Secretary of State Dulles ^{today} After the United Nations session, the sixteen nations that sent troops to Korea held a meeting. It was decided that the United States should dispatch another message to the Chinese Reds. The message, asking Mao Tse Tung for a reply to the Allied proposals on the time and place of the Korean peace conference. The Allies have suggested October Fifteenth for the conference to begin. And San Francisco, Honolulu, or Geneva, Switzerland as the place. Our government has already sent the message - and the free world is waiting for ^{the} Mao Tse Tung's reply.

DULLES

Secretary of State Dulles ^{today} accused the Reds of stalling on the Korean peace conference. The Secretary ^{charged} ~~stated~~ this before the U N General Assembly, ~~he~~ pointed out that the deadline for the conference is October twenty-eighth - not long from now, ~~and that~~ the Reds have so far refused to agree on terms for the conference. All of which, says the Secretary, makes us wonder whether the Reds are sincere about wanting an agreement.

The Secretary of State also mentioned other ~~points~~ points of international dispute. He said ~~the~~ ~~that there are a number of places in which the~~ Soviets can show their good faith, by coming to an agreement ^m - Korea, ~~in~~ Indo-China, Germany, Austria, and Eastern Europe. ~~The Secretary~~ ^{He} asks for deeds rather than words, in dealing with these trouble spots.

Mr. Dulles added that the West is building its defenses all because of Russian aggression. This is his answer to the Soviet charge that we are the war-mongers. The Secretary of State put our case in a single sentence: "History records no more frightening fact" said he "than that, since Nineteen Thirty-Nine, some six hundred million people of some fifteen nations, have been brought into the Soviet camp of dictatorships - and in no case has this come about by voluntary action of the peoples and nations concerned."

Dulles went on to point out to the General Assembly of the U.N. that international disputes are mainly due to the Iron Curtain countries refusing to come to any genuine agreement.

INDIA

India sends more troops to Korea. Six hundred additional to reinforce the five thousand the Iron Curtain border to stir up trouble. Indians now supervising the repatriation task.

Today, the Anti-Red Chinese threw stones at the North Korean team, screamed insults, and West Berlin police speed arrived just in time to chanted the slogan, "death to the Communists".

WEST GERMANY

West Germany has set up a special police force to cope with the problem of Reds sent over the Iron Curtain border to stir up trouble.

Announcement of this follows an attempt to kidnap a West German writer. Eight Reds crossed the border, hid in the writer's garden -- this was in the French zone -- and when the writer returned to his home, the intruders grappled with him. But he managed to shout loud enough to be heard, and a West Berlin police squad arrived just in time to save him.

There are more reports tonight about trouble in the Czechoslovak coal mines. The dispatch says the Red Army is taking over these mines. One report tells of strikers stoning the Red troops. It all followed demands for higher wages, lower prices, and more consumer goods.

YUGOSLAVIA

Tito's campaign against the churches in Yugoslavia seems to have ended. Only recently there have been many stories of how members of the Catholic and Orthodox churches were mistreated by Red mobs. Priests man-handled, even pelted with stones and rotten eggs. Several severely injured. And at least five priests seriously beaten.

Today a member of Tito's top council denounced this violence. He says it is not part of the government struggle against, what he terms, "the reactionary clergy," and calls the attacks "illegal".

This seems to mean that the Yugoslav government is telling its thugs to stop beating up the clergy. And that could be called - an about face - because the attacks were so well planned.

that the clergy felt the government responsible for all of it. Hundreds of such incidents.

The attacks began, as if on signal, on July Sixth.

High ecclesiastics were singled out for mistreatment

-- including twelve bishops. And the police made no attempt to protect the bishops.

Now Tito's government denies that it had any part in it - and calls on Communist leaders to put a stop to it.

EGYPT

It was announced in Cairo today, that the first list of Egyptians to go on trial for treason against the new regime will be made public soon -- -- perhaps later this week. To face a special tribunal set up by Naguib. The trials to follow at once. The charges to include "encouraging imperialism, acts of treason, and conspiring against the Naguib regime."

The special tribunal these Egyptians will face will be composed of three men whom Naguib has empowered to impose death sentences. No recourse, except that the judgments will go to The Revolutionary Council for ratification. From there no appeal - to any other court.

There is a sinister note. The accused will be notified of arrest and trial on the day of their hearing. In other words, a suspect will merely have a few hours notice of what is happening. Which sounds as if those accused by Naguib will have almost no time in which to prepare defense.

The new information comes in a statement from her family. According to the statement, Mrs. Nelson said she had met an old friend in Geneva. She identified the friend as Bob's father and said he had invited her to spend the weekend with him and his family. She added that he even had a nurse to take care of her children.

Mr. Nelson left for the weekend. He never came back. Her mother asked the British authorities for help. The Swiss police took up the case. So far Mr. Nelson has been traced to the railroad station. She and the children were last seen there.

SUB MCLEAN

Who is Robin Muir from Cairo? Tonight we have more details about the disappearance of Mrs. Donald McLean, ^{American} wife of the British diplomat who disappeared mysteriously two years ago.

The new information comes in a statement from her family. According to the statement, Mrs. McLean said she had met an old friend in Geneva. She identified the friend as Robin Muir, ^{from Cairo,} and said he had invited her to spend the weekend with him and his family. She added that he even had a nurse to take care of her children.

So, Mrs. McLean left for the weekend. ^{But} ~~as~~ She never came back. ^{On Monday} Her Mother asked the British authorities for help. The Swiss police took up the case. So far Mrs. McLean has been traced to the railroad station, ^{and that's all.} She and the children were last seen there.

After that - all a mystery.

Who is Robin Muir? One guess is that Robin Muir is none other than Donald McLean himself. But where are they now.

McCARTHY

The Wisconsin Senator who has been in the headlines so often of late, is in them again, for an unexpected reason. Joe McCarthy is to be married. The bride? One of his assistants. A Miss Jean Kerr, who has worked in the Wisconsin Senator's office for several years. The ceremony to take place in St. Mathew's Cathedral in Washington, next Wednesday. The announcement comes from the mother of the bride.

Jean Kerr became the Senator's research assistant in Nineteen Forty-Eight. We hear she did most of the research for a booklet on housing - which Senator McCarthy sold for Ten Thousand Dollars. In Nineteen Fifty, she accompanied him to Maryland, to take part in the campaign against Senator Tydings. That McCarthy opposition to Millard Tydings was credited with playing an important part in the defeat of the famous Maryland Democrat who had been a national figure for many years.

At any ~~rate~~ rate, Joe McCarthy will no longer be Washington's most controversial bachelor.

Incidentally, his marriage will leave only four bachelors in the Senate - Jackson of Washington,

Russell of Georgia, Green of Rhode Island, and

Cooper of Kentucky. It also leaves Senator Cooper

the only Republican bachelor. The life of single blessedness as it is sometimes called - ~~although~~ ^{although}

I don't see how anyone could call it that!

CHURCHILL

At London airport a great cheer went up for "Mr. Hyde" as he boarded a plane. Who is "Mr. Hyde"? Well, today ~~it~~ that name was used as an alias by none other than Sir Winston Spencer Churchill, Prime Minister and top statesman of The British Empire! By this device Churchill ~~kngh~~ thought he might slip quietly down to the South of France. "Mr. Hyde" was about to enter the plane, just another passenger, when he was spotted and cheered loudly.

So "Mr. Hyde" flew to Nice, today. From there he drove to the villa of his old friend Lord Beaverbrook, the press tycoon. To rest for ten days or so. He called it a holiday "to rest and paint."

HORNSBY

~~A great baseball player loses his job.~~

Rogers Hornsby, dismissed as manager of the Cincinnati ~~Reds.~~ Team.

Hornsby is ~~is~~ remembered ~~as~~ best as the greatest right-handed hitter in the history of baseball. Three times he ~~batted~~ over four hundred. But somehow he has never been so good at managing. And he has had plenty of opportunity; ~~for that~~ - six times leader of different teams.

Hornby has frequently been called "Too tough" for his players. He wants to win, and he pushes his team as hard as he can. He's never friendly with his players, bur demands everything they have when they're playing. Hornsby once put ~~his attitude~~ ^{it} like this: ^{way.} - "What do the players expect me to do - pat 'em on the head each time they get a hit?"

~~We don't know whether he was too tough for~~

The Cincinnati General Manager explains Hornsby's dismissal as follows:- "We have no criticism to make of him. But he adds: "We just decided that another man could get better results.

The Redlegs are in sixth place as Hornsby departs. The old story of the fabulously successful player, who has never been quite so successful as a ~~manager~~ manager,

ASTEROID

That latest astronomical problem has been solved. Last week we had a report from Denmark, that a new planet had been discovered - the tenth planet of our solar system. Astronomers at Harvard immediately expressed skepticism. They said that the celestial object could be something else - a comet or an asteroid instead of a planet.

Well, today the Harvard Observatory came out with a report. It now says the Danish astronomer definitely erred. That is it is no planet. Only an asteroid. Not large enough to rate even as a very small planet.

ISLANDS

The international court of justice at The Hague is hearing the case of - William the Conqueror. The case, arising out of a ~~dispute~~ dispute between Britain and France.

Both nations are claiming two of the Channel Islands. And both are going back to the days of William the Conqueror, to justify their title.

The islands are now in possession of Britain. The London government claims that the islands were taken over because of the Norman conquest. The English, fearing another invasion from France. They say that they were bent on stopping aggression when they seized the islands. And, by the British argument, if the islands belong to France - then the United States belongs to Britain. Because the American revolution was also caused by aggression.

To this, the French reply that the islands originally belonged to William the Conqueror. He was Duke of Normandy, ^{and} ~~which~~ under feudal law ~~made~~ ^a subordinate to the King of France. Which, say the French, proves that the islands belong to France.

12 That's why William the Conqueror is being discussed before the international court. In other words, to settle the dispute it's necessary to go back to the fateful year Ten Sixty-Six - when the Duke of Normandy crossed the Channel, ^{with,} defeated the Saxons, and became William the Conqueror.
