

L.T.-W. Fri. June 4 - 54.

Those monitored phone calls ~~had~~ became the storm center - at the hearing today. They've been a focus of debate all through the turbulent sessions, and now - ~~the~~ tempest. Senator McCarthy - demanding that Senator Symington disqualify himself, and step out of the proceedings. Because of telephone calls the Missouri Senator had with Army Secretary Stevens.

The uproar was preceded by an unusual note of peace and harmony. An agreement - between Senator McCarthy and Army Counsel Welch. On the subject - of the presidential directive, which prohibits the disclosure of monitored calls made between officials of the administration. McCarthy and Welch deciding - that was that. And they'd go ahead with telephone conversations in which Senators on the committee participated. McCarthy agreeing - that his own monitored calls should be put in evidence.

So the phone calls of committee members were produced - with dramatic emphasis on those of Senator Symington. Who was shown to have encouraged Stevens to defy McCarthy. Symington telling the Secretary to "forget the Marquis of Queensbury rules" in dealing with the Wisconsin

Senator. And adding that McCarthy would "do anything" to keep from "losing face."

All of which was the more striking because of a bit of comedy. Chairman Jenkins stating that Senator Symington had used a couple of adjectives, which would not be proper to read out in public. So, amid laughter, the "adjectives" were deleted.

as "Stu". And Symington retorted coldly, "let's keep this on a formal basis."

an eloquent sign of authority - as growing out of the military...

But the missing expletives only added to the vigor of what Symington had said to Stevens - in telling him to oppose McCarthy.

Hearing what the Missouri Senator had said, McCarthy made his demand of - disqualification. Arguing - that Symington was now shown to be on the side of Stevens - against McCarthy. Therefore, he was not a neutral in the quarrel - and should quit the hearing.

The argument grew so hot that the customary amenities vanished. Senator Stuart Symington is called "Stu" by friends. At one point, McCarthy ~~and~~ addressed him as "Stu". And Symington retorted coldly, "let's keep this on a formal basis."

An eloquent sign of acrimony - ~~is~~ growing out of the monitored phone calls.

AMENDMENT

The Senate has okayed a constitutional amendment, which the news dispatch calls - an "atom age amendment." Providing - that governors of the states may fill vacancies in the House of Representatives, if more than one third of its members are killed. That many vacancies - because of what the amendment calls "acts of violence during any national emergency or national disaster." Which would mean, for the most part - atom attack.

SUB ATOMIC ENERGY

News from China tells of a savage battle
A quarrel in the Atomic Energy Commission came in an ecclesiastical seminary. The Communists, attacking into the open today, when Chairman Lewis Strauss asked Congress strong points in the Red River Delta, captured a town to the to grant him a greater degree of authority. He said the south of Hanoi. One building - a Catholic school for training present setup was unworkable.

Two other members of the commission spoke in opposition to the chairman, declaring that he had not consulted them on atomic policies. All this - developing at a session of a congressional committee.

INDO CHINA - WAR

News from Indo China tells of a savage battle in an ecclesiastical seminary. The Communists, attacking strong points in the Red River Delta, captured ^{ing} a town to the south of Hanoi. One building - a Catholic school for training clergymen.

A thousand christian militiamen and student priests defended the red brick building, room by room, floor by floor. Using weapons of every sort - in a bitter end battle.

DULLES INDO CHINA

4
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles painted a dark picture of affairs in Indo China, and in southeast Asia. The Secretary - appearing, today, before the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

He said the Reds of Indo China are being supported by an ever increasing volume of armament and munitions from Red China. And - described the situation as "fraught with danger, not only in Indo China, but in the whole Pacific area." He added, however, that the prospects are not - hopeless.

INDO CHINA - PARIS

In Paris, today, the sovereign state of Viet Nam was proclaimed. Premier Laniel - acting for France. For the Indo Chinese country - Premier Prince Buu Loc.

The purpose is to strengthen the morale of Indo China, in the face of Communist attack. Viet Nam remaining in the French Union, is granted, what the treaty calls, "total independence and complete sovereignty."

TREATY

A treaty was concluded at Athens today. Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia - in a military alliance. Which strengthens the free world - on the southern front.

5
The moving spirit - Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. A Communist - but anti-Soviet, recently, Tito was in Turkey, on a visit of State, and at - Ankara concluded a Jugo-Slav alliance with the Turkish Republic. Now, he's in Athens - where he expanded the treaty to include Greece. Tito - the outstanding personality, at the signing of the treaty today.

EGYPT

Another archaeological discovery - announced in Egypt. A royal tomb in a pyramid - the "step pyramid" at Sakkara. Egyptian Archaeologist Zakaria Ghoneim says they may find a treasure of royal funeral furnishings. Glowing splendor of gold, perhaps - to match the sepulchre of Tutankhamen.

The Sakkara Pyramid is twenty miles from the Great Pyramid - where, recently, the funeral boat of the Pharaoh Cheops was found. It's earlier, more ~~primitive~~ ^{what} primitive, they call -- a "step pyramid." The sides consisting of terraces, like steps. Nobody knows what Pharaoh was entombed in the "Step Pyramid." But the new discovery may disclose his name.

The all-important announcement is - that the tomb is intact. Nearly all the ~~sepulchres~~ sepulchres of the Pharaohs were plundered by grave robbers - those thousands of years ago. But, apparently, the grave robbers of ancient Egypt never found the tomb within the "Step Pyramid". Hence the belief -- that the treasures may still be there.

Perhaps another story of Tutankhamen. More marvelous, in fact. Because the Pharaoh of the "Step Pyramid" was - some two thousand years earlier.

The secret, a chemical - red, as soluble.

Notably a yellow powder - used as a pigment in paint.

It's also a kind of crystal - and when the surface of the crystal, it's turned into various electrical energy.

In the miniature that runs the clock, the surface of the crystal is less than a square inch. They say that a thin sheet of it, fifteen feet long and four feet wide - and would supply enough electricity for a standard home. The surface of crystal, installed on the roof, would generate enough energy to supply the electric lights, the kitchen stove, the refrigerator, and other electrical appliances in the home.

SUNLIGHT

Now, another step forward in realizing man's ancient dream - of harnessing the energies of the sun. A solar generator, transforming sunlight into electricity - developed by a research department of the U.S. Air Force. At Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, they constructed a miniature model - which supplies enough current for running an electrical clock.

The secret, a chemical - cadmium sulfide. Normally a yellow powder - used as a pigment in paint. It's also a kind of crystal - and, when the sunlight falls on the crystal, it's turned into ~~maxxxxx~~ electrical energy.

In the miniature that runs the clock, the surface of the crystal is less than a square inch. They say that a thin sheet of it, fifteen feet long and four feet wide - ~~max~~ would supply enough electricity for a standard home. The surface of crystal, installed on the roof, would generate enough ~~max~~ current for electric lights, the kitchen stove, the refrigerator, and other electrical appliances in the home.

~~a home.~~

Previously, inventors had thought of harnessing the heat of the sun. But, in this case, it's the sunlight - transformed into electricity.

"We should," he declared, "treat our soils as we treat our women. One soil may be warm and giving, the other cold and unresponsive," said he. "Just sounds like women."

"Very often," the Commissioner continued, "these patches of soil are found within a few yards of each other, and the farmer has a problem on his hands "like having a wife and a mother-in-law in the same house."

"A neglected woman," he concluded, "will fly off the handle - and neglected soil will fly off the land."

Well, that's quite a figure of speech. But,

it's a fact of - another earth.

— how
Now here's a question, should we treat women?

~~like dirt? Or dirt-like women? The latter is the proper way - ~~sure~~ according to the U S Commissioner of Agriculture.~~

U.S. Agriculture
At Corpus Christi, Texas, Commissioner John C

White addressed the American Cotton Congress, and gave warning against the way we waste and spoil our agricultural resources.

Saying - ~~that~~ we've already lost one-third of the top soil of our farms. A result - of bad, negligent farming.

"We should," he declared, "treat our soils as we treat our women. One soil may be warm and yielding, the other - cool and uncooperative," said he. Sure sounds like women.

8 { "Very often," the Commissioner continued, "these two kinds of soil are found within a few yards of ~~one~~ one another. And the farmer has a problem on his hands "like having a wife and a mother-in-law in the same house.")

"A neglected woman," he concluded, "will fly off the handle - and neglected soil will fly off the land,"

Well, that's quite a figure of speech. But, we do talk of - mother earth.

PUERTO RICANS

In a Washington courtroom today, a member of Congress arose - and, with a dramatic gesture, pointed out ~~from~~ four individuals. One - a woman. He was Congressman Louis Graham of Pennsylvania, who was wounded in the shooting up of Congress, last March. They - the four Puerto Rican terrorists, who fired the fusillade.

They are now on trial. Congressman Graham - a principal witness, ~~he~~ told how he was standing on the floor of the House, when he saw the terrorists, in the visitors gallery, start shooting. Saying that, the Congressman rose, and pointed at the four defendants - identifying them.

BOXING

In the world of boxing - an attempt to fix a fight. A one-time headliner of the ring - offering a fifteen thousand dollar bribe. That's the allegation.

In New York, today, Clarence Henry was ~~are~~ arrested - a one-time heavyweight star, considered in line for championship. He was locked up on charges ~~of~~ by Tiger^{re} Jones, high ranking prize fighter, scheduled to meet Joey Giardello in Madison Square Garden on Friday. Jones declares that Henry came to him with an offer - of fifteen thousand dollars if he would lose to Giardello in the forthcoming bout.

DIPLOMAT

At Lapeer, Michigan, the sheriff is grumbling.

He locked up a diplomat from Red Hungary, ~~and put him in the town hoosegow.~~ Then, ordered to turn him loose.

This international incident began, when a speeding automobile forced a police car off the highway - which certainly was a ~~big~~ traffic violation. In the case - three men. All three - locked up for being drunk and disorderly. One claiming - diplomatic immunity. Announcing that he was - Istvan Torma, Second Secretary of the Hungarian legation in Washington. He was belligerent - full of wrath at being tossed into the cooler.

(The other two said they had met their companion in a Detroit tavern, and ~~joined~~ joined him for an auto ride - not knowing who he was.) And all three were ~~at~~ to appear before a magistrate, when an order came - turn the Diplomat loose. This emanated from the State Department in Washington, from the Governor of Michigan, and from the Michigan Attorney general. The sheriff had to comply.

The two Detroit men, however, had to pay fines of twenty-five dollars each. Which irks the sheriff, who grumbles - they let the foreign communist get away, and punished the two others, because they are citizens.

Elaine was sitting beside her father, who was operating the bulldozer when she fell, and landed in front of one of the caterpillar treads. The tread passed over the five year old girl - with all the weight of the ten ton bulldozer.

The doctors explain - she was saved by the rain. There had been a drenching downpour, the ground soft. So the child was pressed into the mud, as the bulldozer rolled over her. A miracle - of mud.

GIRL

A dispatch from Knoxville, Tennessee, says that Elaine Popejoy, five years old, is in "fair condition." The child will get well, apparently. The remarkable thing being - that she is alive at all, after being run over by a ten ton bulldozer.

Elaine was sitting beside her father, who was operating the bulldozer - when she fell, and landed in front of one of the caterpillar treads. The tread passed over the five year old girl - with all the weight of the ten ton bulldozer.

The doctors explain - she was saved by the rain. There had been a drenching downpour, the ground soft. So the child was pressed into the mud, as the bulldozer rolled over her. A miracle - of mud.

STUDENTS

In our own country, every so often, we have reason to complain about the way college students will stage an uproar now and then. Some of us may say - it must be different in England. Sedate old England. But get this, from Cambridge:—

12
Last night, at that famous university town, there was a performance of a theatrical production called - Parisian Follies. The Cambridge students didn't like the show. In the second act, when the master of ceremonies walked on stage, they bombarded him - with orange peels and tennis balls. Must have been something to see - the tennis balls bouncing off the head of the M.C.

2
Then, when the girls came on, dancing - a student, in the front row had a siphon of soda. He squirted the girls on the legs, as they danced. They - let our shrieks/

Up in the gallery, students had buckets of water, and showered a deluge on the audience below. A Cambridge proctor, and official charged with maintaining order among students, interfered. One of the students grappled with him.

Both - rolling down a flight of stairs. While the other students let out salvos of ~~the~~ deafening cheers.

Harry - Would you call it - sedate old England? Or - rowdy old England?

2/2