-8 Football Conference makes its debut with the Marist-Manhattan battle on Leonidoff Field at 1:30 p.m.

While the Vikings will be obviously proud in playing in the historic game, they know it'll take more than pride to continue their long record of success in the sport while members of the Eastern Collegiate Club Football Conference.

Their immediate task will be that of replacing their three key offensive players of 1974 - quarterback Ed Bonnett, fullback Nigel Davis and split end Tim Murphy. Their strong play sparked Marist to a 6-2 record during the regular season and a 16-13 victory over Pace in the Empire Bowl. They set every record that exists in club football and were selected to the NCSA All-American team last year.

Two newcomers, Phil Colangelo and Bryan Hilliker, are contending for the quarterback role. As of press time, no starter has been named by coach Ron Levine.

"There is no comparison here to Bonnett," Levine stated. "But these boys have good potential. We'll just have to be more careful until they develop." Their primary targets should be Ron Glacklin and Kevin Gallagher at tight ends and Jim Van Vooris at wide receiver.

The running game should be strong with returnees Bill Brisson and co-captain Nick Mancuso along with newcomers Dave Pilon and Mike Altomare. The only question here is whether the line can open up the holes for them. Bill Kistner and Bob Cunningham are the key men.

The defense was also hurt by player losses, notably All-American safety Bill Pitcairn, defensive backs Mike Ignaffo and Sheldon Davis, and tackles Marty Terwilliger and Paul Steinborn. Yet, despite this, Levine feels that the defense is the team's strong unit.

"The linebackers and defensive ends are experienced and do their job well. They are the strong positions in the defense," he said, referring to linebackers Cunningham, Jim Pagano and Ron Clarke and defensive ends Mike Schlitte and Bill Dunn.

This might sound like a rebuilding club but Levine has no hangups. "We have a lot of talent which can be realized this year. We must stay healthy as we are thin at almost every position. If we stay healthy I think we can get the job done and have a good season."

Levine, in his tenth year as head coach at Marist, has compiled a 57-25-1 record over that span, including the ECCFC championship in 1972. His teams have been ranked in the NCSA top ten in each of the last six years. His biggest challenge may yet come.

Manhattan was 0-8 a year ago but Levine cautions, "In club football you can never go by the record of the previous year. The personnel changes so drastically." It's easy to see what he meant by that.

Strong Season For Cross Country

The Marist Running Red Foxes, backed by Fred Kolthay's record-setting second place finish, came in a fifth place in the fourth annual Glassboro Invitational Saturday. Marist scored 99 points and just missed fourth place by one point, and missed third place trophy honors by only 11 points. Keene State, a new entry to the meet and the defending New England cross-country champions, showed their massive strength with championship honors and 33 points, far outclassing second place Frostburg State from Maryland, who had 79 points. Keene State runners captured 3rd, 4th, 5th, and 6th as well as 15th place, for five runners in the top fifteen. Host Glassboro State was third with 88 points, while defending champion Fairleigh Dickinson, with their entire 1974 championship team back, could only manage fourth place in the tough field with 98 points.

Fred Kolthay set Marist records for best time and rank in the meet as he captured an individual plaque for Marist with his second place finish and 25:18 clocking. Marist had three runners just miss out on the individual plaques which were awarded to the top twenty runners as freshman Tom Luke was 21st in 26:18, one minute behind Kolthay, junior Brian Costine was 22nd in 26:19, and freshman Bob Coufal was 23rd in 26:20. Ric Bond, another freshman, completed Marist's scoring with a 26:47 clocking good for 31st place. Marist also had the "sickness bug", plague Mark Forlow during the race as both he and Steve Van Keuren could not run up to par in the meet.

Marist had placed second last year and Coach Rich Stevens wanted to point out to the Marist fans that this was not a bad performance by any means for the 1975 team. "As a matter of fact," Coach Stevens explained, "this was a much stronger performance by us than last year. Last year we had only one runner under 26:30. This year we had four runners under 26:21! With these times last year we would have easily won the meet with 52 points to FDU's 70! We would have had all five of our top runners finish in the top twenty of last year's meet. We also knocked off 2:01 when comparing last year's top five for Marist in this meet and this year's top five for Marist. It was really a strong showing for us, but the competition was tremendous. The meet had much more quality than ever before. Stonybrook is a real strong team yet they were a distant 48 points from us. We only missed out of second place honors by 20 points and fourth place was two seconds away from any of our runners."

Coach Stevens pointed out that the illness of Steve VanKeuren was a tough blow for the Running Red Foxes. "Based on the improvements that the other two veterans, Kolthay and Costine, accomplished over last year's meet VanKeuren probably would have run about 26:00, good for about 15th place. This would have given us third place and close to second even. But bad luck will happen and this was not a meet that we were aiming for. We'll hope for all our good luck at the end of the season during our championship meets."

This year's Long Red Line is the largest contingent ever for Marist in cross country with 23 runners on the squad. The team is equally balanced between freshmen and upperclassmen and also between experienced college runners and newcomers. The Running Red Foxes have their top four from 1974 back: top-rated Fred Kolthay, Brian Costine, George McCutcheon, and Will Morrison plus number seven man Steve VanKeuren. Top freshmen appear to be Tom Luke, Bob Coufal, Ric Bond, Jeff Blanchard, Tom Gibbons, and Mark Forlow. Rounding out the team are newcomers Charley Gysin, transfers Quint Johnson, and Steve Meier, returning from a one-year absence Bill Krempel, senior co-captain Jim Gillen, returnees Dave Schools and Chris Paccione, newcomer sophomore Pat Whelton, and freshmen Vinny Quinn, Charlie Spratt, Keith Millsbaugh, and Frank Stephen.

Marist has its first home meet of the season next Wednesday at 4 p.m. against two teams that defeated them last year in their 18-3 season, Trenton State and Monmouth College.

The team will run at Van Cortlandt Park this Saturday against Queens College, U.S.M.M.A. and Kings (Pa.).
