

L.T.-Aldo Thurs. Oct. 13, 1960

BASEBALL

What did you think about that ball game today?

I wonder how many died of heart failure before it was over.

Yes, the way the World Series ended today - was about as sensational as anything I can remember - in the history of sports. It wasn't the fact that the Pittsburgh Pirates won.

Or - that they won by one run. It was the fact that they came back - after their star relief pitcher ran into trouble.

The Yanks had been stopped cold by Elroy Face - three times in this series. The Bronz Bombers were sure they could win - if they could only hit Face. Today they hit him - hard.

Including a three-run homer - by Yogi Berra. When the ~~Hanks~~ Yanks carried a seven-to-four lead into the bottom of the eighth most baseball fans figured - that was it.

Then came that astounding Pirate rally of five runs, climaxed by Hal Smith's three-run homer. Then, back stormed the Yanks to tie up the game again - with ~~to~~ two runs in the ninth. All of which set the stage for Bill Maserowski to win the game and the series for the Pirates - with his electrifying homer when he came up the first batter leading off for Pittsburgh in the Ninth.

Manager Danny Murtaugh has called his team - "resilient". They certainly proved it today. Captain Dick Groat said it best - "The Yanks set all the records, and we ran off with the Series." Final score - Pittsburgh Pirates ten, New York Yankees Nine. This fighting band of Pirates, giving Pittsburgh its revenge for the way the Pirates were clobbered by the Yanks, and Babe Ruth ^{way} ₂ back ~~in~~ in Nineteen Twenty-Seven.

KHRUSHCHEV

Nikita Khrushchev is on his way home tonight - after twenty five days in New York. More than three weeks, in which he kept the city - in an uproar that is some of it - part of the time. And, he gave the police - their toughest security problem they've ever had.

Khrushchev is flying home, in a Russian jet, from Idlewild; full of American goods. The Soviet leader and his colleagues used their stay in New York - to pick up everything from hats to automobile tires.

Also the Baltika will sail with a heavy American cargo. Truckloads of Soviet purchases have been running down to the dock on the East River - all day. About the only thing the Baltika won't have aboard will be Viktor Jaanimets, who sailed into New York as one of her crewmen, and then defected to the West.

U N

The offer ~~that~~ Khrushchev made in the U N today - was simply ignored by ^{the American} ~~our~~ delegate. Khrushchev said he would be satisfied ^{with} ~~by~~ an American apology - for the U - 2 and R B-47 flights. Amabassador Wadsborth didn't bother - to say "no". He ^{simply} ignored Khrushchev - and went on to explain our position. He ^{Wadsworth} ~~Wadsworth~~ pointed out that ^{its route -} the RB-47 was plotted by electronics along its entire flight - and never got closer to the Russian coast than thirty miles. He asked the General Assembly not to let this incident be shunted aside - by Khrushchev's innocent pose. Because - ~~we~~ we can prove that the plane was shot down over international waters. Why else, asked Wadsworth, should the Soviet leader be afraid of - arbitration in the case of the R B - 47?

ADD U N

When Khrushchev spoke for the second time - he trained his guns on the U N. The Red Boss threatened to boycott U N disarmament negotiations- unless the General Assembly accepts his resolution on the subject. And he warned that he will push his ~~xx~~ demand - for a reorganization of the U N. Khrushchev, declaring with brutal frankness That his object ^{we the same -} remains to get rid of the Secretary General, and replace him with a three-man presidium.

Khrushchev's opinion of the U N wasn't helped - by his latest diplomatic defeat. The General Assembly refusing to debate his charge of aggression - against the United States. The majority against him - overwhelmingly - ~~fifty-four~~ to ten.

FRANCE

France demands an end to - America's "nuclear monopoly". Premier Debre ^{today} told the Paris National Assembly ~~na~~ that France wants to share in the atomic secrets of her allies. The Premier added ^{that} France intends to ~~xxxxx~~ become an atomic power - with or without American help. And, she'll maintain control of her atomic bombs - instead of putting them under Nato.

CUBA

Today in Havana, one man on the street remarked sadly - "it looks like another blood bath." He was referring to Castro's summary executions. Twelve anti-Castroites and American Anthony Zerba - were hurried before a firing squad, ~~after~~ after a quick sentence by Castro's revolutionary tribunal. The Cuban dictator, bringing back memories of the ~~from frightful~~ mass killings he ordered - right after he seized power.

FLYER

A few miles off Wake Island an air and sea search is being pushed - through ~~an~~ torrential rain and heavy seas. Object of the search - pilot Duane Sterling, of Fargo, North Dakota. Helping in the search ^{is} Charles Finnegan. Also of Fargo, who was flying a second plane across the Pacific. Sterling and Finnegan, ^{were out} ~~trying~~ to set a long distance record for light planes - by making the trans-Pacific hop from California to Manila.

When they were near Wake Island - Sterling radioed to his partner that he was in trouble, ~~and~~ and would have to ditch his plane in the Pacific. Finnegan swung back, couldn't find him, - and flew ^{on} to Wake ~~Island~~ to give the alarm.

A Navy crash boat - has found the wreckage of Sterling's plane, ^{and they are still} ~~but tonight they're~~ searching - for Sterling.

DEBATE

The third debate, question and answer session, political quiz show, or whatever you prefer to call it - involves a miracle of electronics with which you are familiar. Vice President Nixon on one side of the continent in California, and Senator Kennedy on the other here in New York. They'll meet face to face, that is, over the ~~airwaves~~ airwaves. The two candidates - that is, their voices and faces will be picked up individually, then fused - into a single operation. Quite a stunt. But, the networks occasionally do it - and it always seems to work. However, it may make it seem even less like a debate. But all this is a political campaign ^{experiment} ~~experiment~~ - and out of it, before election day may emerge a real ~~debate~~ debate between the two.

At any rate, for whatever happens tonight I suggestion you tune in to CBS at 7:30 Eastern Daylight time - CBS Radio and CBS-TV.

DEBATE

before What did you think about this one? To me this discussion or debate generated more heat, was more intense than the other two.

As expected, the question of the defense of those off-shore islands came up. But after they had hit back and forth at each other on this I had the feeling that their position was not so different, what the Vice President was saying was that if you announce what you are going to do, well, then you are playing into the hands of the enemy. But, I suppose this part of the debate will go on and on.

The Truman bit provided a few moments of relaxation. Senator Kennedy didn't exactly defend the Former President.

Did Senator Kennedy look to you as though he had been under a great strain? He did to me, and this time, on our screen Mr. Nixon appeared much more relaxed than before. But, one of the most extraordinary things about it was that you had no feeling of the two being separated by the entire continent.

six hundred and fifty miles into space - through the deadly belt of radioactivity that surrounds the earth - and they came down in the Atlantic - five thousand miles from New Canveral, where they started. When they got to the ocean the rocket nose cone - the three black - the black - with nothing had happened. Sally, Ann, and the other - fine style, according to the 12th floor.

And now lets take a look at our Mary Eldemobile.

MICE

Now for the saga - of Sally, Amy, and Moe. The three black mice are relaxing tonight - after their spectacular ride aboard an Atlas rocket. They travelled six hundred and fifty miles into space - through the deadly belt of radioactivity that surrounds the earth. And they came down in the Atlantic - five thousand miles from Cape Canaveral, where they started. When our scientists opened the rocket nose cone - the three black mice acted as if nothing had happened. Sally, Amy, and Moe - surviving in fine style, according to the Air Force.

And now lets take a ride in our Merry Oldsmobile.

PICASSO

The world's most famous auction house was crowded - when bidding began today. And no wonder. Southerby's of London, holding one of its most spectacular auctions - twenty nine paintings by Picasso. The largest number of Picassos - ever auctioned off at one time.

The highest bidding today was for a portrait - painted by the Spanish master in Barcelona, in Nineteen Two. A Swedish collector topped the bidding, and got the portrait for - twenty thousand pounds. The other twenty-eight items in this auction, pushing Southerby's income, for one day's work - above half a million dollars.