3 Good Evening, Everybody:

4 New York is excited today. New 5 York always enjoys a show and an ~~very~~ 6 unusual show is promised for tomorrow.
7 (Mayor Walker will appear on the witness
8 stand before the Hofstadter Committee, 9 which is rattling a lot of political 10 skeletons in the New York administration.)
11 The Committee meets in the largest 12 courtroom in the County Court House,
13 But <sup>if they wanted</sup> ~~in order~~ to accommodate all those 14 who <sup>would like</sup> ~~want~~ to be present, <sup>and are clamoring to be present, well,</sup> the state would 15 have to hire Madison Square Garden.

16 The court room has <sup>space</sup> ~~room~~ for 17 300 people, and 10,000 <sup>had</sup> applied for seats 18 before noon today, and still more are 19 applying at the rate of twelve a
20 minute. It's bound to be a good show
21 when Jimmie Walker faces Judge Samuel
22 Seabury. Jimmie always give<sup>s</sup> a ~~good~~ <sup>lively</sup> 23 account of himself, and expert as Mr.
24 Seabury is in cross examination, he 25 will meet <sup>a crack sparring partner,</sup> ~~his equal~~, when he faces for

1 the first time the slim, dapper
2 wise-cracking Mayor.

3           It is estimated by the New York
4 Sun that of the 300 spectators present
5 a hundred will be newspaper reporters, 6 photographers and artists. Among the 7 others who've applied for admission are 8 shining lights of society, of Wall Street,
9 of business, and of politics. In fact,
10 almost everybody of any importance in 11 New York has tried to get a pass to see
12 the battle of the Century between Socking 13 Sam Seabury and Walloping Walker. But 14 gate crashers will be out of luck. The 15 corridor and entrance-way will be 16 heavily guarded. Impulsive people who 17 try to break through are apt to encounter
18 what is politely known as the bum's rush.
19 Judge Seabury's friends and associates
20 promise they've got some real dynamite
21 to explode. Mayor Walker's partisans
22 scoff at the idea.

23           "They can't get anything on Jimmie", 24 his friends declare. "Jimmie always knows 25 how to take care of himself."

1 Well, this will be a wow of 2 a story to follow in your local newspaper-- 3 whether you're a New Yorker or not.

1 Governor Moore of New Jersey
2 today <sup>definitely</sup> proclaimed a $25,000 reward in 3 the Lindbergh case. The reward will 4 be paid for information ~~which will~~ 5 result <sup>ing</sup> in the apprehension and 6 conviction of the kidnappers of the baby.

7 At the same time Dr. Jaffsie
8 Condon issued a mysterious appeal to 9 a man he described as "the Scandinavian 10 called John" to come forward and 11 tell the true story of his part in the 12 crime. John is the man to whom Dr.
13 Condon tossed $50,000 of Col. Lindbergh's 14 money over the wall of <sup>the</sup> cemetery in the 15 Bronx.

16 Dr. Condon issued his message
17 through the newspapers. It was worded
18 in this way:

19 "John, the money I gave you is 20 useless. You can't get rid of it.
21 Return to Col. Lindbergh in time. Get 22 your $25,000. reward. Signed Jafsie, "— 23 meaning of course that reward announced
24 by the governor of N. J. today.

1                   In one respect the good old days are here again. So 2 runs a story in the New York Evening Post tonight.

4                   Hundreds of articles of merchandise now sell as cheaply
5 as we used to buy them before 1914. The Post quotes one department 6 store manager as saying:-

8                   "There never was a time, in our day, when goods were so 9 cheap, and also so good. Even babies are cheaper," declared the 10 Post. "Maternity hospitals and baby specialists have brought 11 their fees quite near the 1914 scale. So near that the average 12 young couple can call their baby their own after half a dozen 13 instalment payments."
14
15

16                   Saxaphones as well as babies are reduced in price.
17 Well, which musical instrument would you prefer, a saxophone or 18 a baby?

DOCTORS

1           Here's a curious state of affairs
2 in Buffalo. It seems there aren't 3 enough doctors to go around among the 4 sick. Usually you hear doctors 5 complaining that their profession is 6 overcrowded. But many Buffalo patients
7 are lacking sufficient attention.

8           This information was conveyed
9 by Dr. Charles Heyd of New York City,
10 president elect of the New York State
11 Medical Society, which is in convention
12 in Buffalo. The reason for this 13 extraordinary state of affairs is that 14 so many doctors' incomes have been 15 reduced that they've had to give up
16 their practice and take to driving 17 taxicabs. The records show that at 18 least 20% of the families formerly 19 attended by physicians are now quite 20 without doctor's care, but there are 21 plenty of taxi-cabs to take you to 22 the doctor's house, where there is no doctor.

by thirty former service men from Salt Lake City. And their leader brought the information that 300 more are on the way from Utah to join them.

military establishments there in times of emergency.

As declared Representative Britton, he came out to report about the Bonus Territories Committee. He was pleading for his bill to put the bonuses under the rule of soldiers. "I don't want to see any man try to wave the red flag at Japan," he said. "But I believe you can find today thousands of well-to-do men (in Japan's homes in the islands) whose purpose is to destroy our docks in the event of war."

But both the Navy and War departments declined to endorse Mr. Britton's bill. Admiral Pratt, chief of naval operations, was asked whether he would recommend its adoption.

"As it stands, NO," he replied, emphatically. He added that Hawaii could not be made a purely military outpost.

1 "Military control of the Hawaiian
2 Islands is necessary to prevent American 3 citizens of Japanese ancestry from 4 plotting to blow up parts of our 5 military establishment there in times of 6 emergency."

7 So declared Representative Britten
8 of Illinois today to the House
9 Territories Committee. He was pleading
10 for his bill to put the islands under the 11 rule of soldiers.

12 "I'm not trying to wave the red flag
13 at Japan," he stated. "But I believe you
14 can find today thousands of well-laid
15 plans (in Japanese homes in the islands)

"There are too many big outside interests," he explained.

General McArthur, chief of staff of the Army, was also against the Britten bill.

1           There's one new idea nowadays that 2 seems particularly sensible. It is one
3 of those things so simple that you wonder 4 why it wasn't thought of before. It's 5 for blind men to carry white canes.

6           There's always the problem of the 7 sightless person making his way through 8 the streets. Everybody wants to help.
9 You'll see folks eagerly stopping to help,
10 and guide the man whose eyes are dark
11 across the street.

12           It's one of the easiest kindest
13 services that we can do and it would help 14 if the passerby <sup>could</sup> ~~can~~ instantly tell that 15 the person is blind. That's where the 16 carrying of a white cane comes in.

17           It is said the idea originated in 18 Paris. And now the notion seems to be 19 spreading somewhat.

20           So if you see a man carrying a 21 snow-white cane you will know that the 22 sight of the world around is denied him.

1           You may have heard of men so
2 crooked that they'll steal the gold out
3 of your false teeth. It looked as 4 though this had happened in a Chicago 5 jail, and to make the story better, the 6 supposed victim was one of the best 7 pickpockets in all Chicago,--so the 8 police declared.

9           He woke up one morning
10 complaining loudly to the keeper:

11           "Thumbody picked my faith
12 teeth right out of my mouth", he ~~declared~~ <sup>lithped.</sup>

13           This aroused quite a bit of 14 excitement. Anybody who could rob the 15 best pickpocket in Chicago they thought
16 must be good. Well, it was true. A
17 hunt through the jail found that somebody
18 had robbed Chicago's <sup>ace dip,</sup> ~~best pickpocket,~~ 19 but he didn't get away with it, because 20 they found the teeth in a refuse box.

21           "There's somebody in this 22 jail", said the victim, "who's got me
23 skinned ~~a~~ <sup>a</sup> mile.

1           The Chinese yellow dragon is changing 2 like a chameleon to the Red of Soviet 3 Russia. So we learn from an enlightening 4 article in the current issue of the 5 Literary Digest. A contributor to an 6 influential monthly published in Moscow 7 is quoted as reporting that toward the 8 spring of this year 200 out of 773 ■
9 districts of Central and Southern China
10 were under the control of the Soviet 11 government of China.

12           The population of these 200
13 districts is estimated at no less than 14 60 million people. This writer adds that 15 the Chinese Red army now numbers around
16 150,000. It seems to be so well
17 organized that it was able successfully 18 to fight off the recent campaign under-19 taken by the Nanking generals against 20 the Chinese Soviet areas, The third
21 campaign of its kind, incidentally.

22           ██████ Press dispatches from Amoy 23 reveal one humorous episode, says the 24 editor of the Digest, in all the 25 tragedies of raids by Chinese Communists.

1 A missionary and his family had 2 fled from their home in Changchow. But 3 the cook remained behind on the job.
4 When the looters began hammering on the 5 door, the cook opened it, <sup>she</sup> let them in 6 and treated them to a feast of American 7 delicacies. The Communists showed their 8 appreciation of the cook's hospitality 9 not only by leaving the contents of the 10 house unlooted. They even made her a 11 present of a pair of slippers which 12 they had swiped from the house next 13 door.

1           There was a riotous opening in 2 Berlin today. The new Purssian Diet
3 convened, and there was a follower of 4 Hitler serving as temporary ~~xxxxxxx~~
5 chairman. The disorder, as H. R.
6 Knickerbocker cables to the New York
7 Evening Post, was so loud that nothing 8 could be done. After half an hour of 9 yelling and fighting the meeting
10 adjourned until tomorrow when officers
11 will be elected.

12           The temporary chairman was 13 General Litzmann. There was a strong 14 guard of police to keep order, but in 15 spite of this when the General wearing 16 his imperial war decorations, took the 17 chair, the Communists raised a yell of 18 Down, Down. The General declined to 19 make a speech, which aroused still more 20 jeering from the Communists. Noise from 21 the galleries contributed to the row.

22           It's going to be an important
23 session, reports Knickerbocker. Prussia
24 is the largest German state. In fact,
25 it amounts to two-thirds of the whole.

1 Reich. Consequently the control of 2 Prussia means a great deal to the 3 government. It is bound to influence the 4 position of Chancellor Bruening, and the 5 future of Germany's foreign as well as 6 domestic politics.

7           Outside of the jeering and 8 squabbles between the Communists and the 9 followers of Handsome Adolf, ~~very~~ 10 little could be heard today in the Diet 11 except the bim-bimming of the 12 chairman's bell.

1 (For being the first woman to make
2 the solo flight across the Atlantic,
3 Amelia Earhart Putnam today was awarded 4 the Distinguished Flying Cross.) At 5 least virtually so, because the Senate 6 passed without debate a resolution to 7 that effect by a Senator Walcott of 8 Connecticut.

9 And, of course, it will pass
10 through the House of Representatives, 11 just as quickly.

12 Amelia had another experience
13 that many ~~other~~ American girls have ~~been~~ 14 ~~anxious to have~~ <sup>yearned for.</sup> She had a conference
15 with the Prince of Wales. The Prince
16 received her in his own study in St.
17 James's Palace, where he had once 18 entertained Col. Charles Lindbergh. He 19 sent for Miss Earhart because he wanted
20 to hear the story of her flight first 21 hand.

22 After the interview was over Miss
23 Earhart told reporters: "We just talked 24 about airplanes."

1 Sport fans will be interested to 2 learn that a new world's record was made
3 today. It was unofficial, to be sure,
4 but nevertheless a record.

5 Kaye Don, the British race driver
6 whose name will be familiar to all
7 American fans, sent his boat Miss England

9 131.78 miles an hour. This he did on

1 They are still having that sausage
2 strike in Berlin. It seems that the 3 men claim that making sausages for the 4 wages they're getting is nothing but a 5 skin game. A sausage strike is a new 6 kind of strike to me, though I've 7 heard of pretzel varnishers striking
8 in the United States.

9 A few weeks ago they had a beer
10 strike in Berlin, but that was soon 11 settled. You can take beer away from 12 Americans. It's almost as easy as 13 taking candy from children. But that's 14 one thing that Fritz won't stand for.

15 And I don't imagine the sausage
16 strike will last long. A German city
17 without sausages is like an American
18 circus without peanuts, or a Bostonian
19 without his beans.

20 ~~They can't stand for that sort~~
21 ~~of thing very long.~~

22 The very thought of a German
23 city without sausages is breaking my
