WHITE HOUSE

At the White House today there was a visit from the man they call Egypt's Henry Kissinger. Mohammed Hafez Ismail - the chief foreign policy advisor to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat; also, the highest Egyptian official to visit the U.S. - since the six day war of Nineteen Sixty Seven. Prior to the start of official talks he met briefly with President Nixon with reporters present.

Said the President -"in this very troubled explosive area of the world", meaning the Mid-East - "our major goal is to move off dead center." That will be hard to do - said he; adding that he recognized - "instant peace is a dream."

But the great desire of our administration - he went on - is to help reduce tensions on a permanent basis.

Ismail, for his part - bearing a large envelope containing a personal message from President Sadat. On his own saying: "I bring the high appreciation of the Egyptian government." To that adding only that he was honored to be received in the White House.

From Radio Tripoli comes today - Libya's first official response to the downing of that Libyan jet liner in the Sinai. A government spokesman saying: "Arabs are destined to extermination and annihilation - unless they respond to calls for vengeance." Adding ominously: "These appeals will not go unheeded."

Meanwhile, in Cairo, Egypt's President Sadat - was calling an emergency meeting of his so-called Supreme Committee for the Battle. Cairo's semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper - also addressing a message directly to Arab guerrillas. "Hit any target you want! wherever you want"! said Al-Ahram. Adding: "If the Israelis want to change the world into a jungle - let us show them that the Israeli world is not supreme."

JOBS FOLLOWS WHITE HOUSE

The President also met today - with Labor Secretary

Peter Brennan and Chairman James Oates of Jobs for Veterans

Incorporated. The President later saying that all returning

POW's will have civilian jobs waiting - if they decide to leave the service. Stressing that he was - "really gratified" - at this. But reminding employers - that two and-a-half million other men served in Vietnam. The President adding: "They also need jobs."

For the last of America's liberated prisoners so far -- a brief stop-over today inHonolulu enroute home.

Air Force Captain Joseph Crecca -- who was delayed earlier by an attack of malaria -- the sole passenger aboard a huge C-one forty-one. He told a welcoming crowd: "I have been tre ated like a king since being released - and this reception is just another part of that treatment."

On the London gold exchange for a time today something of a mini-monetary crisis; marked by a frantic wave of gold buying - sending quoted prices up to ninetyfive bucks an ounce. One dealer saying: "Something has to be done we can't go on like this."

He was right - it couldn't go on. The market for gold suddenly drying up by day's end, with the price dropping to eighty-five dollars an ounce.

Democratic Party - equal time today. The speaker making a ten minute reply -- to President Nixon's broadcast last week on the environment. Saying he wishes he "could agree" with the President -- that "we are well on the way to winningthe war against environmental degradation." Insisting, however, "The war is not close to being won."

full responsibility" Albert went on. "However, Congress cannot do the job alone," said he. "We need the help of you, the people and the President of the United States." Albert adding:

"We cannot afford another crippling setback - like the veto and withholding of funds from the water pollution bill."

The White House again - President Nixon was discussing his trip to the theater last night saying he was

"disturbed to was read in the newspaper this morning - that accompanying newsmen had commandeered eight seats in the sold-out house - thereby forcing eight theager-goers -- to miss the show.

"THEY BLAMED ME FOR IT," said to the President. Adding: "Next time the press will stand."

Newspapers coast to coast were carrying stories today about former Governor Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas. While all noted that he had been a college drop-out and was sometimes called "the black sheep" of the family, they also tell of his many accomplishments, his many philanthropies, how he started a new life in Arkansas where he carved a tremendous ranch out of the wilderness, even became Governor, reformed what had been a tragic penal system - and helped to improve the plight of minority groups. He did indeed, turn out to be - what his father had hoped all of his five sons would be, a citizen of special quality, a great American.

From the Director of the National Parks Service an announcement today of special interest to U.S. campers.
Ronald Walker telling of plans to initiate a new system for the selection of camp sites at six of the nation's most popular parks. These including Yosemite, Yellowstone, Grand Teton and Grand Canyon out West; also, Everglades National Park here in Florida, and Acadia Park in Maine.
We are all looking for our Acadia ain't we.

The new system - he continued - to permit a visitor to make clear across the country. reservations at ticket agencies and compared and

No more first come first served - said Walker.

By the way, one of the newest camping Afficianados or so it would seem - Jordan's tough young King Hussein.

While vacationing at nearby Palm Beach reportedly purchasing four plush air conditioned motor homes; a big thirty-one footer - for himself and three smaller ones for his staff. Just the thing he believes for camping in his Jordanian Arabian desert!

Oh Lawrence of Arabia! how times have changed!

At Tallahassee, Capital of Florida - a visit from the Deputy Transportation Commissioner of neighboring Georgia. Emory Parrish - attempting to sell: Florida

Highway officials on a plan for a new super toll-way. One that would run from Florida right through the heart of back woods Georgia.

As part of this case, Parrish observing "there's an old saying - which goes as follows: "One Yankee tourist is worth two bales of cotton - and is a heck of a lot easier to pick!"

CHIEF BLACK ELK

Perhaps you have heard about the passing of one of the best known Indians of recent times, a Sioux, Chief Black Elk, one of the most widely photographed of all Indians. We sat together at the Premier of the film How the West Was Won; at the Cooper Cinerama Theater in Denver After five or ten minutes of the film Chief Black Elk turned to me and said - "Ug, that isn't how the West was won that's how the West was lost! Ug!

HUTT RIVER PROVINCE

From Hutt River Prosvince in the Australian Out Back comes news today of what appears to be a remarkable find.

Farmer Leonard Casley purchasing at auction a box that originally belonged to an early government of Newfoundland way on the other side of the globe. Inside a number of letters and documents - including a brief love poem signed "Byron". According to Australian experts its an original Lord Byron - in his own hand - that seems never to have been published. Here's how it goes:

"You call me still your life;

Ah, change the word;

Life is as transient as an inconstant sigh.

Say, rather, I'm your soul;

More just that name, for,

Like the soul, my love can never die."

If not a Byron - well, a pretty good imitation.

And so long until Monday.
