EISENHOWER-CARNEY Wed. Man. 30_'55. LT-Deleo.

President Eisenhower, today, criticized Admiral Carney, Chief of Naval Operations. He censured the Admiral - for having said the Chinese Reds would make an attack on off-shore islands about the middle of April. With indications - that this country might soon be in a war along the China Coast.

On Thursday of last week, Admiral Carney held a luncheon for Washington reporters - and gave them an offthe cuff estimate of the situation along the China Coast.

Predicting - that the Chinese Reds would begin an invasion attempt against the island of Matsu - about April Fifteenth.

With an attack on Quemoy - a month or so later. Carney's luncheon - was the reason for the alarming war talk last week.

On Monday, Presidential Secretary Jim Hagerty called a meeting with reporters, and gave them the view of the Eisenhower administration. Opposing - Admiral Carney's estimate. The purpose - to dispel the war talk.

Today the President said that anyone predicting a far Eastern war about the Middle of April - has more information than he, the President, has. He can't make any forecast about a possible Red ata attack on Matsu and Quemoy. Because - he doesn't know.

The President said is no official has the right to embarrass the administration. And added - that people "talking too much" about a Far Eastern war, are not serving the cause

The President asked - would Admiral Carney be reprimanded? He replied - "Not by me."

Shortly after today's White House conference, the Defense Department issued new rules about the release of information to the public. Regulations - made stricter.

President Eisenhower, today, rejected a suggestion from British Prime Minister Churchill. In Parliament, Sir Winston said - it might be better to hold a top level conference with Soviet Russia, right away. Without waiting - for negotiations at a lower level.

But President Eisemhower, at his news conference, today, thought - no. In his opinion, a four-power meeting of the heads of state, without any preparation - might be a complete futility. Might produce what the President called - a "social sort of get-together". Which - would only disappoint people. Better - lay plans and explore the possibilities, in advance. Hoping - for something more than talk.

The President remarked that the head of the Soviet State is Premier Bulganin. Officially - at any rate. But he added it would take a "bold man" to be sure Bulganin is the "true principal influence" in the Soviet government.

A dispatch from Moscow states the whereabouts of Ex-Premier Malenkov. Yesterday, the story was that the deposed leader had dropped out of sight. Leading to suppositions - that Malenkov might have been purged.

Today's version is attributed to "informed sources" in Moscow. Which say - that Malenkov is on an inspection tour in the Ural Mountains. After being thrown out as Premier, he was given the post of "Minister of electric power stations". Now - travelling on that job. So say the "informed sources."

Kraschev, too, is described - as being off on a tour. The Communist party Secretary, called the power behind the scenes - is on an gricultural mission. Kruschev - today addressing a meeting of farm experts at a city in South Russia.

Both Malenkov and Khruschev - absent from Moscow.

The "Sistine Madonna" will be taken back to Dresden. Soviet Russia - returning that world famous masterpiece by Rafael.

For centuries, the "Sistine Madonna" was the pride of the Dresden Museum. Then, in the Second World War, the Russians took away a whole series of masterpieces by the most famous of painters. The "Sistine Madonna" one of them.

The treasures are to be exhibited in a Moscow

Museum, this coming a mmer. Then, in August, they'll be handed to the satellite government of East Germany. Dresden -- being in the Soviet Zone.

Aneurin Bevan - will not be expelled from the British Labor Party. So decided - by the Laborite National Committee today. The vote - sixteen to seven.

Bevan, the stormy petrel, apologized humbly.

Protesting - it was never his intention to challenge the leadership of Clement Attlee. And adding "I apologize to Mr. Attlee for any pain I may have caused him."

Labor Party leader Attlee, himself, urged - that Bevan to minimize the Labor Party feud.

Meanwhile, Bevan will remain excluded from the there party group in Parliament, having been expelled - several weeks ago.

Two Moslem countries, today, charged Israel - with raids across their borders. Jordan says - a force of Israelis bombarded the village of Jalbun, with mortar and machine gun fire. And - made off with one hundred and fifty head of mattle.

Egypt says - an Israeli patrol crossed the border into the Gaza atrip, firing - on Moslem soldiers. Killing one - wounding two others.

ADD PALESTINE

Israel counters with a charge of a Moslem attack against Israeli territory.

There was a truce - in Saigon, today. Last night, we heard how rebels were besieging Premier Diem in his official palace. Twenty six lives lost - in bitter clashes.

Then a truce was declared, bringing - a period of uneasy quiet.

During that interval, the leaders of religious political sects, which are in revolt - sent a cable to the Emperor Bao Dai. Demanding - that he dismiss Premier

Diem.

Bao Dai, the playboy Emperior, is in France - far from the troubles in his Kingdom.

A strange state of terror - on the island of Celebes. That remote Malay Land - East of Borneo. An Army of bandits - raiding and looting. Burning, destroying.

The latest outrage - the destruction of an entire city on Celebes. One hundred bandits - incading the town, staging a reign of terror. They carried off caravans of loot, and set the city on fire so thoroughly - it burned for three days, twenty thousand people - homeless. This occurred -- from March Seventeenth to Marth twenty-first. The news getting through - only now.

The word is that, as a result of the wholesale banditry on Celebes, there are more than a million refugees.

People fleeing - from areas controlled by the outlaws.

A wild riot in a soccer game at San Diego, Chile. Five persons killed, two hundred injured. The trouble- too much of a crowd at a game for the soccer championship for South America. Chile and Argentina competing.

Sixty thousand fans filled the place. Twenty thousand others - unable to get it. They tried to storm the gates. The casualties occurring in the wild crush. The riot continuing - until the fire Department scattered the mob with streams from fire hoses.

Congressional investigators, today, listened in amazement. The inquiry - into wire tapping. The witness - an expert wire tapper. Bernard Spindel - until recently consultant to the New York Anti-Crime Committee.

Spindel told of "electronic eavesdroppers" that can pick up conversations - twenty miles away. He described a small gadget, with which you can take down the conversation of people in a rowboat as much as three hundred yards away.

Also - of a "remote control" telephone tap. Which - will pick up conversations in a room, even when the telephone is hung up.

The committee listened in amazement, and Congressman Rodino of New Jersey said: "The only defense is to stop talking altogether."

Today we are told - fires broke out aboard the atomic submarine, when the Nautilus made its first dive.

At Groton, Connecticut, Eugene Wilkinson, commander of the epoch-making undersea craft - described the tense experience.

It was on January twentieth, when the Nautilus, for the first time - plunged below the surface of the sea.

Which was - the dramatic test. All went well - until the atomic submarine was navigating deep down under. Then the firesk fires broke out - one in the snorkel control-panel.

The other - in an engine room electrical panel.

"All ships," commander Wilkinson explains, "have problems - which show up during initial trials."

In the case of the Nautilus, the two fires were extinguished quickly. No harm done. Just a bit of excitement - as the atomic sub went on to a triumphant series of tests.

A young airman has confessed that he opened the Walves of twenty-four fuel trucks - at the Rakus Nelis, Nevada air base. It happened this morning - tank loads of jet fuel pouring all over the place.

At first some sort of sabotage plot was suspected the F B I on the job. But now James Vigoe, an airman third class of Brewster, Maine, has confessed.

Why did he do it? He aays he had what he calls
"an uncontrollable urge to destroy." So he went around opening the valves of jet fuel trucks. The gulk culprit - now being held for mental observation.

The White House victory in the question of taxation is now - complete. The House of Representatives, today, passed the bill to continue corporation and excise taxes for another year. No mention - of income tax reduction. Although, the House had previously tacked onto the bill - a proviso for cutting income taxes. The Eisenhower administration was opposed - and was backed by the Senate. So now, the House gives in.

The vote was three hundred eighty-six to eight.

The bill -going to the White House. Which was signed immediately by President Eisenhower.

Walter Reuther - re-elected as President of the Auto Workers Union. No opposition - three thousand union delegates - in Cleveland, voting ann unanimously. By - acclaim. Two new Vice Presidents were elected. Both - Reuther men.

The Auto Workers Convention has before it plans to demand a "guaranteed annual wage." Yesterday, the delegates okayed a twenty-five million dollar strike fund - to back up the demand.)

Today, the Secretary of Labor, James P. Mitchell, said - "we're neutral." The government will maintain a hands-off policy. Regarding the question of a "guaranteed annual wage" as one to be settled by collective bargaining.

The Nebraska prison riot ended, today - with ten men eating like wolves. Eight convicts - and two guards, whom they had held as hostages. The mutineers were

- starved out. They hadn't me had a meal since Sunday nor had the guards. They surrendered - on condition that they'd get hot square meals right away. So that's what they gct - and immediately afterward, most of them fell asleep.

They'll also get a couple of wweeks of solitary confinement,-

Thoroby passing off - what ladies consider &

A social ms mishap occurred at the White House, today. Something like a nightmare - for Mrs. Duriss Crane, a guest at a White House reception, Mrs. Eisenhower was rest receiving when, suddenly, it was noticed. Mrs. Crane had on exactly the same kind of std dress as the First Lady, a distinctive - green print taffeta.

"I was so me embarrassed, I could die," says
Mrs. Crane.

How did Mrs. Eisenhower take it? Well, the first Lady just beamed and said: "Oh, you got the same dress on. I just love it. Don't you?"

Thereby passing off - what ladies consider -- a social catastrophe.

At Memphis, Tennessee, today, Mrs. Garnett Lee
Pearson established something of a record. She sued Mr.
Pearson for divorce. But for the eleventh time! They've been married for - five years. Which makes an average of suing her man for divorce at the rate of twice a year.

Previously Mrs. Pearson withdrew the suit, every time, except once. That one time, she was granted a divorce - and then remarried Mr. Pearson the same day.

So now she's suing for the eleventh time. The little woman has a right to change her mind. But - so often?

There was a loud courtroom argument in San Francisco. Governor Attorney, John Lockley, quoted - poetry.

Two lines: "Oh what a tangled web we weave,
When first we practice to deceive."

For the benefit of the uneducated, he added:
"That's from Shakespeare."

Defense Attorney Joseph Alioto shouted: "It's not. That line is from Alexander Pope."

So the argument was on. One saying - Shakespeare.

The other retorting - Pope.

Finally they looked it up, and who won? The two lines turned out to be from - Sir Walter Scott.

Well in my time on the air, I've made a few bulls like that 80 when who am I to laugh?

Here's a report on a radio station. Listening audience - okay. Sponsored advertising - okay. The station - making a profit. At Gallup, New Mexico: - programs Indians.

Four years ago, radio experts thought the notion ridiculous. The Navajos on their reservation, are faithful to their old tribal ways. Radio listening- not one of them.

But station owner Merle Tucker went ahead - and recently, won an Alfred I. Dupont award for unique effort in the field of radio.

The chief difficulty - translating English into the Navajo language. Suppose the news tells of a medical discovery, well, there are no Navajo words for Chemistry, or physiology. But the Indians do have a word for - medicine.
How could a tribe get along - without a medicine man? So,
the news broadcast says "medicine", and describes the aches and pains it cures.

The commercials provide problems. One sponsor, for example, advertises condensed milk -- which comes in a can -- but the Navajos know - that milk comes in a cow.

So they get the idea across with sound effects. The commercial opens with a recording - of the mooing of a cow. A long, loud - mooooo. Then the announcer gives a description of a tin can. Put the two together, and you have - condensed milk.

The cow goes - moo. The can goes -- clinkity clank.

The Navajo tries condensed milk, and grunts - heap good.

So, you see, Hugh — I'm sureyondo, In radio there's always something new.
