CONFERENCE

Preside nt E isenhower says - The proposed big four conference will, probably, help to resolve some of the disputes between E ast and West. At his news conference, today, he warned the American people

- not to expect miracles. But he has a feeling that some good may result from talks between the western heads of state and So viet premier Bulganin.

He explained that, at an east-west conference, his aim will be primarily to find out - if the Soviets, really, want to ease the cold war,. The talks
To
-7 be global in nature. Including the crisis in the far east.

President Eisenhower told reporters that the meeting should last about three days - and not drag on. The place - a neutral country. The speculation is - that an Eisenhower-Eden-Edgar-Faure-Bulganin may be held in July, perhaps in Switzerlands.

BULGANIN

Soviet Premier Bulganin welcomes - the invitation by extended the western powers. Saying - the Soviet

"regards positively" the western proposal for a top level four-power conference. Regards it positively

Bulganin stated this in an address at the opening of a conference in Warsaw, a conference of the Soviets and satellites. He address the Kremlin was giving careful study to the western invitation.

The Vienna conference - in a stalemate.

a settlement of debts that Austria owes Russia.

The deadlock may cause an abandonment of the plan to sign an Austrian treaty on Sunday. The negotiators will try again tomorrow.

However, the Moscow radio announces, tonight, that foreign minister Molotov will arrive in Vienna on Saturday. Having - invited U S Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Macmillan, and French Foreign Minister Pinay to a dinner Saturday night. As a preliminary - to the ceremony on Sunday. If it's true that the treaty signing may be called off - Moscow does't seem to know about it.

SOVIET LOAN

Moscow announces - antother computsory loan. This one, twice as large as last year. Thirty-two billion rubles. Amounting, officially, to eight billion dollars. The increase - explained, in part, by the needs of heavy industry. The Khruschev policy - of concentrating on the kind of production required for armament.

The loan to be levied through compulsory savings.

The workers - contributing from their wages. Out of which they have to pay taxes.

The loan pays no interest - except by way of a sort of lottery. Drawings - to be held. The winners to get save interest on the money they have paid in.

combination of loan and lottery.

DISARMAMENT

banulile

The Russian disarmament plan is getting a good welcome from western representatives - in London.

At the disarmament conference in the British capitol, British, French and American delegates express the feeling that the new Soviet program is more in line with western ideas than anything offered by Moscow hitherto. However, there may be gimmicks.

Yesterday at U S Air Force Headquarters, Osan,

Korea, Lieutenant General ESSEEXE Rober M Ramey

over the screen, as distant planes whirled in the sky.

By radar, General Ramey was watching - that air battle, when eight American sabre jets were jumped by twelve to sixteen Russian built Migs. Two communist aircraft - shot down. One - probably destroyed.

off North Korea. Radar, picking up the conflict in the sky, As - the fifth air force commander watched.

That's the dramatic angle in today's dispatch from the far east - which repeats the contention that none damaged. A reply - to the communist radio. A maning Peiping broadcast insisting - that one American jet was shot down. Two others - damaged.

It is admitted - that some of our planes "may have been hit." But none damaged, appreciably; and not one lost.

At the same time, the air force repeats - that the jets, on routine patrol, were over international waters, and that the migs fired first.

INDO-C HINA

More war news from southern Viet Nam. Not in Sagon this time. The rebel forces, having been driven out of the city, are now putting up a fight along the lower Mekong River. Two clashes reported. Insurgents of the religious-political sects, cutting the main highway Southeast of the capital. Government forces - counter attacking. Driving the rebels - into the swamps.

On the political side, Premier Diem today - announced the formation of a new national government. Which will prepare for free elections - in Southern Viet Nam.

In the Japanese maritime disaster, the count of lives lost is over two hundred. That many - out of some nine hundred persons aboard.

Two ferry boats, plying between Japanese Islands, ran into each other - in a heavy fog. A huge hole was torn in the side of one, and the crowded boat sank within two minutes. Among the survivors - two American missionaries, a husband and wife.

Japan has had some bad luck with ferry lines that connect the various islands. Last autumn fifteen hundred lives were lost - when a ferry boat sank in a typhoon.

President Eisenhower today said - he thought the distribution of the Salk anti-polio vaccine may have named began a little too soon. Probably, the scientists used all the regular tests for safety, but had not employed "some of the more exhaustive ones." Which they are now considering. The President noted - there had been powerful public pressure for a quick release of the vaccine. So the Doctors may have taken - a "short cut."

He emphasized that he was merely "speculating", making a guess. But added - that he is absolutely convinced of the effectiveness of the Salk vaccine, and believes it will, in time, wipe out the scourge of Polio.

EISENHOWER

Today, President Eisenhower said, he wonders where Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine - got that impression. The Preside_nt couldn't imagine - how Mrs Smith came by the opinion she expressed.

The Senator from Maine told a national conference of republican women, in Washington, that - she believes President Eisenhower "prefers to retire". That - she she not sure "the President will seek reelection." Though - she devoutedly hopes he will.

Mrs Smith went on to say the republicans should hold a national poll. To determine - their next most popular candidate. Just to be sure - if they should need somebody else.

This was brought up at the White House news conference today. The President saying - he was gratified by the Senator's hope that he would be a candidate again. But he wondered - where she got the impression that he "prefers to retire."

EISENHOWER (2)

All the accordance with that Eisenhower intention of not saying what he intends to do, until the spring of next year.

NEW YORK

There was a grim epilogue - to the collapse of construction work at the huge New York Collisseum.

Workmen, today, were chiseling through masses of hard concrete, when they came upon - a tragic tomb.

on Monday, as concrete was being poured - two iximx plunged floors into the basement, with tons of steel and wet iximx concrete. Many injured, one worker, missing - Joseph Lombardi. They concrete hardened, as they concrete will do. Today they chiseled away the they caused stony mass a glint of blue, a blue denim shirt.

The doctors believe - the victim was killed instantly. Then entombed - in concrete.

BASEBALL

A divorce in Miami, having settled the big hitter's domestic problems - Williams is going back to baseball, For his fourteenth season - in the major leagues.

So announced by Boston General Manager Joe Cronan - after talking with Ted Williams on the telephone.

IVY LEAGUE NETWORK

This broadcast tonight is originating at New Haven, Connecticut. I am attending an annual dinner that has to do with college radio - the Ivy League eastern Network. Some seven universities of the Ivy League are included. Each has its own station, operated by The headquarters for the entire network is students. here at Yale. And it doesn't move around. It remains here. So a Yale man has to carry a heavy load and serve as General Manager for the entire network. This year his name is Gregg Dawson. Perhaps the future Paley or Sarnd of American Radio.

I've jæust been talking with him and he has told me some things about this Ivy League radio network, that I did not know, although this is not the first time I have come in contact with it. He says the stations at the various colleges are not actually linked together with their own lines. So they have no way of hearing tape each others programs - unless they exchange Arecordings.

He tells me also that none of those who give their time to this radio work at Yale or any of the Ivy league colleges and universities gets any college credit for it. But he says they do the work with great enthusiasm because it is their only chance to get experience in a field in which they are greatly interested. In fact, he added that he and many of his colleagues spend so much time with the Ivy League network that they often neglect their studies.

LECTION AND THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

He also tells me that there are about eighty-five young men here at Yale who work on this radio project.

But what surprised me most wax of all was when he told me that four out of five listerners in the Ivy League colleges from to their own Ivy League station.

He aays that primarily because they have found out what the students want and give it to them. And what is that? A lot of music. Also, a good deal of campus news.

This year they sent several men abroad to make recordings with university * students over there.

Obviously, radio is an important factor in nearly all of our major cobleges and universities today, even if these young men get no college credit for what they do.

Here's a new version - of an old story of the circus. The animal trainer - attacked and injured.

Sometimes - killed. Lions and Tigers as we know can be - ferocious. This latest episode occurred at Covington, Ky. The victim - animal trainer Frank Parker of the King Bros. and the Cole Bros. Combined Circus.

What animal attacked him? A raging lion or a man-eating tiger? Not at all. It was a camel. Just what "sneaked up" behind him, and bit him. Grabbing his shoulder - and inflicting serious injury.

Well, the canel is known to be a cantankerous critter. I, myself am not long back from a trip in remote parts of Arabia. Where I again had occasion to notice - how ill-tempered the old "ship of the desert" can be.

But the King brothers and Cole Brothers Combined Circus has- just about the meanest camel of all.

This one has bitten three other circus men. And - killed three cows.

COCKTAIL

Here's news - to frighten you. News from Vienna, where the conference for Austrian independence is on. That five-power gathering -- the western Big

Three, Soviet Russia and Austria.

Vienna, the city of waltzes, commemorating this diplomatic event in a typical Viennase way. By inventing - a "five-power cocktail." It's powerful.

As served at the Bristol Hotel bar, on the far famed Ringstrasse, it consists of - American rum, British bitters, French vermouth, Russian vodka, and Austrian white wine. Ouch.

Diplomacy produces many a headache, and now the five-power cocktail - to produce more. Beware, the 5- power cockstail, Hugh,
