

The mystery of Scott Carpenter- has been solved. The mystery of why his space capsule overshoot the target area by two hundred and fifty miles. Explanation -- an error - in "Yaw-attitude."

The Space Agency revealing ^{today} that the capsule rolled ~~in~~ to the right -- when the retro-active rockets ~~fire~~ fired. Hence, part of the breaking action -- was lost in outer space. And the astronaut came down - at a shallow ^{angle,} instead of a steep one.

^{Hence}
~~That's the reason for~~ those agonizing forty minutes -- when Scott Carpenter ^{seemed to be} "lost". ~~The period that ended when he was spotted bobbing up and down on his raft. It was~~ all due to "yaw-attitude".

TAXES

Will there be a major tax cut next year?

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, promises "a top to bottom reduction." And, it was announced at the White House that President Kennedy has okayed - the Dillon announcement. Also, the Democratic members of Congress who were at the White House today - told the President that Congress is amenable; ready to go along with a new administration tax bill.

The reason for all this talk about cutting income taxes - is the hope of giving the national economy a much needed boost; create incentives - especially in business, which is eyeing the Kennedy administration with some misgivings. Many business men are ready to modernize their plants and move into high gear - if that/^{if} seems to be up to the Administration.

STOCKS FOLLOW TAXES

A quick reaction to the idea of lower taxes next year - came on the New York stock exchange. The news, reversing - the trend. The skidding market, sliding to a stop - then going into reverse. Prices - again going up. Wall Street has been the ~~XXXX~~ rendezvous of bears - for over a week. Now, will the bulls take over? There are signs of that.

... too early for that? Governor Brown will take the Democratic nomination - handily. His opposition - weak, divided, obscure. ... As for the GOP - and Nixon, those familiar with California politics - believe that he will easily win out over Ultra-conservatives. But this one holds all the suspense. By how much will he win.

NIXON

The only thing definite about the California primary thus far - is, that not enough voters are turning out. The state has seven million eligible to cast ballots - with only sixty percent availing themselves of this basic Democratic freedom; the sort of indifference - that long has puzzled and concerned sociologists, and others.

Any trend? Too early for that. Governor Brown will take the Democratic nomination - handily. His opposition - weak, divided, obscure.

As for the GOP - and Nixon, those familiar with California politics - believe that he will easily win out over Ultra-conservatives. But this one holds all the suspense. By how much will he win.

A M A

Today, President Kennedy repeated - that the
A M A definitely did oppose Social Security in the thirties. The President, referred to a statement then, by Dr. Morris Fishbein - that compulsory security was a step toward totalitarianism. Behind the Iron Curtain
- coal The present head of the A M A - says the charge just isn't true. Dr. Leonard Larson, waiting for a look at the record - before answering Mr. Kennedy point by point, says he is sure his organization never opposed social security; that some members of the A M A even testified - on the social security health services in favor of it. began spying on him and squealing to the Reds.

~~These big victories in South Viet Nam are a tribute to the bravery of the loyalist army. And to the competence of their military advisors from America.~~

One Yankee innovation - the decision to use were busy in South Viet Nam today, ~~Helicopters for jungle hopping. Today two good examples of how the strategy works.~~ When Red Guerrillas attacked a village in the Mekong Delta - an S O S went out to Saigon
by radio, and Within minutes, eggbeaters with American pilots - were carrying troops to the area. The Reds, cut off - before they realized that the enemy was anywhere near. They fled - leaving forty-two dead, many more wounded.

Also, a
~~The~~ second battle - on the plain-of-Reeds. Again the peasants radioed - an S O S. Again came an immediate counter attack - by helicopter. This time - few guerrillas got away. More than a hundred - killed, wounded or captured.
Loyalist losses - about a dozen wounded.

BEEBE

Explorer will exploration,

The passing of ~~Dr. William~~ Beebe marks the end of
- a colorful career in American ~~science,~~ Will Beebe, naturalist and ~~explorer~~ most famous for his bathysphere. The steel shell weighing more than two tons - in which he set deep sea diving records, ~~going down three thousand feet - in a~~ ~~most spectacular dive~~ off Bermuda in Nineteen Thirty Four.
~~Fantastic - for that period.~~

Young Will

Beebe joined the Bronx Zoo in Eighteen Ninety-Nine
-- ~~and~~ helped to make it one of the world's greatest. His expeditions, ~~are~~ legendary. He brought back so many new plants and animals - that a hundred species were named ~~after him~~ him. In Between, he managed to write twenty-two books - far (some best sellers)
and hundreds of articles!

on the island of
Now dead ~~in~~ Trinidad, at the age of eighty-four

-- the man who may have been our finest naturalist. Dr.
William Beebe.

This follows immediately on the heels of the passing of an old, old friend and colleagues - gravel voiced

Clem McCarthy, who never has had an equal when it comes to describing a horse race. Clem, who made a fortune - and died penniless. And another brilliant associate Ed Kobak, Exec. V.P. Pres. of N.B.C., and President of Mutual.

CULT

Here's a question for anthropologists: Where ~~in~~ ~~the world~~ do they worship - an American aviator? Answer - in New Guinea. Or at least - deep in the mountains of the big island off the coast of Australia. Some of the most inhospitable terrain - on our planet.

British anthropologist David Attenborough, ~~is~~ just back - from ~~that area~~ ^{there}. He tells of finding a strange stone idol - with a face painted white. The natives call the idol -
"John Frumm"; And say it represents a man who flew down out of the sky - twenty years ago. They even have a rough model - of his flying machine. Evidently a plane of the type used by the American Air Force - during World War Two.

The pilot, ^{evidently} ~~seems to have~~ landed in ^{those wild} ~~the~~ New Guinea mountains - and ^{was} ~~been~~ accepted by the people, ~~living there~~.

~~accepted~~ and worshipped. ~~Whatever may have~~ happened to the pilot? - ^{1/2} His memory lingers on - in one of the world's most savage places. Among some of the world's most savage ~~part~~ people. In the dense jungles of New Guinea - ~~is~~ a barbaric religious cult. Its idol, a stone monster that they call - "John Frum;" a World War II flyer - one of General McArthur's boys.

in the dispatch - who was assigned to that which... Her task, to let Soviet jazz buffs know - what the market of the hot clarinet has to say.

Something obviously was wrong - from the start. Benny Goodman, throwing out volleys of quips - in English. When he listened for the Russian translation - it always came out as a single sentence. much ~~rather~~ compressed, - ~~thought the touring American.~~ A quick check showed that his translator was giving only one sentence each time - the name of the number Benny was about to play. She just couldn't handle his jargon - and so Benny's ~~most of his~~ immortal words were lost forever. In

~~We are told - that nothing can be done about it. The Russian language, having no equivalent, for words like -~~

Anyone who has ever been mystified by Jazz jargon - ~~which I suppose means most of us~~ can sympathize with one particular Russian translator, ^a ~~the~~ young lady, ~~name not given~~ ~~in the dispatch~~ who was assigned to tour with Benny Goodman.
Her task, to let Soviet jazz buffs know - what the master of the hot clarinet has to say.

~~Well~~ something obviously was wrong - from the start. Benny Goodman, throwing out volleys of quips - in English. When he listened for the Russian translation - it always came out as a single sentence. ^{Much} ~~rather~~ compressed, ~~thought the touring American~~. A ~~quick~~ check showed that his translator was giving only one sentence each time - the name of the number Benny was about to play. She just couldn't handle his jargon - and so ^{Benny's} ~~most of his~~ immortal words were lost forever. ^{In}

~~We are told - that nothing can be done about it.~~
~~The Russian language, having no equivalent, for words like~~

The "flying grandfather" from Lock Haven, "hipster" and "square". How would you say that in Pennsylvania - has flown the Atlantic for the ninety third Russian? Gay. Gay Lord Avery is with us tonight. time. Max Conrad, taking his an single engine plane up - at Oldtown, Maine, zooming East across the water - to Shannon, Ireland. He ran into ice and snow - just beyond Newfoundland. Forcing him down from nine thousand feet - to five thousand feet. Otherwise, an uneventful flight across the Atlantic - according to Max Conrad.

Not so long ago, it was a feat - for young daredevils. Now routine - for the Flying Grandfather.

PILOT

The "flying grandfather" from Lock Haven, Pennsylvania - has flown the Atlantic for the ninety third time. Max Conrad, taking his ~~an~~ single engine plane up - at Oldtown, Maine, zooming East across the water - to Shannon, Ireland. He ran into ice and snow - just beyond Newfoundland. Forcing him down from nine thousand feet - to five thousand feet. Otherwise, an uneventful flight across the Atlantic - according to Max Conrad.

Not so long ago, it was a feat - for young daredevils. Now routine - for the Flying Grandfather.