PARIS

Fri. aug. 8-69.

But isn't Paris always exciting? Today Excitement in Paris. French President Pompidou stepped up normal Parisien excitement hyordering ordering today, an immediate twelve per cent devaluation of the French franc. Cutting its exchange rate from the previous twenty cents-American - down to roughly seventeen cents. An attempt - said he - to build a new "base for financial recovery."

This Pompidou's first major policy decision - coming in his seventh week in office. In effect, a bowing to pressures that former President DeGaulle had stoutly resisted. - for seven months before that However, the new President, of said had been milling devaluation z "inevitable." Asserting that any other course under present circumstances - "would have compromised" Francea eur investments and our future."

WHITE HOUSE

For President Nixon , a long, busy day today - and it's not over yet.

First crack out of the box - the President conferring with key Congressional leaders for two hours. Mammering out last minute changes - in the broad domestic program he will unveil for the first time later tonight. A program including - we are told - first major overhaul of the nation's welfare system.

Later, the President taking time out - for a brief anniversary celebration. The first anniversary - of his acceptance of the Republican nomination for President. About two hundred campaign workers - joining in the observance.

Next up - another meeting with West Germany's Chancellor Kiesinger. The two men later announcing - among other things - plans for a new "hot line" between Washington and Bonn.

In the words of the official announcement - "to assure that they will be able to communicate rapidly - in case of emergency."

SAIGON

On the war front - Vietnam - a sudden "second think" Mow today on the part of U.S. strategists. Soming to the tentative conclusion - that the current lull in the fighting may have just about run its course; that, indeed, the Viet Cong may be planning a number of attacks next month - in and around the Saigon area. Some going so far as to why a major Wet Cong predict the possibility of a major offensive, A in Binh Dinh Province on the Central Coast.

All this - based on captured documents, prisoner interrogations and various Allies intelligence reports. But for now, at least - the quiet continues. Allied commanders still reporting today - only "infrequent contacts" with enemy forces.

EDGARTOWN

The Kennedy-Kopechne Case - Part Two - coming up September Third at Edgartown, Mass. District Judge James Boyle ordering today - the start of an inquest on that date. Judge Boyle - as you know - the jurist who presided at Senator Kennedy's brief trial two weeks ago; and he will also preside again - this time.around.

Incidentally, District Attorny Edmund Dinis - who originally demanded the inquest - compared up with something of a surprise today, Saying he intends to call about fifteen witnesses - in an effort to get the full story of Whis time Miss Kopechne's death. He added, however: "I have no intention of calling Senator Kennedy." at this time."

BETHESDA

One of the problems in probing the human mind - the fact that research psychiatrists have had so little to experiment with; having found not a single test animal whose psyche even remotely resembles that of a human.

Now - a breakthrough at last. In fact, a whole string of successes - reported today from the National Institute of Mental Health - Bethesda, Maryland; where doctors have succeeded in producing irrational, persistent depression - in any number of test animals. Apparently the same kind of depression - that causes so much misery among humans. the first step finding a cure. And this Perhaps the most touching case reported that of a single solitary lovebird; one that the doctors placed in a cage with two more lovebirds - who had already formed a "lasting bond" of affection. Day by day - we bear - the lone lovebind fading away; until Pinally - it died; a victim of acute depression - otherwise known as a braken heart.

In the midst of another long, hot, sticky summer the question arises again: Why do men have to wear ties?

TIES

As far as is known - seventeenth century Croatian soldiers , the first to march into battle wearing knotted scarves around their necks.' The fad quickly spreading to France - where the new neckwear was christened the "cravat" - French for Croat. When the French Revolution came along - the cravat becoming a badge of sorts; taking on extravagant colors and patterns - designating various political groups, fraternal orders and so on. The trend spreading next to England - where the "old school tie" became a way of life. A way of life - that Britain soon carried around the globe. To the point where Americans alone - spent nearly Half-a-Billion Bucks on ties just last year.

By the way - it was once the style to strive for unique even recently such as the Windsor knot, inspired byth Duke, knots and tying methods, And the strangest on record - says the Mational Georgraphic - the so-called "Gordian" knot of the early Nineteenth Century. It took two hours to tie - and when the wearer wanted to take it off - he had to cut it off. What's your favorile bot - Warren >

WASHINGTON

What with more and more women entering politics these days - it had to happen sooner or later; and now - hereit is. The Democratic National Committee distributing to its members today - a bulletin called "Tips for a Candidate's Husband." A list of "do's" and "don'ts" - for the man who wants to help his wife get ahead in politics.

To begin with - the bulletin asserts that voters don't care - whether a male candidate has a happy home life, an orderly household, or well-kept children. "But" with a woman" - we are told - "It's different, many people - even in this enlightened age - distrust the motives of a woman who runs' for office; the rumors spread and people ask - how can she hold down moffice and keep the home fires burning."

And that's where the husband comes in. "It's your job" You the husband, - says the bulletin is "to let the voters know that she can do it - and that you want her to do it - that you're with her all the way;" Even if it means TV dinners - baby-sitting WASHINGTON - 2
