New Student Government Elected

Green Elected President

Brian Bennett

Andre Green

Joan Stegenga

John Daverns

Andre Green, who starred in Emperor Jones here at Marist, has put his acting abilities aside for a while, and will begin his political career at Marist College as the President of the student government.

Andre has a lot of ideas to improve the college and also to improve the student government. Andre feels that the student government has been misinterpreted by the students at the college and that the student government has not been represented in the form that the constitution states it should be. Andre believes, "There is a war on campus between the C.U.B. and the student government." He feels that the present C.U.B. acts as the student government. The C.U.B. now initiates and runs the campus center which is a job, Andre feels the student government should have charge of. Andre says, "The C.U.B. is a sister organization with the student government. Together they should coordinate student policies. I think that the C.U.B. shouldn't be a sister to the student government but it should be a daughter to it. As it stands now the C.U.B. runs all the activities and everyone, (including the student government), has to ask the C.U.B.'s permission on holding most social events."

Andre has many other plans which he hopes will benefit the College and its community. Andre says, "I want a complete overhaul of the Saga food service." Andre also wants to form a Marist Student Senate. He would like to have two representatives from each dorm to meet with the executive board, the financial board, C.U.B., The Interhouse Council, Commuter Union and all other student clubs. By doing so Andre hopes to enable all student clubs to meet together in order to help one another benefit the college and its activities.

Andre would also like to form a student-faculty tenure committee to serve as a backbone for a student written course analysis, written by the students and supervised by the student government. Andre also feels that there is a great need for more entertainment and activities at the college. He'd like to see more concerts at Marist.

This is Andre's first election to a student government however, in high school Andre was a campaign manager. Now Andre is out front with a lot of hopes, ideas, and a lot of ambition to improve the college. Andre says, "All I'm asking is for the students to come by the student government office and give us their ideas. There will be signs around to let the students know where the office is and I'll be around to listen."

Bennett Gets V.P.

Stegenga, Sec'y Daverns, Treas.

By PAT PERRETTO and WINNIE SAIITA

Elected to the positions of Vice-President and Secretary of the Marist student government were Brian Bennett and Joan Stegenga respectively. After the elections held on Nov. 20 and 21, there is a definite feeling of unity and enthusiasm among those elected.

Brian and Joan are both new to student government at Marist and have different feelings as to whether this will be a help or a hindrance to their effectiveness. "As long as we're all concerned and interested in learning from our experiences, I can't really see any problem," says Brian. On the other hand Joan sees their inexperience as their biggest obstacle to overcome. She adds, "we're inexperienced but very ambitious."

Both see the top priority facing this newly elected student government as being the allocation of the rest of funds to the different clubs and organizations on campus. Both Brian and Joan feel that the hold up in the allocations has hurt the social activities greatly on campus this semester. They believe that if there is something good offered here, there will be less people going home on the weekends. "When people are involved in what's going on here they seem to care more about the school, and if they care more about the school they'll go home a lot less," says Joan.

According to Brian this will be a working student government, with the student's voices and feelings being brought to administration and faculty alike. He also feels that the new student government will have to re-define itself to overcome the stigma of laxness that has been attached to it as a result of all the problems this year and last year.

The student government will have its first meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 2. According to the two there are many ideas that are being considered by the Executive Board (President, Vice-President, Treasurer, and Secretary) and will hopefully be worked out by the end of the semester and initiated next semester. A few of these ideas are a Student Directory and a student-faculty written course advisor.

Even though there are the mechanics to get out of the way and the allocating of the money, the main task will be to get people interested in student government and to demonstrate that it is a very workable asset to the needs of the entire student body.

John Daverns, a math major at Marist has just been elected treasurer of the student government. John said, "I thought the school needed someone who was interested in handling the school's student activities budgets, so I decided to run."

John feels that the elected officers are prepared to do a good job. Already they have met twice for long meetings and John feels these meetings have been very worthwhile.

John plans to put stricter controls on money being requested by the student activities representatives. As the chairman of the financial board, John hopes to review the allocations already distributed to student activities.

John is known on campus as a varsity lightweight oarsman. He comes from Buffalo and also has a sister, Mary, who is a freshman at Marist. John is not sure whether he will run for office again next year. John said, "I'll give this year a chance and make my decision on that."

On Friday, December 5, Marist College will present its first annual Psychology Undergraduate Day. The day will begin in the Marist College Theatre at 10:00 a.m. and finish at 8:00 p.m.

The purpose of the day is to show Marist students and students from the surrounding high schools what Psychology students are doing at Marist College. It is also intended to give students recognition for their academic accomplishments.

The day will begin with a brief introduction by Dr. Edward O'Keefe from the Psychology department. He will be followed by a series of five student presentations; Charlie Tackney will be presenting his work on "New Approaches to Psychiatric Classification," Karen Robbins will be presenting research on "Generalized and Lateralized Effects of Concurrent Verbalization on Unimanual Tasks," Chris Eblen will be dealing with "The Differential Effects of Success and Failure on Memory," Judy Johnson and Mike Masstriani will be presenting the Community Psych. study on "Marist College Dorms," and Bill Garret will be presenting his study on "Embarrassment, Embarrassability, and Reaction to Embarrassment."

The afternoon will begin with a panel discussion by Marist

Students has been in charge of: the athletic director, Financial Aid, HEOP Director, Upward Bound, Counseling Center, Campus Life, Assistant Dean and the Student Government.

Before they construct a new model, the Executive Committee is defining the problem areas in the administrative operations at Marist. Dean Waters suggested that individuals submit examples of problems they have had in dealing with the administration to him or to the CUB office in Champagnat. These should be submitted within the next week. From the problems, the committee will list concepts and principles which will determine the new administrative model. When the model is finalized, it will be made by President Foy and the Board of Trustees.

Dean Considered

By Claudia Butler

Before a new dean of students is appointed, the position will be re-evaluated by the Executive Committee, composed of Dean Waters, Dean Zuccarello and Business Manager Anthony Campilli, who are constructing a new model of the administrative organization of Marist.

Once the new model is implemented, the committee will begin interviewing for the position of Dean of Students. The qualifications that the future dean of students should have will not be known until the position has been redefined. Dean Waters stated that the re-evaluated position of Dean of Students might be, "more of a counseling position than an administrative one. The title implies student contact." Recently, the Dean of College alumni of their experience in the field of Psychology and where they think Psychology is headed. The alumni participating will be Fred Aspers, Norman Costa, Ann Matheus, Bruce Hustis, Bill Delahoyde, and Daniel Hickey. There will be a film on learning followed by a discussion. After this there will be demonstrations of the Psychology lab equipment in Fireside Lounge.

There will be approximately 135 high school students attending from the Poughkeepsie area. All Marist students, Psychology majors and those interested in knowing more about Psychology are encouraged to attend.

Letters To The Editors

Housewarming Help

To The Marist Community:
It now appears that the renovation of Fontaine building will be complete in a few weeks. After many years of planning, the Marist College Library will be operating in the new Fontaine facility beginning January 19, 1976. The Staff of the Library is looking forward to the expansion of library services that we hope we can make available in our new location. The bulk of the move will be done after the close of the Fall Semester on December 19, 1975 so that there will be a minimum of interruption of library services to the students and faculty.

While we hope to accomplish a great deal with the assistance of the Maintenance Department, it is apparent that in order to complete the move during the intersemester recess we are going to need the assistance of a great many people. It is our hope that there would be members of the community available during the recess, particularly after the New Year, to make the move possible. If you would be interested in assisting the Library Staff in the move of the Library, please leave your name and address at the Circulation Desk. There are limited funds available to pay those who can make a full commitment for the intersemester recess. Naturally, however, the Staff would be gratified to accept any assistance that anyone could offer, be it for a few hours or a few days.

We feel that the move of the Library to its new quarters will greatly enhance the efforts of the Staff to provide the community with effective library services. We hope that all of you will share in our excitement as we move into this beautiful new facility. Should anyone have any questions or suggestions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

With best wishes for a Happy Holiday Season, I remain,

Sincerely,
Vincent L. Toscano

A Turn For The Better

Untypical of Marist style, the Student Government elections turned out to be a widely publicized and supported affair. This sign of support for the first time in recent memory showed that some students here at Marist really do care about what's happening and made a move to show their support by voting. This welcomed sign of support contradicted the opinion of some who felt that community spirit had long since departed Marist College.

Unlike past years, the 1975-1976 Student Government is made up of undergrads, who bring to their positions fresh ideas, as well as a keen interest in the further development of all aspects of the college experience.

The Editors of the CIRCLE feel that the new Student Government should: promote community as well as commuter awareness, be an active participant on faculty policy making committees, and keep a watchful eye on all financial matters.

The new president appears to have many well thought-out ideas and plenty of ambition. Hopefully he will be able to put them both to good use. We hope that this new participation is a signal that Marist has finally taken a turn for the better.

Thanks

Dear Editors,

On behalf of Oxfam - America, we would like to thank those who participated in some way, shape or form in the "FAST FOR A WORLD HARVEST DAY", two weeks ago today.

Aside from the number of people who chose to abstain from food as well as those who assisted us in collecting donations, we extend our gratitude to those generous folk that made the final tally of contributions so plentiful; $101.61 to be exact.

It has been our hope that the fast day would not be considered just another hunger drive. But rather that the "FAST FOR A WORLD HARVEST DAY" will serve as a constant reminder to us all that positive action can be taken in the continuing battle against global starvation, everyday - for those who go without food, everyday.

Thank You,

Tribute From Abroad

Dear Editor:

"We, the Marist Students Abroad in Spain, have deeply felt the loss of a great professor Dr. Raymond Weiss. Because we are so far away, we would like to express our feelings towards him in the manner available to us.

In the loss of a friend we come to realize just how much one really means to us. Doctor Weiss was more than just our professor of Spanish. In the short time that we knew him, we had come to share with him a strong and warm friendship which will undoubtedly remain in our hearts for years to come. Even in his time of need, Dr. Weiss was always willing to offer and to share with others a love and dedication that had grown to be a valuable part of him. Each one of us, here in Spain, holds special sentiments towards him and will always keep him in our memory.

To his wife Joan, his family and friends; and to all those who had the opportunity and joy of knowing him as we did, we wish to express our deepest sympathy."

We hope that you will print this letter concerning the loss of Dr.

Raymond Weiss of the Modern Language Department. Please include our names for each of us holds special sentiments towards him.

Our Don Quixote

Many great tributes have been paid to the memory of Dr. Raymond Weiss. We have all felt and will always feel the pain of his loss. I would like to show him as we, his students, saw him and experienced him.

After having taken a great number of courses with Dr. Weiss, and having worked together with him innumerable times, I feel that I knew him very well. He was very close to the students, and always enjoyed the classes. He was extremely fair and understanding. We could always "goof" with him and be ourselves. He went out of his way to make sure that each student understood everything; he taught with organized preciseness and true insight. Dr. Weiss had an incredible amount of knowledge within him, and his insatiable desire to experience and learn never ceased. He created the desire within us to explore, and gave inspiration to each student. Few students ever went to his classes unprepared - not because they were scared of him: it was almost an insult to him if he called on you, and you didn't know the answer. You felt rotten. His literature courses were unequalled. I used to deplore reading literature: now I love it. Anyone who has taken his Golden Age Drama and the Quijote course will say that they left the last class with wet eyes. His interpretations of the works and the sharing of his knowledge with his students made them do their best for him.

Most of all, he was always there with us. His devotion to each individual made you feel special. He was compassionate, unselfish, exhilarated with life; he never sought glory. I never saw him angry, he never once complained, even of his suffering. He even held our literature class five days before his death. Although he was extremely weak and tired, he was fully prepared, and even reprimanded us for being five minutes late.

Dr. Weiss went out of his way to add to our experiences - he actively participated in the Spanish Club even though he was not its faculty advisor. He organized dinners, socials, trips, and was always there when needed, even for minute things. When I arrived in Madrid with another girl for our year abroad in 1973, he took time out of his sabbatical trip to meet us and help us through those first difficult days. He took us around everywhere, and rented a car for four days to take three of us into the land of La Mancha, of Don Quijote. That trip will forever remain as the most memorable experience of my life. He even told us to cut classes on some Fridays to be able to take small trips to the different cities of Spain - such was the love he had for Spain and its people, and he wanted us to love them too.

I know I've left out so much - Dr. Weiss was just so extraordinary that no words could properly describe him. He lived for us, he lived with us. And now he lives in each of us, and it is up to each individual who had the opportunity to know him to share his humility, love, faith and caring with others. We are his legacy.

New Career Counselor

Present Tense

Robertta Wallacher

by Ed Rubeo

"We want to let people know that someone is here and someone cares," says Robertta Wallacher, the new member of the Career Counseling Department. Mrs. Wallacher holds the newly created position of counselor specialist in testing and research.

She is "thrilled" with her new job and is very impressed with Marist and the college community. "It's such a friendly place. I don't know how many times I've heard the phrase 'welcome aboard' in the last few days."

Originally from Maine (she calls herself a "Maine-iac"), Mrs. Wallacher attended college there and then moved to this area to pursue her graduate studies at New Paltz. She now holds a B.A. in English and Psychology from the University of Maine and an M.A. in clinical psychology from New Paltz.

She was once a professional model but did not enjoy it. "They treated people like mannequins. It was very impersonal."

Mrs. Wallacher worked with the Department of Social Services, where she served as liaison to the department of Mental Hygiene, but she became frustrated with the "bureaucracy."

She likes Marist because "it is not bureaucratic or impersonal. It is possible to get an interpersonal relationship going here."

"I'm into all kinds of artsy things like knitting and candlemaking," she says. She also enjoys hiking. However, the most important thing for her right now, she feels, is her job.

Her job involves giving personality tests, aptitude tests, and I.Q. tests at the request of the Career Development Department. She will also conduct research on the other organizations on campus to determine their effectiveness.

Mrs. Wallacher is currently compiling a diagnostic library of tools for information-gathering, such as questionnaires and surveys. She hopes that other campus organizations that have done research on the college community will cooperate with her efforts.

Her only concern is that few people know of the Career Counseling Department and its work. According to Mrs. Wallacher the department is there to help students with academic, career-oriented and personal problems. She loves visitors and hopes to see many more of them.

The Career Counseling Department is located on the first floor of Champagnat near the Financial Aid office.

Rather than merely breathing a sigh of relief that the days of dull CCD or Sunday school classes are over, two groups of students at Marist have come together to present God as alive and ACTING on the Marist College campus.

"Man Alive!" is the key-word for a group which meets every Tuesday evening at 9:00 in Byrne Residence for Bible study and prayer. It is the aim of the group to take the Bible as the Word of God and discover in it promises and commands for the Christian life today. Each week a theme and relevant passage is selected; discussion centers around the message within the passage, and its very practical out workings in a person's daily life. The personal relationship between a Christian and a living ("Man Alive!") Jesus Christ is stressed. The group is not for "Bible experts" only, it is not a literature or philosophy course; it is to benefit anyone who would like to take a look at Scripture to see if there is something in it which may give a bit more meaning or reason to life.

The Folk Group at Marist is devoted to creating the musical atmosphere at the weekend Masses; also at special Campus Ministry: Byrne Project services. Anyone interested in praising the Lord through voice, guitar, bongos, tamborines, or another instrument, please come to folk practice every Wednesday night at 8:00 in Byrne Residence, or contact Carleen Bedell in Sheahan, 302.

The Community of Friends Church at Clinton Corners invites Marist students to join them for adult Bible study and worship service on Sunday mornings. Transportation will be provided by one of the church buses, which will pick students up in Donnelly parking lot at 9 a.m. Sunday mornings, returning at 1 p.m. If you'd like to know more about the church and its ministry, contact George Middlemas (S - 205), Bob Morley (S - 215) or Fran Fulling (S - 309).

Chivalry Alive At Marist

Dr. Peter O'Keefe of the History department held an informal discussion at Gregory House. Dr. O'Keefe's talk centered on the ever-expanding definition of male-female roles, especially as defined in chivalry of early Renaissance Europe.

The dialogue was, for the first hour, a monologue by Dr. O'Keefe. He discoursed on the role chivalry played in medieval times. "Chivalry built a more firm definition of male and female roles, not only for the common man but also for the aristocracy during the 12th and the 13th century," said Dr. O'Keefe. "It wasn't until the Renaissance," O'Keefe went on to say, "that roles were more concretely defined to the point of remaining remotely similar to our contemporary definitions, pre-women's-lib." The Italians of the 15th and early 16th century, he commented, took the then hazy concept of love and chivalry and made these two ideas a way of life, more than just an ideal. It was also during this period that the concept of gentlemen and gentlewomen took shape. Up until this time all peasants regardless of sex shared work loads as equally as possible.

During the discussion period which followed Dr. O'Keefe's talk took on a decidedly contemporary tone. The women in the group related on a more personal level to let chivalry and Renaissance take a back seat to the more pressing problems they face today.

The recent survey conducted by the undergraduate Community Psychology class revealed a possible relationship between two of the open ended questions in Sheahan House. One of the questions asked was how much of a problem drugs and alcohol were perceived to be. The other question asked about the ability to study in one's room.

The randomly selected group from Sheahan indicated that they perceived less of a problem with drugs and alcohol in the dormitory than either group from Leo or Champagnat. They also indicated that they were able to study in their rooms more frequently than the other two dormitories. Are these issues related?

Overall survey results will be revealed on Tuesday, December 9. On this date the class will give a presentation in the Fireside Lounge at 8:00 p.m. on the results of the survey. All students and staff are invited.

Prof Renews Self

"A sabbatical is a period of time that one is given by the college to enable you to account any number of goals. Basically you refresh yourself intellectually and emotionally. You study or pursue academics, and do research work in other areas," says Dr. Edward O'Keefe, Associate Professor of Psychology at Marist College. Dr. O'Keefe spent his half-year sabbatical during the 1975-spring semester. He traveled to New York to attend workshops and seminars. After being at Marist for 15 years with no time off, he was able to restudy certain areas in clinical psychology.

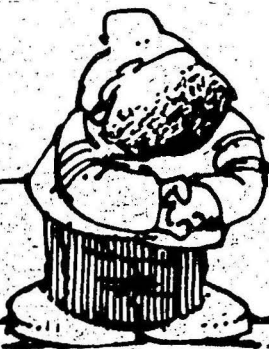

Dr. O'Keefe said, "Specifically, I wanted to study and gain practice in psychological assessment." This psychological assessment is a study in determining the factors that account for certain behavior. Dr. O'Keefe wanted to get experience with new testing devices in gaining certain behavioral assessments. "The tests are those of personality. By studying these, behavioral theorists arrive at certain experimental techniques. These techniques are used to formulate treatment, plans, and strategies," says Dr. O'Keefe.

His goal is to apply certain assessments and treatments to parental techniques. "Parents are always involved with assessing children and treating them," says Dr. O'Keefe. He hopes that these treatments will help child care workers and other institutional environments. He set up a course at Cardinal Hayes Home for Children to teach parental techniques to child care workers.

Dr. O'Keefe teaches two graduate courses, "Experimental Analysis of Behavior," and "Individual Assessment." He is using the information and techniques from his sabbatical to aid his two courses. He may develop a course for undergraduates in the future, which will focus on how to be a parent. Dr. O'Keefe stressed the benefits of a sabbatical by saying, "The college makes an investment in you. By this, the person will benefit but also the college."

Basketball Loses Opener

By THOMAS MC TERNAN

Iona forward Dave Brown hit a layup with 16 seconds left and later added a foul shot to give the Gaels a hard-fought 77-74 decision over Marist in the 1975-76 season opener at Dutchess Community College Saturday night.

The Red Foxes had blown a six-point lead with 4:45 remaining after center Earl Holmes and guard Eric DePercin both fouled out in the crucial minutes of the exciting contest that was decided on the foul line.

Baskets by Iona's Charlie Alberti and Kevin Bass pulled the visitors within 72-71 with 3:28 remaining. Lester George then drew DePercin's fifth foul and canned both free throws to put the Gaels ahead by one. Holmes committed his foul with 2:28 to go and Brown connected one of two, making it 74-72.

John McKee tied it for Marist from the foul line and Paul Kane got the ball back with a key steal. But Steve Pettus missed the first of a one-and-one situation with 45 seconds on the clock and Iona took advantage.

"We played well enough to win," said coach Ron Petro. "We did not shoot well however, and blew four one-and-one situations at the end."

The poor shooting (Iona was 28 of 64 for 43 percent; Marist was 28 of 83 for 33 percent) and good defense kept the score close throughout. Iona built a seven-point lead with 3:35 left in the first half as Bass hit for eleven points. Kane, inserted minutes earlier, got the Foxes back to 42-38 by the half, scoring 11 points on a variety of 20-footers.

"Kane did a good job," commented Petro. "He should do well against a zone with his shooting."

The visitors expended their lead to 48-40 on two George drives but Holmes, Ray Murphy and Willie Thomas led a 15-4 surge that put Marist back ahead 55-52 with 14:45 remaining. The Red Foxes held the lead for the next eight minutes before Neil Lajeunesse gave them their biggest lead (71-65) by converting two rebounds into two baskets. However, the Red Foxes could score only three more points in the next final minutes while Iona regained control.

Bass, the Gaels' All-American candidate was high with 19, but wasn't much of a factor in the second half, thanks to strong defense by Glynn Berry. Holmes and Pettus topped Marist with 13 points apiece while Holmes also had 11 rebounds and several spectacular blocked shots. Kane ended with 12 and Murphy added 10 for the Foxes.

"There was no one outstanding player," noted Petro. "Nine guys played in both halves and the scoring was well-balanced."

The Red Foxes face their first road test Saturday when they face Montclair State, an 86-76 winner over Kings last Saturday. Marist will return to Dutchess CC next Tuesday night (8 p.m.) to face West Connecticut State in a CACC game for the first time. The Red Foxes have a 10-2 record in the series dating back to 1961-62.

HOLMES NAMED ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

Earl Holmes, a senior from Buffalo, N.Y., has been named Marist College Athlete of the Week for the week ending, Nov. 29.

Holmes, a 6-5 center and co-captain of the varsity basketball team, scored 13 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked 6 shots before fouling out of Marist's season-opening 77-74 loss to Iona Saturday night.

INTRAMURAL ROUNDUP

Turkey Trot: John Vandervoort and Robin Smallwood won their respective divisions in the annual Marist Intramural Turkey Trot held Nov. 24. Both were awarded 22-lb. turkeys to brighten their Thanksgiving table.

Vandervoort left runnerup Ed Jennings behind on the third and final lap of the men's race. Mike Sommar finished third, Keith Hollman fourth and Mike Dombroski fifth. Following Smallwood in the one lap women's race were Wanda Glenn, Maureen Crowe, Renee Bernard, and Victoria Busch.

An added feature to this year's event were "obstacles" that were set up near the conclusion of each race. They consisted of doing jumping jacks, blowing up balloons, threading around cones, paddling a wiffle ball and running around a softball bat knob.

Vandervoort summed it up best, "It was fun for the fans to watch but it really hurt the runners." He particularly dislike running around "a-bat."

Volleyball: "Third Time Around" won their second straight Coed championship with a 15-5, 15-2 romp over "Preparation H." Val Bellarosa captained the team, which also included John McGraw, Jay Metzger, Neil Tejada, Sharon Sauer, John Vandervoort, Maureen Tully and Karen Sale.

"Return to Forever", captained by John Covell, was declared champions of the Men's league when "Tony's Pizzeria" and "Goober's Tool" both failed to show for their semifinal match.

"The Big Bird" avenged an earlier defeat with a 11-8, 15-7 triumph over "7th Heaven" to capture the Women's title. Team members include Bellarosa and Sauer from the coed champs as well as Lou Ann Waldron, Maureen Draper, Debbie Drew, Robin Smallwood, Camille Pia and Sue Daly.

SOCCER: "Mr. Peters & Co."-nipped "Zambinis" 1-0 to win the Intramural soccer championship.

BASKETBALL: The three-man basketball tournament was won by Bob O'Neill's "Leo 8", 12-10, 6-11, 11-2 winners over the "Bullets."

NOTICE: Rosters are now available for five-player men and women's basketball. Rosters must be returned to Rm. 319 Fontaine by Dec. 9. Schedule of games will begin Jan. 30.

NOTES FROM THE SPORTS DESK:

Several members of the Marist cross-country team spent their Thanksgiving morning at "Turkey Trots" around the state. Fred Kolthay won the 25 Kilometer (15.5 miles) Open run at the seventh annual Turkey Trot sponsored by the Hudson Valley Athletic Association and the Freedom Plains Presbyterian Church at Arlington H.S. He was clocked in 1:27:10.5 despite the poor weather conditions. Steve Meier (17th place) and Dave School (18th) also completed the distance. Steve Van Keuren placed fourth in the Open five-mile run...up north, Ric Bond finished 16th in the Baldwinsville Trot with a time of 56:52 for 10 miles...On Long Island, George McCutcheon was sixth in the 2.8 mile Rockville Centre run.

Basketball Coach Ron Petro

Ron Petro, varsity basketball coach at Marist College, is hopeful in that this year's team will have a winning season. Petro's squad will have their first game on November 29, playing Iona at eight o'clock in the Dutchess Community College gymnasium.

This year's team has a lot of experience, and has played good scrimmages. "We should be good. We should win a lot more than we lose," Petro says. The only thing which might hurt the team is the intense aggressiveness that the players portray. Petro stated, "We have to play very hard to beat the big teams. The more successful we are will be determined by having a little more force and aggressiveness."

Petro has changed the style of offense in one main area - more isolation. "We're trying to isolate the guards and forwards more so they can go two on two, or one on one," Petro explained. When playing against bigger colleges like Monmouth, Sacred Heart, and Iona, he plans to go with the bigger men. But if playing against a smaller team, he will use the smaller men who can move quicker. Are the Red Foxes ready for their season opening games? Petro replied, "We've been practicing for six weeks. If their not ready to play by now, I don't know what else I can do to motivate them."
