

EISENHOWER L. Ladd Wed. Sept. 21st '60.

President Eisenhower will confer with ^{a number of} ~~a lot of~~ foreign leaders in New York tomorrow - but not with Khrushchev. So says press secretary ~~Jim~~ Hagerty - who adds that Castro is also on the Eisenhower list of the uninvited.

Jim
According to Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower will leave the White House for Andrews Air Force Base - by helicopter. He'll fly to Idlewild, and drive into New York - where he's scheduled to make his address before the U N General Assembly.

Afterward, President Eisenhower will return to his hotel - and play host at a lunch for Latin-American leaders, ^{an affair that will not include Castro - or} ~~This is where Castro - is excluded. As it~~ - Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

During the day, President Eisenhower will confer with delegates from many other countries. This is where Khrushchev is excluded. High on the list of guests ^{- are} representatives of the New African nations that were voted into the U N yesterday.

ADD EISENHOWER

And the President will confer with - Marshal Tito; ~~Mr. Eisenhower, sounding out~~ the tough Yugoslav partisan[†] who successfully defied Stalin; And is now defying-Khrushchev.

The first big battle of this U N session - is the expected one. - The Communist bloc, and a number of neutral nations - backing Red China for membership. The United States retorting that Mao Tse-Tung is guilty of aggression against the U N. - and therefore has no right to enter the international organization. Most of the western nations - supporting our position, as they have ever since Mao began to bang on the door of the U N. - ~~with a nailed~~

~~List.~~

PLOT

There's one mysterious angle about that Soviet warning of a possible attempt on Khrushchev's life. The Russians ~~are~~ in New York ^{believe} ~~describe~~ a former member of the Nazi Gestapo ^{is} ~~is~~ out to shoot the boss of the Kremlin, by using a phoney camera.

Here's the mystery. Khrushchev's security chief told our State Department that the information comes from - the Soviet Trade Mission in Bern, Switzerland. But, over in Bern, the members of that trade mission say - they don't know a thing about the rumor.

American authorities believe the Russian propaganda mill got its signals crossed - between New York and Switzerland. ^{that} The story was supposed to come from Bern - but the Russians in Bern weren't tipped off in time.

Anyway, the New York police have tightened their security guard - around Khrushchev; ~~they aren't~~ taking ^{no} ~~any~~ chances - with a guest as unpopular as ^{the boss of the Kremlin,} ~~this one.~~

CONGO

The strong man of the Congo demands the evacuation
^{those} of U N troops ^{that are} from Guinea and Ghana. Colonel Mobutu accuses them - of interfering in the internal affairs of his country.
In particular, of preventing him ~~to~~ from arresting Lumumba - whose home is guarded by U N soldiers.

Lumumba supporters - are ~~not~~ ^{not} quite so lucky.

Mobutu is cracking down on them - as enemies of the State.

Meaning - frontmen for Communism.

ADD CONGO

Dag Hammarskjold's reply to Mobutu - is that
U N forces may have to intervene in the Congo fighting;
Intervene - to prevent Mobutu's army from committing atrocities.

Three African students just back from Russia - tell of racial intolerance in the Workers' Paradise. They described their experience at a news conference in Frankfort, Germany - Michel Ayin of Togoland, Amar Andrew of Uganda, and Theophilus Okonkwo of Nigeria.

They say they were lured by - Soviet scholarships. But they found that the Russians expected them to turn Communist - while they were in Moscow. The African students refused - so they were confined to their ~~xxx~~ rooms. Then - told to go home.

Among the things they saw in Moscow - was an African student beaten by members of the young Communist ~~League~~ ~~League~~ League, ^{because he had dared} ~~his demeanor~~ criticizing Lenin. They also saw another African student beaten - because he was walking with a white girl.

YALE

Up in New Haven - Ruben Waterman has just entered college and reported to Hal Whiteman, well known Yale dean of freshmen. What's the story? Well, the Watermans have been going to Yale - for seven generations. Ruben's father was there before him - and his grandfather - and his great grandfather - right back for two hundred years. The family Yale tradition - almost as old as the college. It's only forty years short of the foundation, of Yale - by a bequest from Elihu Yale.

Seven generations in succession. The Watermans - most faithful of all the sons of old Eli.

Incidentally it's even difficult for sons of old grads to get in Yale these days.

KENNEDY

The Democratic candidate again refuses to remain silent - about the weaknesses of America. ~~That~~ That is - the Kennedy interpretation of our weaknesses. In Tennessee, Senator Kennedy told whistle stop audiences - this is the right time to analyze our position in the world. ^{and} Let Khrushchev know - that he will face a stronger America - should the Kennedy-Johnson ticket win in November.

On domestic issues - Kennedy emphasized economics today. He promised Tennessee farmers that, if elected - he'll see that interest rates are lowered - so farmers can borrow more easily at the bank.

NIXON

While Kennedy was in Tennessee - his opponent was next door, in Kentucky. Louisville gave Vice President Nixon a rousing reception - complete with confetti and ticker-tape. The Louisville police estimate that a hundred thousand people lined the streets - to cheer the Nixon motorcade. With thirty thousand, ^{more} ~~gathering~~ in courthouse square - to hear him speak.

Nixon again twitted Kennedy - for suggesting that President Eisenhower ought to have expressed his regrets to Khrushchev in Paris. This statement, according to the G O P candidate - proves that the Democratic candidate is - "naive".

TRUCK

Here's a wild story about ~~a~~ truck ^{that}, rolled out of a driveway in Branchburg,

New Jersey, today. ~~and into a miraculous escape.~~ Three year ~~ed~~ old Brenda Jones climbed into her father's truck - and somehow released the brake. The vehicle started to move - gathered speed - shot out of the driveway - careened down the street - and came to a jolting stop on the railroad track.
A moment later, a locomotive plowed into the truck - which ended up a twisted heap of junk half a mile down the track.

Don't worry. The story has - a happy ending. Little Brenda ~~Jones~~ couldn't ~~en~~ close the door of the truck - and ~~she~~ was thrown out a few yards from the railroad. Her father's truck - demolished. The ~~is~~ little girl ^{- merely} ~~escaping~~ ~~with~~ a few bruises.

INN

When the Bishop of Norwich, England, opened the Dolphin Inn - an era of history came full circle. The Dolphin Inn was founded during the Middle Ages - when Englishmen liked flagons of ale with their venison. The Dolphin survived the reformation and the rise of the Church of England - since Anglicans, too, had the habit^t of hitting the bottle once in a while.

Then came Cromwell and the Puritans - and they didn't like drinking at all. The ^{so-called} "Lord Protector," having no taste - for ale, ~~he~~ ordered the taverns - to be shut. ~~The~~ The Bishop of Norwich fled, ~~and~~ Cromwell's men ^{demolished} ~~knocked down~~ the tavern, ^{and} Norwich had to do ~~with~~ without it for three hundred years - until today, ^{when} Bishop Fleming bestowed ^a ~~the~~ benediction on the new building. ^WWhereupon, it opened for business. The Dolphin Inn, serving drinks again ^{— Dick —} after being closed for three centuries.

KHRUSHCHEV

Nikita Khrushchev's Romeo and Juliet scene ^{today-}₁ was a show stopper, according to those who saw it. The Soviet Premier was on the balcony - at the Soviet Embassy. Nikita - playing "Juliet". On the ground, a whole covey of "Romeos" - the newsmen. They interviewed him - shouting questions, while he shouted back the answers.

Ah, but Nikita's eye caught a more pleasing sight - the girls of Hunter College, who were watching from their windows. The Soviet boss promptly turned his attention - to them. He smiled, waved, and gestured - while the Hunter co-eds waved back. Then "Juliet" left her balcony - I mean, Khrushchev went inside, followed by his unsmiling bodyguards.
