Monday, June 2, 1975 Mitchell Krauss

From Salzburg Austria....

From Grande Isle, Louisana...

From Tokyo..... comes today's news. Good evening everybody. I'm Mitchell Krauss substituting for Lowell

Thomas and reporting on the CBS Radio network.

SALZBURG

For President Ford and Egypt's President Sadat -

at Salzburg, Austria - the end of two days of talks today; and then a rainy, open-air news conference - perhaps the first step toward a new beginning in the Middle East.

President Ford saying a plan is taking shape - one. What he called that will lead, hopefully, to "a permanent peace in the best interests all parties." Sadat adding: "The peace process oul will be a long time." But "the most important achievement we can make" - he continued - "is that we end this state of belligerency" in the Middle East - "that has gone on now for twenty-seven years."

The two men later attending a farewell luncheon where the President pledged an increase in U.S. economic aid to Egypt. Sadat, in turn, calling the President "an honest and straightforward man" - and a fighter for peace.

has "strengthened dramatically."

JERUSALEM FOLLOW SALZBURG

The new "Spirit of Salzburg" was further accented auwawerd by an Israeli decision today - to "thin out" its forces on the East Bank of the Suez. Israeli Premier Vitzhak Rabin saying this was being done - as a good will gesture to mark the letter the week. reopening of the Suez Canal. Adding that he expects Egypt to reciprocate - by permitting cargo bound for Israel to pass through the Canal.

Sadat's response to this - a statement calling the Israeli pullback "a very encouraging act - a step toward peace" if it is "genuine - and not a move for propaganda purposes." Saturfalso suggesting he may make a "positive response" - after further study.

noce after this

30

GRAND ISLE

At the site of that capsized sea-going oil rig - off Grand Isle, Louisiana - a massive rescue effort today - and a big payoff. Coast Guard divers rescuing five of the six men - trapped inside the overturned riggend A search for the sixth - is still underway.

The	rescued men	found in	n air poci	kets - whe	re they were forced	entry for help	b. A Co	ast Guard	spokesman	n adding that among	the rescued	- there i	vere "no :	reports of	serious injury."

WASHINGTON

u Woshigton Here al home - Vice President Rockefeller was discussing today - the results of the Rockefeller Commission's five-month study of the CIA. Rockefeller saying: "There are things that have been done - that are in contradiction to the statutes; but in comparison to the total effort" of the CIA - "they are not major."

The Commission's full report - to be sent to President Ford on his return from Europe. Officials adding that it could be released to the public - perhaps as early as this weekend.

More signs of the end of the recession today. Officials at the commerce department citing a sharp upturn in factory orders in March and a sharp drop in inventories as an indiaation things are turning around. This as Presidential advisor Alan Greenspan tells Congress as far as he can tell the forces of the recession are spent a bottoming out about to happen.

GLASGOW

Britain's Prime Minister Wilson today urged Britons to vote "yes" - in their referendum Thursday on whether to remain in the Common Market. This in a speech - at Glasgow Wilson saying Britain can thus provide the leadership that Europe needs - "in political attitudes and political developments." SNOW

As Wilson spoke the coldest June weather in almost ninty years engulfed most of the British Isles. Snow, sleet, frost and gale force winds hit parts of Scotland. Vacationers were pelted with up to four inches of snow.

More in a moment...

TOKYO

After lying unconscious for two weeks following a stroke - Japan's former Prime Minister Eisaku Sato died today in Tokyo. Sato was the man who headed the Japanese government for eight years, longest Premiership ever - and was the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize last year. He was Seventy-Four years old. From the Federal Trade Commission - a proposal today to abolish the laws in most states - forbidding drug stores from advertising prescription prices. FTC Chairman Lewis Engman claiming that such a move could well save consumers - millions of dollars a year. By encouraging Competition. The FTC Chairman said in power eitres fries for the Same dung Varied by a such as 200%.