

GOOD EVENING EVERYBODY:

President Eisenhower was decidedly cheerful, today, about his talks over the weekend with Soviet Premier Khrushchev; saying - the discussions had removed any threat of force in the problem of Berlin. He and Khrushchev having agreed - that the situation of West Berlin was "abnormal"; a city with free democratic institutions, one hundred and ten miles inside Communist East Germany. But that the question can be settled only by negotiation, without threats - or duress. Khrushchev telling the President, that, in all the Berlin argument, he had never intended to make any threat.

So there'll be new talks on Berlin - without any time limit, but also without undue delay.

President Eisenhower told the newsmen that the talks at Camp David, Maryland - had removed most of his objections to a summit conference; which, presumable, will now be held. The President stating - that arrangements on this will have to be made in collaboration with our western allies.

One significant thing is this - that Khrushchev is unhappy about the enormous amounts of money Soviet Russia has to spend on armament. The President saying - that was the impression he got. Which would seem to bear out a supposition - that their armament program is handicapping the Soviets in their plans for industrial development.

In Moscow, today, Khrushchev returning home was welcomed in triumph. The Russians under the impression, apparently, that his trip to this country represents a real diplomatic victory. In an address at the Moscow Sports Palace, Khrushchev told a huge crowd that President Eisenhower, in Khrushchev's own words - "sincerely wants to liquidate the cold war, and create normal conditions with the USSR."

But he did get in a note of suspicion. Charging - that there were elements in the United States government that want the cold war to continue. He didn't say whom he meant; but he hinted in the direction of Vice President Nixon; referring - to a speech that Nixon made; critical of Soviet policy.

EISENHOWER STEEL

President Eisenhower, today, put in a telephone call to Roger Blough, Chairman of the Board of U.S. Steel - another - to David MacDonald, President of the Steel Workers Union, ~~Summoning~~ them - to the ~~the~~ White House, ~~the~~ day ~~the~~ after tomorrow. ^{TT} The President to meet with them separately, and tell them, no doubt - pretty much what he told his news conference an hour or so earlier. |

Namely - that the steel strike has been dragging on too long. That he is, as he put it, "sick and tired" of the ~~the~~ delay in settling the walkout, ~~which~~ has brought about - "an intolerable situation".

Speaking to the newsmen, the President indicated - that he might invoke the Taft-Hartley Law, ~~To~~ bring about - at least, a temporary halt to the strike.

GRANDCHILDREN

President Eisenhower, today, confirmed the Khrushchev story - how the Eisenhower grandchildren made the decision, ~~Postponing~~ - the presidential trip to Russia until springtime.

At his news conference, the President explained that, previously - he had made the suggestion to the Soviet Premier. Arguing - that both of them would have a heavy ~~program~~ ^{program} ~~schedule~~ in the next few weeks. So it might be advisable - to postpone the visit, which had been scheduled for next month. To this Khrushchev added - that the weather would be better in the spring. Nikita, having had plenty of experience - with Russian winters.

But, the matter was decided once and for all - when Khrushchev visited the Gettysburg farm, and had a talk with the President's grandchildren. Nikita calling them - "wonderful" grandchildren.

He asked them - would they like to go along with Grandpa to Russia. To which they replied - yes. Nikita then telling them - that springtime would be the best.

Because then the ice and snow are gone - and the flowers are in bloom. The Eisenhower grandchildren agreeing to that; preferring - flowers to ice.

PHOTOGRAPH

Some proud scientists - in Washington, today, were displaying, a photograph; The first picture ever taken - from outer space, Showing - a section of this earth.

The photograph - made by a television camera, aboard Explorer Number Six, the paddlewheel satellite.

At the time the picture was snapped, the man-made moon was nearly twenty thousand miles away, Passing - above Mexico. The television camera - pointing in the direction of the Pacific Ocean.)

The TV picture was picked up in Hawaii, Registering ^{there} as a photograph. So what does it look like?

~~well~~, It's no masterpiece of the photographer's art. You wouldn't expect that. Anyway, the ocean, at the time, was covered with clouds. So the camera caught the sunlight reflected from the top of the clouds. The picture showing - a bright crescent. The curve of the earth - and clouds above the Pacific.

SHARKS

A story - of rescue from sharks. Which might make you think - of, perhaps, a helpless girl saved from those tigers of the deep. Well, it was a girl - a deer. That is to say - a doe.

Off the West coast, near Malibu, California, Barney Battman, and his wife and brother in law - were out in a motorboat, fishing; when they saw the deer swimming. Then they noticed - the sharks. Two big ones - attacking the doe. So, to the rescue they went - attacking the sharks, and driving them off.

The frightened deer kept on swimming - but was heading out to sea. So they chased the doe. Finally lassoing her - and hauling her into the boat.

The story ending - when the lucky doe was turned loose in the woods along the coast, and went scampering - into a thicket.

And now welcome to Oldsmobile - and welcome to our Oldsmobile announcer - Dick Noel.
