

SUB KATANGA

K.T. - Olds. Fri. Aug. 5 - 60.

The U N ~~has~~ ^Sdropped _^ its plan - to send troops into Katanga, ~~Province~~. Dag Hammarskjold, deciding - the situation in the Congo is too tense. Handing the problem back to the Security Council. The Secretary General ^{l,} boarded ^{ed} a plane for New York, ~~to take part in~~ ^{to be on hand for} the coming debate.

Hammarskjold acted on the advice of Ralph Bunche - who received ^{an exceedingly chilly} ~~a very cold~~ welcome in Elizabethville. ~~xxx~~

Premier Tshombe, warning him that U N forces would have to fight their way into Katanga. Tshombe, backing up his threat - by closing down all the air fields in the Province. Parking military trucks - on the runways.

Bunche, considering the Katanga problem -hopeless. Flying - to Leopoldville, ^{and} advising Hammarskjold to ask the Security Council - to deal with it. Advice, ~~wt~~ which the Secretary General has accepted.

KHRUSHCHEV

The note from Khrushchev to MacMillan - is called a carefully worded propaganda document; repeating all the phoney charges - about aggression by the West. But the boss of the Kremlin - adopts a moderate tone, and refers to a summit meeting which apparently Khrushchev still wants - after the American election. Threatening again - to sign a separate agreement with the East German Reds, and pretending to assume - that a summit meeting will be held, when he wants it. Not mentioning the possibility - that the next President of the United States may refuse to meet him at the summit.

British official sources admit being disappointed by the Khrushchev note. London, using terms like - "insulting, nonsensical, offensive propaganda."

OBJECTS

~~The Democratic~~ ^{Senate} leader ^{Lyndon Johnson} ~~in the Senate, who~~

~~is also the~~ Democratic candidate for Vice President, orders an investigation of unidentified flying objects. Lyndon Johnson, referring to things that have ~~been~~ been spotted in the sky, without being accounted for. ~~Johnson,~~ Ticking off - a lot of cases in the files, He says they^Rre not - just flying saucer yarns. Some substantial enough - to be of interest on Capitol Hill. ~~Hence, Johnson's~~ ^{His} words - "when anything flies over America - we want to know what it is."

WAVE

A physicist attached to the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oak, Maryland -- has invented a device for multiplying atomic waves. William Filler -using a cone. Touching off a blast - at the apex. The shock waves, held inside the cone - increasing in intensity very rapidly. The narrower the cone - the greater the multiplication of force. Here's an example:-- Filler, using a charge of less than - one one hundredth of a ~~xxx~~ pound. Which his cone multiplied - into a force of ~~xxx~~ forty-five pounds. The shock waves - amplified three thousand times.

CUBA

Those two Americans expelled from Cuba - have long anti-Nazi records. William Friedemann of Stillwater, Oklahoma, and Edwin Sweet of Abilene, Texas - serving ^{ed} in counter-intelligence during the war, ^{and} ^{ed} Helping ~~to~~ break Nazi spy rings in Cuba and America.

Now - accused by Raul Castro of being Nazis.

The evidence? Trophies of World War Two - stolen from Friedemann by the Cuban police. ^R Raul Castro - making himself ridiculous - according to our State Department.

ADD CUBA

While at the same time his brother was being called "an idiot" in Asuncion, Paraquay where the Minister of the Interior, suggesting that Fidel Castro may lose power - because the Reds don't need him any more. Edgar Insfran of Paraquay, saying - " apparently Fidel Castro has ceased to be a useful idiot."

NEEDLE

The needle in the haystack never caused as much trouble - as the needle belonging to Irmengard Intereitmeir. Irmengard Intereitmeir -- eighteen, a stenographer from West Germany, ^{now} living at the Lincoln Park Girls Club - in Chicago.

Today, ~~saw~~ sewing in her room, suddenly noticing - she was holding only half a needle. At the same time - ~~is~~ feeling a pain in her neck. Irmengard Intereitmeir, deducing - her needle had snapped. The pointed end - striking her in the neck. Entering her throat - heading for somewhere in her interior.

Irmengard - starting to scream. Her roommate, ~~saw~~ calling for the police - the fire ~~is~~ department - the hospital. And they all came on the run. An ambulance, screaming upto the Lincoln Park Girls Club -- with an oxygen mask. Everybody ready for an emergency operation - while the stenographer from West Germany was having hysterics.

Then her roommate spotted something - in the hem of Irmengard's dress. Something long - and shiny. You guessed it - the missing ~~ax~~ half of the needle. Instead of hitting her in the neck, it had simply dropped onto the hem of her dress.

The policemen, firemen, and ambulance ~~xx~~ attendants - trying to calm their patient. Who gradually - stopped screaming. Peace and quiet returning to the Lincoln Park Girls Club in Chicago, after the hullabaloo over Irmengard Intereitmeir's needle.

MONKEYS

Are you interested in knowing how the monkeys got out of the monkey house at Vilas Park, in Madison, Wisconsin - the answer is simple. They just unlocked the door. The door - fastened with a snap lock. Supposed to be too tough a problem - for any monkey. But they figured it out. Snapping the lock, pushing the door open - making their leap to freedom.

Tonight, thirty-six monkeys are clinging to the trees of - Vilas Park. Doing acrobatics - sixty feet above the ground. Some, parking in the branches - for a snooze. Monkeys having a high old time in Madison, Wisconsin, Dick. born, but able to stagger home.

BEAR

Another Wisconsin story of - the farmhand and the bear. Paul Degnitz, walking along a road - near Greenwood, Wisconsin, spotted what he thought was - a big black dog. Paying no attention to it. As he walked by - it suddenly reared up on its hind legs and Degnitz, found himself looking into the unsmiling face - of a rather large black bear.

The bear, seizing the farmhand, ripping off his shirt clawing him, and then - the traditional bear hug. Embracing him - squeezing him until he blacked out.

When he came to an hour later, he ached a lot, was scratched and torn, but able to stagger home.
