GOOD EVENING EVERYBODY:

Another Jules Verne invention - unveiled today by the Space Agency. A space station - that can be packed into a small suitcase. It goes in such a small space because - the space station is made of rubber. To be carried into space - aboard a booster rocket. Then inflated - until it forms a doughnut shape, thirty feet in diameter, and three stories high. Around the rin of the doughnut - a control centre, a scientific laboratory, a gallery for observation - and living quarters for ten astronauts. The power for this inflated space station will be solar energy.

Its main purpose - to serve as a flying dock for space ships. As far as I know - even Jules Verne never thought of that. X-15

The key word in today's flight of the X-15 -- the word "yaw." Meaning - too much sway from side to side. That's what happened on July Seventeenth - when Pilot Bob White zoomed up to a record altitude of mfifty-nine miles. The flight, a success but the rocket plane developed too much sway. Almost reaching the danger level - on his instrument panel.

Today, Pilot Joe Walker took the X-15 up -- with a new "yaw dampener." Hitting a speed of a mile a second - Walker deliberately started to sway from side to side. Each time, the "yaw dampener" - brought him right back on course. Another technical triumph for the X-15 -- which flies higher and faster than any other aircraft in the world.

EXPLORERS

The six Americans who floated out onto the Maroni Guiana — River in French Guipes - are attempting one of the most hazardous trips in the world. Their goal - the Bražilian border, more than three hundred miles away. No explorer has ever made it - through the dense tropical Foreic. The last one who tried, in Nineteen Forty-Seven -- was never heard from again. One surmise - he was murdered by the fierce primitive Indians of the interior.

What's the purpose - of this expedition? Says Leader Dick Smith of Northbrook, Illinois - "You can't keep explorers from exploring the unexplored." Specifically they want to map the area. And bring back scientific specimensflora and fauna. Flowers, butterflies, birds - maybe even a jaguar or two. And they'll pan the Maroni River - for gold. That is, if the natives and the jungle don't become too much - for the six American explorers.

BERLIN

Western diplomats in Moscow believe - that a major decision is being formulated in the Kremlin. The decision to start, or not to start, another Berlin crisis. The point being - that Khrushchev's East German puppet has arrived for talks with the Red boss. And it's taken for granted - that ulbricht is the for a tougher line. Arguing, that his regime is so shaky - that he needs a crisis as an excuse for a crack-down.

The Western diplomats point out that the last time Ulbricht came to Moscow with an appeal - Khrushchev okayed the Berlin wall. This time - with who knows?

One thing Khrushchev still has to face - no Allied backdown. Today, our planes were flying on schedule - to West Berlin. And we kept belicopters circling over East Berlin to point up our right to the air space over any part of the eity.

ALGERIA

The new agreement in Algiers \overline{i} a complete victory for Ben Bella. That's how observers are interpreting the document that presumably puts an end to the fear of an Algerian civil war. The linsue, as you know - a struggle for power between Ben Bella and Ben Khedda. Main outcome of the struggle, as announced today - Algeria to be run by a seven-man political council, The council to be dominated by - Ben Bella's appointees.

we danger of civil war - may be over, But there's a new danger, The langer of - dictatorship. Ben Bellas enemies charge that he wants to set up a tyranny - after his triumphant entrance into Algiers tomorrow.

SOLDIER

The American soldier who defected to Red Czechoslovakia - was due to be court-martialed. Corporal Raymond Hareld, facing charges of - violating the customs regulations. His problem - he had gone into debt. Couldn't pay up - from his Army salary. So he turned to - smuggling. At least - that's the charge he would have had to answer.

According to Radio Prague, the American Corporal simply prefers Communism - to democracy. But in East Providence, Rhode Island - his mother says it isn't so. That neither she nor his Japanese wife - ever heard him defend Communism.

SOBLEN

The British denial of asylum to Robert Soblen - is based on the legalities of the case. The Home Secretary, telling the Commons - that Soblen is not being persecuted. Nor is he too ill to return to America - where he faces a life sentence for espionage. Hence, he doesn't qualify for asylum under British law. The London government, ordering the Israeli Air Line - to fly Soblen back across the Atlantic. That being the airline - that brought him to Britain.

The convicted Red spy the long way around - to reach the cell that is waiting for him. From New York, to Israel, to London - and now back to New York.

PHILIPPINES

The rift between the United States and the Philippines appears to be a thing of the past.- now that the war damage bill has passed the House. Rejection of the bill last time touched off much criticism in the Island. President Macapagal cancelled his visit to Washington.

The cause of this animosity - now removed. The House, approving - seventy-three million dollars for war damage suffered by the Philippines under American jurisdiction.

DRUG

The reaction in Congress to yesterday's presidential news conference - is immediate. And - entirely favorable. Subject - drugs. How to control dangerous drugs. - like thelidante. President Kennedy calls for - tougher laws, passed by Congress. The indications are - that for President will get those laws. Today, one Republican member of Congress remarked - "The only question is, how far we should go."

Meanwhile - more vigorous action by the Administration. Secretary Cellebrezze of Health, Education and Welfare, announcing - stricter rules for testing drugs on human beings. LADY

Now here's a question - what do you do when a lady sticks her tongue out at you? To complicate the issue, suppose the lady in question happens to be - one of your employees? It happened - in Ripley, Tennessee. Dotty Jacobs. reprimanded by her boss - because her work wasn't up to snuff. Dotty's reaction - she stuck out her tongue. Result - the lady, fired. Taking her case - to the National Labor Relations Board. But - she lost. The Board, terming her behavior -"scandalous." Ruling that if it's perfectly all right for a -Dick boss to give an employee the boot - even a lady - if she sticks out her tongue at him.

NOMINATION

I doubt if this year's primaries will come up with a surprise - more startling than the one in Montpelier, Vermont. William Meyer, a candidate for the Senate - was looking over his nominations papers. Examining the list of names - of his backers. His eye, lighting on the name - Robert Johnson of Brattleboro. Which startled - Candidate Meyer. What's the story? Oh, just that Johnson is Meyer's opponent - for the nomination. When Meyer threw his hat in the ring some months ago - Johnson signed as one of his backers. Later, Johnson developed political ambitions of his own - and filed to run against Meyer.

The original signature - still legal. So Vermont has a candidate for the Senate - who is vouched for by his opponent.
