

MONACO

Fri. Oct. 12 '62,

~~But, if you hear about~~ "wall of shame" - where ~~that he?~~ would ~~you say the story is from?~~ Berlin? ~~Ah, no~~ This dispatch is from the French Riviera. Said one citizen of Monaco today - "it looks as if the French are going to put a wall of shame along our border." Then he added "they'll have to put gendarmes in a lot of bedrooms, because that's where the border runs."

Whatever happens, it seems that if Prince Rainier is going to have to choose - between a wall, and taxes.
DeGaulle is standing firm on his threat - to put a tax ~~on~~ bite on those tax-free French businessmen in Monaco. If the Prince says, "non" - up goes that wall. Or, at least - the border will be sealed. And the telephones in Monaco will go dead - because they're connected to the central lines in France.

Just to give an added touch of fantasy to this international dispute - Prince Rainier and Princess Grace are on holiday. Where, why - in Paris, of course.

CUBA

When the Algerian spokesman in the U N called for a "hands off Cuba policy" - the American delegation might have seconded the motion. The Algerian, demanding that the Cuban people be allowed to decide - their own form of government. Exactly - our own position.

That is - the words are identical. The meaning - rather different. The speaker, assuming that Castro - represents the Cuban people ~~and~~ <sup>and</sup> not suggesting a free election to find out.

Some observers at the General Assembly feel that we should keep this point - in the forefront of the debate. Keep ~~remind~~ reminding the other delegates that all we want - is self-determination for the people of Cuba.

Meanwhile, what about the Soviet trawler - that landed at Veracruz, Mexico? The Captain says ~~that~~ he needed - food and fuel. But the Mexican inspectors found - plenty of both, on board. The inspectors, going over the ~~at~~ ship - and the skipper - with a fine - tooth comb. Checking out - both.

NEW GUINEA

From Darwin, Australia - reports of another pagan massacre in New Guinea. The place - the remote valley of the Balien River, deep in the rugged mountains of the <sup>wild</sup> island, where they are still tens of thousand of Centals. The great valley where ~~the~~ civilization is represented ~~by~~ by a few - if they are still there. If they haven't missionaries, Baptist missionaries working among some of the most savage people in that sinister equatorial land inhabited most savage people on our planet.

How savage is clear - from <sup>the</sup> Darwin dispatch. We are told of a pagan horde - running wild. Using spears and clubs - on the natives who have been converted to christianity.

The toll, about ~~200~~ <sup>2</sup> hundred killed - many injured. The fate of the missionaries - in doubt, tonight.

Cause of the Massacre - superstitious fear of the old heathen gods of New Guinea.

WEATHER

~~There is no baseball story from San Francisco~~

~~tonight, but, there is a weather story. And - the two go~~

~~together.~~ The sixth game of the World Series, washed ~~away~~
as you know, out by a torrential downpour. Heavy rains, falling - on the California coast. ~~Turning to snow, across the state~~

Deep to heavy snow,

High Sierra.

As for baseball, this could turn out to be <sup>one of</sup> the fall rainiest World Series. Probably not the rainiest, for
~~of them all.~~ Back in Nineteen Eleven, when the Giants played the Athletics - the fourth game was rained out, for six straight days. <sup>now</sup> ~~are~~ In Nineteen Sixty-Two,

the Giants ~~are~~ in it again - this time with the Yankees.

Two postponements - already. And the San Francisco weatherman warns - that the same thing could happen tomorrow.

~~At least~~ ~~should~~
Anyway, the pitchers ~~will~~ be rested - by the time ~~start~~
~~they resume~~ ~~their~~ throwing baseballs. It should be a great

A duel of brilliant lefthanders - Billy Pierce for the Giants, and Whitey Ford for the Yanks. Tomorrow? Or maybe

Sunday.

KENNEDY

Here's the story of - Giovanni Geraldini or, should

I say - John Fitzgerald Kennedy? I'm not quite sure - after 5 1/2

The President <sup>in his</sup> Columbus Day speech in Newark, New Jersey,

~~Mr. Kennedy, revealing a family tradition~~ <sup>said</sup> that his Fitzgerald ancestors came from Venice. Their <sup>original</sup> name - Geraldini. Which, after it had passed through France and England by way of the Norman conquest - ended up as Fitzgerald in Ireland.

~~An interesting genealogy, and quite ~~not possible~~ -~~

~~since the~~ Irish names beginning with "Fitz" <sup>did</sup> originated on the continent. "Fitz", a corruption of "fils" (fees) ~~which is~~ French for "son". So Fitzgerald means literally "the son of 5 2

Gerald" - or Geraldini, <sup>says</sup> ~~if the President's family history is~~ ~~correct.~~

~~still~~ // History wasn't on his mind today. ~~Politics~~ -

~~was~~. For some reason, this presidential Italian lineage

<sup>just came</sup> ~~happened to come~~ out - before an audience mainly of Italian origin. <sup>all</sup> ~~and~~ with - the American vote;

<sup>said</sup> John

5 1/2 Geraldini Kennedy.

NINA

On Columbus Day, it's appropriate that a replica of the "Nina" - is sailing the Atlantic toward the New World. This one, built according to the dimensions of - the vessel that followed the flag ship of the great navigator. "Nina the second" - under the command of Carlos Etayo, a Lieutenant in the Spanish Navy. Lieutenant Etayo, skippering "Nina the second" across the ocean - toward <sup>San Salvador</sup> ~~Watling Island~~ where Columbus made <sup>that</sup> landfall, exactly five-hundred-and-fifty years ago.

"Nina the second" has an American aboard - Bob Marx of Los Angeles, beguiling thought. - <sup>Since the term</sup> ~~since there weren't~~ American <sup>wasn't invented until</sup> ~~any Americans before~~ the original "Nina" and her sister ships made that historic voyage back in Fourteen Ninety-Two.
